Gasoline Leaks from Pipeline

Catches Fire on Leland Coontz Farm; Disaster Threatened, But No One Was Hurt

Several thousands of gallons of gasoline, which flowed from a break in a Phillips 66 pipe line, six miles south of Sedalia, burst into flames, about 9 o'clock this morning, and created much excitement in the neighborhood.

The break in the line was in the farm yard of Leland Coontz, on rural route 1, about 200 feet north of the farm home and beneath the roadway leading from the farm-to-market road to the farm home.

The break was believed to have occurred sometime early Thursday night, releasing the gasoline flow. Gasoline flowed out of the large hole into two small ditches along the farm home road, thence north to a deep drainage ditch along the farm-to-market road, thence west to a gully which circled under the Valda road, thence north around the Winzenburg grocery store at the junction of the Valda and Waterworks road. The flow of gasoline continued northward into a small stream bed. When the gasoline was ignited, about a quarter of a mile north of the break, it took only a matter of two or three minutes to burn back to the Coontz farm. The flames never ignited gasoline in the hole at the break, which probably saved the pipeline from a disastrous explosion.

Flames Leaped High

As the fire ran along the ditches, flames leaped high into the air and sent dark clouds of smoke into the air, which attracted a large gathering of farmers in the vicinity and some Sedalians who happened to be attracted by the billowing smoke clouds in the south. Along the line of fire, fence posts, telephone and electric poles were burned and damaged, all of which frightened the farmers as well as a telephone repair crew working along one ditch where the fire started.

A small stream into which some gasoline had flowed ignited and some fish in one "hole" were practically cooked. They were seen floating on top of the water after the fire.

In various points along the ditches, gasoline stood about 14 inches deep and two feet wide before the flames reached these points, according to Mr. Coontz. Gasoline, which spread out into fields also caught fire, and whereever the fire followed the gasoline, there are blackened paths.

Smelled Gasoline This Morning.

It was not determined how long the pipe had been broken. Mrs. Coontz said she smelled gasoline when she awakened this morning around 7:00 o'clock. The first to notice the leakage was Leland Coontz, Jr., around 8:30 o'clock, prior to the ignition. He said he put in a call to the bulk plant in Sedalia, and then went to a neighbor, A. B. Robertson, to warn him that gas was soaked in the ground in that area.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone company crew, who were in that area this morning repairing broken lines, said they smelled gasoline when they arrived, but thought the truck was flooded, and let it go at that. About five minutes later, three men were atop telephone poles when flames started leaping under and around them.

Henry Winzenburg, proprietor of a grocery store, said he first noticed the flames when they were rolling up his way in the branch. They missed his store by about 50 feet, and had the wind been in the south instead of the north, he said his store would have probably gone up in the blaze.

Wiremen Down in a Hurry

Duke McFarland, Gordon Williams and Lee Hart, telephone repairmen, were on poles when flames started leaping into the air in the ditch on the opposite side of the road. They made their way down the poles and out of the area in a hurry. Paul Huston, construction foreman, and Garry Tuggle, members of the crew were on the ground, and they and other members of the crew were unaware just how the blaze started.

Sedalia firemen who were called, went to the scene when it was stated the fire might cause a disaster in the neighborhood. Before they left the city emergency firemen had been called and reported for duty at the fire station.

Propose Freight Rate Cut

Examine Hole Caused by Break in Gasoline Pipeline

Spectators gathered around a hole in the gravel roadway of the Leland Coontz farm, six miles south of Sedalia, where a Phillips 66 gasoline pipeline had broken and released several thousands of gallons of gasoline during the night. The released gasoline ignited about 9:00 o'clock this morning and created excitement in the neighborhood, but flames failed to ignite gasoline in the hole which probably was responsible for no explosion occurring. Emergency Fact Finding Board Set up

Heads Off Railroad Strike Scheduled For February 27

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—President Truman today set up an emergency fact finding board, automatically heading off a nationwide railroad strike scheduled for Monday.

The action has the effect of delaying the proposed strike for 60 days.

Mr. Truman signed an executive order creating the board to investigate a dispute between the carriers and the Brotherhoods of Railway Conductors and Railroad Trainmen.

The names of the emergency board members will be announced later.

The dispute is between the brotherhoods and carriers represented by the eastern, the western and the southeastern carriers' conference committees.

Union Will Comply

Officials of the trainmen's brotherhood in Cleveland have said the union will comply with legal procedures provided by the railway labor act.

The conductors and the trainmen's brotherhood refused arbitration, which had been proposed by the national (railway) mediation board. Together the unions represent between 200,000 and 250,000 workers.

Appointment of a presidential fact finding board under the railway labor act requires both sides in the dispute to retain the status quo. The board has 30 days in which to make a report and no strike can be called for 30 days after the board's report is submitted, according to the law.

The union's principal demand is for a 40-hour week for some 85,000 yard service employes, without a cut in pay from their present 48-hour scale.

Negotiations began nearly a year ago. The unions asked for 13 changes in operating rules, and the nation's carrier asked for 17 changes.

B-45 Bomber Crashes

DAYTON, O., Feb. 24.—(AP)—A four-engined jet B-45 bomber from Wright-Patterson air force base crashed in flames eight miles north of Dayton at 12:30 p. m. The plane normally carries three to four men.

One man was reported to have parachuted from the plane before it crashed.

Campaign Platform Was Very Popular

MENSTON, England, Feb. 24—(AP)—Nine-year-old Dale Smith, running as a Communist, triumphed easily in a school mock election here yesterday.

Free ice cream for all children.

Let children collect the five-shilling (70 cents) per child weekly family allowances the government gives British parents for every child after the first.

Naval Attache To Bucharest Drops to Death

By G. K. Hodenfield

VIENNA, Austria, Feb. 24—(AP)—A man identified by police as the U. S. naval attache to Bucharest plunged to his death in a railroad tunnel south of Salzburg yesterday. Semi-official sources said today there is "no hint of foul play."

U. S. army investigators tentatively identified the man as Capt. Eugene Karpe, who was a close friend of Robert A. Vogeler, the American businessman sentenced to prison in Hungary Tuesday on charges of being an American spy.

Austrian police said papers on the battered body, found on the curve of a railway track, bore the name of Capt. Karpe. Police said Karpe may have been standing by a sleeping car door, losing his balance when the Paris-bound Arleberg express rounded the curve. It was known that Karpe suffered from gout, which made it difficult for him to stand erect.

May Have Been Slain

In Washington, however, officials said they were not eliminating the possibility that the officer may have been slain. Formal comment was being withheld pending further word from abroad. The navy reported Karpe had been in Bucharest since 1946. He was sent there as a naval member of the allied control commission.

The navy listed Karpe's hometown as Delhi, La., and said he was a former basketball player at the naval academy where he was graduated in 1926.)

Kansas Citian Hurt When Car Leaves Curve

Overturns And Burns Three Miles North of Sedalia

W. J. Noonan, Jr., representative of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Kansas City, was painfully but believed not seriously injured about 1:45 o'clock this morning when his automobile left a curve about three miles north of Sedalia on highway 65, overturned and burned. Noonan was thrown clear of the vehicle as it "flipped" over.

Noonan, at the Bothwell hospital where he was taken by two friends, told a newspaper reporter he was blinded by lights of an automobile or truck approaching from the opposite direction. He said as he went into the curve the lights blinded him and as the car hit the shoulder tried to pull back but was unable to do so. He was alone at the time.

Following Another Car

He was following Jack Fults and Joe Adams enroute to Marshall, according to state patrolman Wayne Allman and when Noonan failed to appear behind their car, they turned around and went back to look for him. They came upon the car and Noonan was a few feet away. They placed him in their car and took him to the hospital where Dr. E. L. Rhodes gave medical attention.

Trooper Allman said the car went over a slight ridge, turned over, knocking down a six foot Falstaff sign. The car then caught fire and was practically demolished. The car was a 1949 Plymouth coach. The Chamberlain wrecker was called and to get the car back to Sedalia it had to be loaded on a "low-boy" trailer.

Mrs. Noonan, his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Noonan, Sr., arrived in Sedalia this morning.

Governor Leaps Out an Open Elevator Door as Cage Slips

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24—(AP)—Gov Forrest Smith leaped through the open door of a slowly moving elevator at the Jefferson hotel last night when the heavily-loaded cage began to slip.

The brakes finally caught and no one was hurt.

The governor was in town for the annual gridiron dinner of the advertising club of St. Louis. He was prepared for a ribbing. But he was taking no chances and acted quickly in the elevator.

Smith had boarded the car at the mezzanine floor. When the cage started to slip the operator shouted a warning. The governor and an unidentified companion leaped from the car as the operator quickly opened the door.

An operator was seriously injured the night of the dinner last year in a 40 foot fall down the elevator shaft.

Smith and other public officials were put on the pan at the affair last night. In a pre-dinner celebration, the governor was kidded about his proposed gasoline tax increase.

He was seized at the door by a group of Illinois filling station operators who invited him across the river where gasoline can be bought cheap.

Charges of Contempt Hold Good

Judge Orders Coal Miners to Trial Monday; States Have Emergency Measures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech today set Monday for trial of the United Mine Workers on charges of contempt for disregarding his order to end the coal strike. Conviction could bring multi-million dollar fines against the union.

Keech set the trial date after a brief hearing. UMW attorneys had come before him in response to an order for them to "show cause" why the union should not be held in contempt of court.

Today's hearing offered the union a chance to show it had "purged" itself of contempt. But that was not brought up because it would have meant showing the union was now complying with the judge's "stop strike" order.

Instead, the union attorneys argued Keech had no right to issue his "stop strike" order. They moved that the contempt charges be dropped. Keech overruled that.

Keech told union attorneys they could have a jury trial if they desired.

Welly K. Hopkins, chief UMW attorney, said he would consider over the week end whether to ask for a jury trial.

Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morison asked that the trial start tomorrow. He noted that since the original court back-to-work order, issued Feb. 11, "there has been no increase in production of the bituminous mines of this country."

Urging the need for speed in the case, Morison said:

Adopt Emergency Measures

"At least 20 states have adopted emergency measures to take care of the coal supply.

"Virtually all of the nation's cities have the same problem.

"If this contempt is established in appropriate trial then it is the view of the government that the full power and majesty of this court" be used to get the miners back on the job.

Hopkins objected to having the trial start tomorrow.

Judge Keech then set it for Monday.

The judge denied Hopkins' formal motion that the civil and criminal contempt charges be dropped and the proceedings be ended.

Union attorneys had argued the court had no right to issue back to work orders to the miners.

Attorneys Answer

Replying to charges that the union is in contempt of the court's back to work order, the attorneys:

1. Denied the union called the walkout.

2. Denied the union was responsible for continuing the idleness which has cut the nation's coal supply to famine level.

The UMW attorneys told Judge Richmond B. Keech that the strike was a result of individual action by the 370,000 soft coal diggers.

"Refusal to work was and is entirely without suggestion, direction or authorization of the respondent union and wholly in contempt of and contrary to the directions aforesaid by the respondent through its officers," said Welly K. Hopkins.

Hopkins is chief attorney for the union. Stripped of his legal phrases, his argument meant that John L. Lewis, as president of the mine workers, had ordered them back to work in compliance with the court's order, but the miners had not obeyed.

Order Now in Effect

Judge Keech has issued a temporary restraining order against a strike on Feb. 11. The order; once extended, is good until March 3.

Hopkins said that the only powers the union has are those of recommendation. He pointed out that Lewis and his fellow officers had sent two back to work orders to the miners since the court's decree without avail.

Hopkins also argued that Keech's order for the miners to go back to work without a contract was "involuntary servitude" and therefore was unconstitutional.

Hopkins said that the union's international executive board, which has the power to call a strike after a referendum vote of the membership, had issued no strike call.

The union has not "done any act to cause, induce, engage in, permit or encourage any alleged continuance," Hopkins said.

"Communist influence in France is weakening as economic conditions improve," Bingham said, "but the orders from Moscow plainly call for a still more concentrated effort."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—The Cio-Communications Workers today charged the Western Electric Company with unfair labor practices for refusing to negotiate with the union in government-sponsored talks here.

The charges were filed with the National Labor Relations Board.

Blast of Snow From Canada Over Midwest

Chicago Gets Second Heavy Snowfall; Traffic Slowed

By The Associated Press

A blast of cold air from Canada spread across the snow-covered midwest today and sent temperatures to around 30 degrees below-zero in some areas. Snow fell over many sections of the cold belt.

The fast-moving storm headed eastward and was expected to move into the New England states by tonight. The northeastern part of the country was digging out from one of the season's worst sleet and snow storms.

The icy air covered the northern plains states and the upper Mississippi valley. Temperatures were below zero as far south as northern Iowa and were near zero in parts of northern Illinois.

Chicago got another heavy snowfall, the second this week, with more than four inches falling during the night. Traffic was slowed and some plane operations disrupted. Snow also fell in parts of Indiana, southern Michigan and northern Ohio.

Thirty Below

The mercury dipped to near 30 below zero in North Dakota and Minnesota early today. No immediate relief from the cold was forecast for the north central section. High readings forecast for northern Minnesota today were 5 to 15 below zero

Light snow was reported in the western Dakotas and eastern Montana while rain fell over most of the Pacific northwest. Generally fair weather was reported over the southern half of the country.

Temperatures, outside the frosty midwest, were near the seasonal normal and were a little above normal from the Rockies westward. Some early morning readings included Boston 24; Richmond 31; Miami 68; Detroit 27; Nashville 42; Denver 38; Spokane 38, and Albuquerque 43.

Can't Stomach Red Literature, But Eat Food They Donated

CAN'T STOMACH 2-24 ital ....

MUSE, Pa., Feb. 24—(AP)—Many of the 1200 miners in this Southwestern Pennsylvania coal town are eating Communist-donated food today—but they say they can't stomach the literature that came with it.

Canned goods, laced with Communist signs and pamphlets, arrived from New York City for distribution among needy diggers in the big "no contract no work" strike.

United Mine Workers Local 5600 refused the cargo. The food and literature then were taken into a club across the street from union headquarters.

One club member said: "They got it in the club by trickery. If they ever try again, they'll find it dumped on the street.

Other club members destroyed the party literature before permitting the food to be distributed.

The cans of food were handed out by a handful of men who refused to identify themselves.

One miner said:

"We don't think much of it (the distribution) but we are hungary. We'll take the food."

Another miner tucked cans of food in his pockets and declared:

Stumbling Blocks to Socialism

Late Victories For Conservatives in England's Election; Record Vote Out

LONDON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee's Labor party held only a narrow lead tonight in its bid to rule Britain for five more years, and faced the possibility of going into the new House of Commons with an unworkable majority.

Late Conservative victories threw up stumbling blocks on the road to Socialism. The Labor party, which had held an overnight lead of 61 seats, saw its advantage steadily whittled away as additional returns were tabulated from the 625 districts electing members too the House of Commons. Several times the count between the Laborites and their combined opposition was a standoff. Then the Laborites began building up a lead again and gained 17 seats in two hours.

Shortly after 6 p. m. the Laborites held a lead of 20 seats over their combined opposition. With 95 per cent of the vote counted, the results were:

Labor 308 seats, Conservatives and allied candidates 281, Liberals seven.

Need Thirty Seats

Labor needed a majority of at least 30 seats to function effectively, its leaders said.

Conservative party experts said at 6 p. m., that prospects of their winning a clear-cut victory looked "quite hopeless." But one analyst declared:

"Whichever government wins it will not stay in power long."

This posed the possibility of new elections if the Labor party emerged with a final victory but met defeat in the House of Commons on a vote of confidence.

Winston Churchill, who spearheaded the Conservatives along the comeback trail after their landslide defeat in 1945, said:

A Record Vote

The total vote in the elections, held yesterday, broke all records. In the first 550 districts 25,216,425 votes were counted, compared with the previous high for all districts of 25,018,393 in 1945. Eighty-five per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls in the 550 districts. The national average in 1945 was 73 per cent.

There will be 625 seats in the new House of Commons. There were 640 in the last house and the Laborites held 381 seats, the Conservatives 202.

Churchill himself re-elected by a big margin, told his constituency at Woodford:

"We cannot tell and I am certainly not going to pronounce what is going to happen, but it is abvious parliament is going to be in a very unstable condition.

Vote at 11 a. m.

"All we can do is to keep our eyes steadily fixed on the main purpose to bring our country back to the forefront of the nations and to make her a home for all our people."

The popular vote at 11 a. m. (CST) was:

Labor 11,698,099, Conservatives 10,938,204, Liberals 2,318,247.

With the race so close it was possible that votes in four constituencies in the remote parts of Scotland could have an important bearing on the issue. Because of travel difficulties they will not report on how they voted until next Monday.

The constituences are in the highlands an dislands off the Scottish coast. Of the four one voted Liberal National, one for Labor, and two for the Conservatives in 1945.

Lewis' Brother Shot to Death

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—Thomas A. Lewis, 67, brother of John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, was found shot to death today in his home here.

Deputy Coroner Catherine Rutherford said he had shot himself because of ill health.

Mrs. Rutherford said Lewis' wife, Leonore, discovered her husband's body in the bathtub on the second floor of the home. A revolver was lying near the body.

The deputy coroner said that Lewis, a retired Immigration Service employe, had been in ill health for some time and suffered a severe heart attack yesterday.

It was the second time in six weeks that death occurred in the Lewis family. Mrs. Ann Louisa Lewis, mother of the UMW leader died here Jan. 12 at the age of 91.

Perfectionism

Perfectionism means a striving after supreme excellence. The perfectionist may be an artist trying to create something that is flawless in design and execution. He may be a workman intent on doing a job that is completely competent. Or he may be an individual with an intense desire to pattern his life in full accord with the will of God.

Every human being has a duty to bring the best in him to every task. There should be perfectionists in every office and factory. Parents and teachers cannot afford to be negligent or slip-shod in the vital roles assigned to them. A great responsibility rests on leaders of government lest hasty or careless decisions spell widespread disaster or calamity.

It must be remembered, however, that perfectionism sometimes becomes a vice rather than virtue. The perfectionist may give up a task because he sees too many imperfections in the work already done. Or he may waste hours or days trying to iron out unimportant imperfections from unimportant products. In the spiritual order, perfectionism may degenerate into scrupulosity.

Very often perfectionism leads to sloth. A man who finds his efforts unsatisfying may gradually acquire the habit of taking it easy and doing as little as he can get by with. Sometimes perfectionism may be motivated by vanity or human respect. Often the perfectionist's trouble is that he wants to be considered a genius and cannot abide the slightest reflection on his genius.

Perfectionism must always be accompanied by a sensible regard for one's own limitations. There are no absolute standards in perfectionism. Not all artists can produce masterpieces. Some must be content to do work that is at least technically flawless. A writer may turn out a sound book that is not literature. And so on.

Perfectionism nevertheless always makes high demands. This is especially true in the spiritual life. These demands call for humility, exalted resolve, constant prayer, and ready submission to God's will. The spiritual perfectionists are those with the single aim of imitating the perfection of Christ. They may fall many times from grace, but through penance and self-control they ultimately achieve the infinitely great goal of uniting themselves forever with God.

Secretary of State is In Trouble

Doesn't Know The Political Faith Of Newspapers

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 24—(AP)—How do you tell whether a newspaper is Republican, Democratic or independent?

That was the question puzzling Secretary of State Walter H. Toberman. He had to find a workable solution, because the law says he has to designate two newspapers in each county—of opposite political faith—to publish the four cent gas tax law to be voted on at a referendum election April 4.

So Toberman took the question to Attorney General J. E. Taylor. He came up today with this conclusion:

(1) The secretary of state may determine a newspaper's politics from the way it is listed with the Missouri Press Association or with the secretary of state's own blue book department. But that alone is not enough.

Other Considerations

(2) The secretary of state may also consider whether the newspaper has actually supported the candidates and policies of the party it claims to represent.

(3) As for a newspaper which calls itself an independent paper, it "is not a newspaper of any political faith and therefore is not entitled to be designated (to publish the election information) except in the absence of newspapers representing two political faiths."

Assistant Attorney General Robert R. Welborn, who wrote the opinion, also noted that "The known politics of the owner would not have any bearing on the matter unless the newspaper also supported and carried out such politics."

"All Democrats"

Reporters asked Toberman why he didn't solve the problem by just calling up the editors and asking them the politics of their papers.

"Well, you know, they all tell me their Democrats when I talk to them," Toberman smiled. Like the other elected state officials, he is a Democrat.

He said the question of newspaper politics "isn't pestering me as much as another problem—what can we do in a county where no newspaper is willing to take the official publication?"

He hasn't found the answer to that one yet.

In counties where two papers are designated, each will receive $336 to carry the official notice twice—a cost of $672 for each county.

That makes a total publication cost of $77,280 for the whole state.

Attend Insurance Clinic

A number of Sedalia insurance agents attended an insurance clinic of the Missouri 1752 club which was held all day Thursday at the Bothwell hotel.

The fire panel was composed of William Dow of Mansfield, O.; H. R. Gist, Columbia, Mo. The casualty panel was composed of J. R. Pound and Kenny Kay.

In 1752, Benjamin Franklin started the first fire insurance company in America, the Philadelphia and Contributionship, which is still in operation.

H. M. Anderson of Kansas City was chairman of the clinic.

Sedalia Woman Wins Award In Crazy Hat Contest in K. C.

Mrs. William Schutt, 3600 South Kentucky avenue, Wednesday attended the program "Luncheon on the Plaza" at Sears Roebuck store in Kansas City which is broadcast over station WHB at 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. Schutts entered the crazy hat contest wearing a hat representing a farm yard, which was a winner and as an award she received a large box of food. The clever hat worn by Mrs. Schutts was a wide brimmed affair and not only had the farm house and other buildings surrounded by a fence, the many animals and fowls found in a farm yard but also had a little man milking and a woman churning. Mrs. Schutts had used the small farm figures several years ago as a table centerpiece when she entertained for a bride who was marrying a farmer. When she decided to attend the program and enter the contest Mrs. Schutts got out the little farm yard and put it on a hat. She had a little difficulty going up on the train she dropped the hat and the figures, at least part of them came off.

Friends helped her pick them up and someone suggested sticking them on with nail polish, producing from her purse a small bottle of polish. And it worked. But by the time they reached Kansas City and the time drew closer for the program the figures began to come loose again. This time, in desperation, Mrs. Schutts used adhesive tape and managed to keep all of the animals intact long enough to win in the contest.

Another Sedalian was presented with a corsage at the same program for being the oldest persons there. She was Mrs. Fred Knehans, who was 76 years old on January 30. Mrs. Knehans has been spending the winter months in Kansas City with her daughter, Mrs. Oscar Samuelson.

Another Drop In Living Cost

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A government report today on consumer prices in January was expected to show another drop in the U. S. cost of living.

The labor department report (about 11 a. m. EST) may show a dip sufficient to bring a wage cut to the 362,000 General Motors workers whose pay is tied by contract to the Bureau of Labor Statistics index.

A price decline is usual in January, officials said, because of the seasonal decline in food prices, January sales, and other factors. Wholesale prices have climbed in recent weeks, but the rises have not had time to affect retail price tags.

The consumer's index dropped more than a full point in December—the biggest drop in any month last year—and stood at 167.5 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

General Motors' agreement with the CIO United Auto Workers contains a sliding wage clause. The pay rate, which now averages $1.64 an hour, moves up or down at the rate of one cent hourly for each 1.14 point change in the official index, but does not go below a fixed minimum.

Department Store Sales Slightly up

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24—(AP)—Department store sales in the federal reserve bank's eighth district in the week ended Feb. 18 averaged slightly higher than in the same week a year ago.

In Little Rock, Ark., however, sales dropped 6 per cent. Louisville, Ky., recorded a two per cent drop.

Biggest increase in volume of sales was recorded by St. Louis and Memphis, Tenn., each with a 2 per cent gain.

The bank's weekly report said sales were up substantially in the smaller shopping centers, including Fort Smith, Ark., and Springfield, Mo. Grouped with other towns, these centers averaged an increase of 14 per cent.

Kiss Has Town Buzzing

Charlotte McClain (above) 16 was kissed by Riddell Riggs, 16, when he crowned her baskteball queen of Bethany, Okla., and the central Oklahoma "blue law" town hasn't heard the last of it yet. Since kissing is taboo, 30 students walked out fearing punishment. Five leaders were suspended from school. Angry parents are now threatening court action against the strict school authority. Not Yet Told Of Robbery

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24—(AP)—Aged multimillionaire William G. Mather was still unaware today that seven hooded gunmen had terrorized his household and looted the mansion of $350,000 in gems while he was peacefully sleeping.

Members of the household said the 92-year-old iron ore and shipping magnate had not been told of yesterday's robbery because of his health.

Police Chief William T L'Estrange said last night he was convinced the robbers, who brandished a submachine-gun and revolvers, were "an out-of-town gang."

L'Estrange said the holdup trail seemed to lead to New York. He explained he had learned that most of the servants hired by the Mathers in recent years had been obtained through a New York agency. Some have left the household and their whereabouts is being checked, he added.

Price Cuts on GM Cars-Trucks

DETROIT, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Price cuts ranging from $10 to $40 on the prices of all its cars and trucks were announced today by General Motors Corp. The reductions are effective immediately and come with announcement of downward adjustment in the cost living allowance given GM em-employes.

An adjustment of the cost of living allowawnce given GM employes is part of the contract between GM and its hourly and salaried workers. It is revised according to the cost of living index of the bureau of labor statistics.

Under the terms of the adjustment formula, there will be a two cents an hour reduction in the cost-of-living allowance for 290,000 hourly rated employes and a $10 quarterly reduction in cost of living bonuses paid approximately 72,000 salaried workers. This revision will be effective March 1.

Elimination Withholding Tax Asked For

Former Secretary Of State Byrnes Expresses Opinion

James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State and "Assistant President" during the World War II, today called for the elimination of the withholding tax, maintaining that it was neither sound nor honest to give the taxpayer a "mild anesthetic" while his money is being taken from him.

Writing in Collier's, Byrnes said that under the withholding tax system, millions of workers do not realize they are paying income taxes.

"If like others, he (the taxpayer) had to pay quarterly installments out of the money he had already taken home, I predict it would result in reducing appropriations several billions of dollars," Byrnes wrote in the Collier's article, entitled "Crisis Government Can Ruin Us."

"It costs the employers time and money to collect the taxes from their employees, and it often makes the employee angry with the employer.

Should Work Both Ways

"Taxes should not be collected from them every pay day when employers are allowed to pay their taxes quarterly.

"The employees should be treated just as are the employers; they are equally as honest."

"It may be argued that if employees are treated this way, the government would lose some money. Even if this were true, the people would save money."

Byrnes called on all employers in the nation to insert an informative slip in each worker's pay envelope.

"Let him (the employer) have printed and placed in every worker's pay envelope a slip stating: 'The amount of your pay is——. I have been forced by the government to deduct from your pay for income taxes—and for Social Security taxes—.'

"When the worker's wife gets that slip she will think of many things she could have purchased with the amount deducted, and the chances are she will think of writing her Congressman about government expenditures."

Gives Warning

In the Collier's article, Byrnes, now a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of South Carolina, warned that the American people will lose its liberties unless the growth of big government, big spending and big borrowing is halted.

As an example, he maintained that he could not think of "one compelling reason" for the country to change from its present health system "that is giving us progressive and sensationally good results" to one that he believes is "doubtful and experimental."

"Proposals for some kind of socialization in this field are put forward as a 'must'—a word that is an insult to the Congress, though, unfortunately, many of its members do not seem to realize it," he wrote. "General health conditions in the United States are excellent, and improving rapidly.

Must Train Doctors

"Regardless of how much money is appropriated for a government bureau, you cannot get medical treatment for more people unless you have more doctors. But you cannot secure a doctor by legislation—he must be trained. Medical colleges are already working on their own to increase their faculties and their students.

"If the politicians will let the doctors alone, the government will be able to continue its boasts about improved health conditions."

Byrnes revealed that socialized medicine was not proposed by the late President Roosevelt and quoted FDR as saying in a 1940 radio speech that "neither the American people nor their government intend to socialize medical practice any more than they plan to socialize industry."

No Crisis Now

"So far as I know, he did not thereafter change his views," Byrnes said.

To pay his federal taxes, the average worker today puts in about 47 days a year—close to one day a week, the former Secretary continued. But if the government's proposed programs such as socialized medicine, federal aid to education and new-plant construction—are put into effect, the average worker will then have to give the pay from 67 days of his work to pay federal taxes of all kinds.

"When there is a real crisis, it is necessary to give the ventral government extraordinary powers. But today there is no war and no depression. There is no crisis that justifies continuing those powers unmodified, let alone extending them."

One-Armed Man Gets Passport

TEXARKANA, Ark., Feb. 24—(AP)—A one-armed painter had to have a passport to get out of this border city yesterday.

The man, hitch hiking to Kansas City, arrived during the hunt for five prisoners, including a one-armed man, who broke out of the Bowie county, Texas, jail at Boston Wednesday night.

After he had been returned here several times by officers hunting the prisoners, Deputy Sheriff Frank Riley furnished the passport, a document certifying that he was not one of the fugitives, and drove him to Ashdown, Ark.

The last word from the man, whose name Riley did not disclose, is that he was picked up by Little River County Sheriff Tom Jester at Ashdown, but immediately cleared by his "passport."

The last of the escaped prisoners were captured near here last night.

Pike County Judge Against Gas Tax Law

Writes Members Of Association of His Opinions

BOWLING GREEN, Mo., Feb.—(AP) — Pike County Judge H. H. Palmer has asked all the county judges in Missouri to join him in opposing Gov. Forrest Smith's four cent gasoline tax law.

Palmer is presiding judge of the Pike county court and vice-president of the Missouri Judges' association. He said today he sent a letter to other county judges, urging defeat of the law, in his capacity as an official of the judges' association.

The governor's plan to double the present two cent tax comes up for a vote at a special referendum election April 4.

The law includes a pledge by the state highway commission that it will use one cent of the extra revenue to build low type rural roads. But Palmer expressed doubt about that promise in the letter he sent other judges and newspapers of the state.

Charges Doublecrossing

"It looks like the highway department is going to doublecross the counties again," he wrote. "According to newspaper reports, they are making a deal with the city officials for support on the gas tax vote. Where will that leave the counties?

"They have been asking for more money for the state roads. If they pass out some of this money to the cities, will there be any left for the county roads? You all know what has happened to us in the past. It looks like we will be left in the same boat again.

"A personal friend of mine in the attorney general's office advised me that the legislature could not earmark a cent of the road money for rural roads or any other purpose as it must all go through the highway department. It is my opinion that if this law passes, they will quote the law to us and that will leave us out."

Hits At Contractors

Palmer charged "the contractors, who are financing the campaign for the increase, have no interest in building rural roads."

"Let's take a good look before we connect ourselves with an organization that has always built slab roads and is not interested in mud roads," he urged.

"I am against this gas tax bill and I hope you are too. I am sending a copy of this letter to the newspaper sand I hope you will back me up."

'He'd Broken Laws Before' Witness Said

Declared Doctor Made That Statement In Conversation

By Henry L. Supple

MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24—(AP)—A hospital records keeper testified today that Dr. Herman N. Sander said he knew he had broken a law in the "mercy killing" death of a cancer patient and added "he'd broken laws before — he'd been through stop signs."

Miss Josephine Connor, medical librarian at Hillsboro county hospital, calmly told a 13-man jury about a conversation she said she heard between a county medical referee and Sander.

Dr. Sander is being tried on a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59, Manchester housewife.

Broken Laws Before

"Dr. Biron asked if he Sander) realized he had broken the law. Dr. Sander said 'Yes, he'd broken laws before — he'd been through stop signs.

"Dr. Biron said this was more serious. This was murder . . . Dr. Sander said he did realize he'd broken the law but the law should be changed.

"Dr. Biron said 'Why didn't you change it first — before you did this?"

Dr. Sander's Answer

Dr. Sander sat cross-legged, chewing a candy drop as he heard the nurse testify that he gave this answer when Dr. Biron asked him about the manner of Mrs. Borroto's death:

"Dr. Sander's answer to that was 'Well, Mr. Borroto was so tired and if you could have seen him up all night drinking coffee and smoking you would have been sorry for him, too'."

Miss Connor said Dr. Biron then put the question flatly to Dr. Sander:

"Why did you do it?"

She said Dr. Sander did not answer "other than Mr. Borroto was tired and had a hard night."

Dr. Biron then asked Sander, the nurse testified, if he realized the seriousness of it and "that it might be brought up at a later date."

Dr. Sander replied, Miss Connor said, that "he saw no reason why it should be."

J. C. Nichols Will is Filed

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24.—(AP)—J. C. Nichols, nationally known real estate man who died recently, left the bulk of his estate, estimated at several million dollars, in trust with his widow to receive the income during her lifetime.

The will was filed for probate today. It provides that after the death of Mrs. Nichols his estate will be held in trust for his three children.

Under the will's provisions, the children who are 40 years old (or upon reaching that age) are to receive half their share of the trust estate and the other half is to be kept in trust with the income paid to them for their lifetime.

At the death of any of the three children, the income from the trust estate would be paid to the children of the heir until they reach the age of 21. Then the principal would be distributed to the grandchildren of Nichols.

Nichols' three children are Miller Nichols, Jesse Clyde Nichols, Jr., and Mrs. Eleanor N. Allen.

The only specific bequest, aside from personal property, was the bestowal of 400 shares of J. C. Nichols Company stock to Ansel N. Mitchell, a nephew who is superintendent of the firm's construction department.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

U. S. Roving Ambassador Philip Jessup has slipped quietly into New Delhi, India, but while his advent has been unheralded and unsung we are safe in interpreting it as a matter of prime international importance.

There are two things which support this assumption. One is that the distinguished but unobtrusive Jessup is a key figure in the development of Washington's Far Eastern policy. The other is that India bids fair to emerge as chief of the independent democracies of Asia.

Thus we reach the conclusion that America's policy in that part of the world must be heavily influenced by India. And when we speak of India we are, of course, thinking of her dynamic leader, Prime Minister Nehru, one of the world's great personalities who recently made an extensive tour of the United States.

Hope For Joint Program

It is interesting that as Prime Minister Nehru and Ambassador Jessup got together in India, Secretary of State Dean Acheson should be discussing the Far Eastern position with the Senate foreign relations committee in Washington. He said the State Department is looking hopefully for the countries of southeast Asia to join together in an economic, political and social program backed by American dollar aid.

However, Acheson said any such association must be spontaneous and the U. S. government must wait for those nations to act first. He added that there are no concrepe results yet.

Quite likely is it concrete results which Jessup seeks in New Delhi.

For Freedom Without Communism

Broadly speaking America's policy has been aimed at a solution which would give the peoples of southeast Asia freedom without Communism. Nehry is important as a symbol of successful nationalist forces which have found a solution that isn't Communist.

Nehru has made it plain that India won't join any anti-Communist bloc. This doesn't mean that he is pro-Communist but that he doesn't propose to get involved in the ideological war. Hence America's willingness to accept the idea of a spontaneous association of Asiatic nations with which Washington can cooperate.

India's Support Vital

Since India's support is vital for the formation of such an association, Jessup undoubtedly is discussing that matter with Nehru. The ambassador also is bound to be putting his best foot forward to strengthen relations between India and America.

It is an amazing thing to find India, which received its independence from England less than three years ago, today assuming such a position of leadership in the Far East.

Of course the Orient is in a state of turmoil; it is in the melting pot. Still it is possible to say that India may be the paramount nation of the Far East, and certainly will rank as one of the world's dominant powers. China is bigger in area and population, and has greater resources, but the question of whether that shattered and disunited country will again rank as one of the "Big Five" powers is highly problematical.

Statement to Reporters

Jessup yesterday made a statement to reporters which was virtually an echo of Secretary Acheson's statement before the Senate committee. The ambassador declared America isn't indulging in a struggle for power in the Far East.

The aim of the United States, Jessup said, "is to support the independent development of peoples which we see threatened primarily by this expanding imperialism" of the Soviet Union.

Bert Andrews—New GOP Publicist?

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON. — Bert Andrews, Pulitzer prize-winning chief of the New York Herald Tribune's Washington bureau, has been offered the man-size job of breathing life into the Republican party.

Officially, Andrews' position would be GOP director of public relations—a job now vacant. However, in view of Andrews' thorough knowledge of Washington politics, GOP chairman Guy Gabrielson is expected to give him an almost free hand in guiding the party's destiny.

Though hard pressed for funds, the Republican national committee feels that Andrews would perform political miracles and consequently have offered him a $40,000 contract to run for seven years.

Civilian Defense Speeded

It's an unpleasant but inescapable fact that civilian defense preparations for dealing with any surprise attack on the United States are being speeded up in important talks inside the Pentagon building.

The old days of air-raid wardens, sand buckets and tin hats are now over, and the new civilian defense against atomic war will concentrate chiefly on diversification of industry, blood plasma, and underground garages.

Medical experiments, as a result of the Hiroshima bombing, have shown that whole blood and plasma are the only effective treatment for radioactivity. Thus, large blood banks must be built up.

Also under consideration are underground garages in all major cities. It is believed that these not only can help to solve downtown traffic problems, but serve as air-raid shelters in case of emergency. The program now under consideration may be so great that federal funds will be advanced to states or cities.

Military planners have also been considering the whole field of war-plant dispersal. In general it's believed that it would be too expensive to uproot certain major industries, such as the auto industry in Detroit. Instead, military planners propose duplicate facilities built on a stand-by-basis.

The civilian defense program may lead to enormous expansion of industrial capacity and the relocation of some parts of the population, but there will be no drastic changes overnight.

The Army Walks

Testifying before the House Armed Services committee, Defense Secretary Louis Johnson was asked why the draft act had to be extended to get men into the Army.

"We don't need legislation to get recruits for the Navy and Air Forces," remarked Congressman Doyle of Long Beach, Calif.

"Mr. Doyle's question can be answered very simply," interrupted chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia. "The Navy floats . . . the Air Force flies . . . the Army walks."

Lewis's Tragic Climax

John L. Lewis, at the age of 70, has reached the most tragic climax of his long career.

His tragedy lies in that he has done more for one great segment of labor than any other individual in history, yet the more he has done for the miners, the less demand he has created for their product. As a result other fuels today have become almost as important as coal.

Another tragedy is that, in waging his battle, John L. and his bushy eyebrows, his stentorian statements and his bulldozing manner have become such a symbol of dislike to the American public that there is little sympathy for the miners he represents. And they deserve sympathy.

Finally, John L., aged, lonely and at the peak of his career, appears to have lost control of his miners for the first time. He had partly lost control during the three-day week, which many of them blamed on him, not understanding that the demand for coal had lessened.

Now they are sore at the operators and Taft-Hartley, and the government which has invoked the T-H act.

Sick Industry

The truth is that the coal industry is sick. And Lewis, by his work stoppages to win wage increases, has made it sicker. Every strike he called, every wage boost he won increased the demand for oil and natural gas, until today only 26 per cent of the nation's passenger trains burn coal, as against 68 per cent two years ago. Today, also, so many factories, electric power plants and homes are turning to oil that it is doubtful the mines will ever need to work much more than three days a week except in case of emergencies.

That is why President Truman, if he really wanted to solve the coal crisis, could have appointed not a fact-finding board for wages but a fuel commission.

What the nation needs to know is whether certain unproductive mines should not be closed down with other mines operating full time; whether some miners should not move to other jobs, allowing other mines to work full time. In brief, what the very sick coal industry needs is not prolonged bickering, but over-all planning.

Dewey Dictum

J. Russel Sprague, shrewd political adviser to Tom Dewey, had a meeting with GOP leaders in and around New York City the other day. He, Sprague, laid down orders that the party leaders must:

1. Pledge their support for Dewey's renomination, if Dewey decides to run, and
2. If Dewey decides to step out, they must support his choice for the nomination.

GOP leaders went along on the first request, but refused to swallow number two.

U.S. vs. U.S.S.R. Justice

Larry Todd, the thin, red-cheeked reporter for the Russian news agency, Tass, rushed into the State Department's press office to ask: "Does the department have a statement on the arrest of Klaus Fuchs?"

Roger Tubby, an assistant to Secretary Dean Acheson, looked up and said no. Then, he added: "This goes to show the difference between the American and Russian systems. Over here," he continued, "a man accused of giving secrets to the Russians is investigated openly before congressional committees. The story is in all the papers and on the radio. The case is argued on forums. The trial is public.

"But, in Russia," concluded Tubby, "if a man is accused of giving secrets to the U.S., he just vanishes. No stories, no trial, no man."

Football Dictatorship

Peron's dictatorship in Argentina gets to looking more and more every day like one of the iron curtain "popular democracies." This now applies even to football.

The glib Gaucho's latest move to get in step with his totalitarian colleagues was the arrest of two professional football players who tried to leave the country in order to play in Colombia.

Half a dozen of the best Argentine players have been lured away by Colombian teams during the past year. As a result, Buenos Aires outfits are now so relatively weak that the government has refused to send a team to the world soccer championship, to be held in Rio de Janeiro next July.

However, no official action had previously been taken to prevent players from leaving Argentina. That was why an Argentine who joined a Colombian team last spring announced in Bogota that he would renew his contract in Colombia "because in this country," he said, "I can live like a gentleman and am treated like one."

Thirty-six hours later, two Buenos Aires stars, Vincente de La Mata and Jose Arnaldo, went to the airport in the Argentine capital to board a plane for Colombia. Argentine federal police, however, detained them and took them back to the city, charged with "income-tax irregularities."

The following day, the Argentine minister of education Oscar Ivanissevich told a luncheon gathering:

"Just as we shall see to it that Argentina is not flooded with alien customs and cultural products, so we shall prevent the best of our own national life being taken from us."

Honest Self-Criticism Is Prime Need of Labor

By Bruce Biossat

Labor leaders don't often indulge in self-criticism, so when they do the event should be marked well.

We had such an instance the other day when George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, took his fellow unionists to task for too often ignoring the general good while serving their own selfish interests.

The labor movement, he said, probably "places too much emphasis on the narrow policy of higher wages and shorter hours to the neglect of other important matters."

Brother Harrison's words are refreshing. It's the first inkling we've had that labor may not be as pure as its spokesmen so stutly maintain.

No reasonable person wants labor to nod an eager second to every charge leveled against it, or to indulge in a rash of self-censure. But it would be welcome proof of growing maturity if unions would concede they are as much guilty of human error and excess as the next fellow.

Unfortunately the chief offenders in promoting the idea that labor is without sin have been its highest leaders, William Green, president of the AFL, and Philip Murray, head of the CIO. One may comb their public remarks diligently without encountering the slightest hint that all is not perfect within their domains.

This attitude was most pointedly evident in the 1947 and 1949 congressional hearings on the Taft-Hartley law. Undoubtedly many lawmakers approached labor law revision in vindictive fashion. But many others were moderate men earnestly worried by the impact of labor strife on the general welfare.

These men sought vainly first to get labor to admit shortcomings which were plainly written in the nation's economic history, and second to propose its own plan for better labor relations. Unions took the view that no problems existed and hence no law was needed.

It's hard for a bystander to see how this juvenile stubbornness is any more commendable than the blindness of the many industrialists who so long insisted there was no "labor problem."

Taft-Hartley will loom large in the 1950 election campaign. And if the Democrats retain their grip on Congress, next year is certain to see another try at repealing that act.

The best thing Green and Murray can do meantime is to engage in the sort of searching self-examination suggested by Harrison in his recent Detroit speech. When they come to Capitol Hill a third time, let them be ready to offer an honest labor program of their own. The country has had enough of these absurd professions of lily-white innocence.

Operation Etiquetchup

The Army handed out a stern lesson in table manners recently. Two enlisted men were court-martialed for refusing to pass the ketchup to a sergeant.

"Increased respect for senior non-commissioned officers, along with a keener awareness of correct table manners, is expected of all GI's as the result of the trial," said the Army.

This sounds as if the top brass expected the boys to rush out and gobble up copies of Emily Post's Etiquette.

A more likely result will be a new password to denote the approach of a sergeant: "Please pass the ketchup.

THE DISRUPTIVE EFFECTS OF ANGER

Now that we have seen the possibilities of righteous anger for good, let us look at the possibilities of resentments for evil.

There was a time when men thought that to get angry and hold resentments was just too bad; holding resentments made people difficult to get along with but nothing much happened except just that. We know now the fallacy of that belief, for in the cold white light of science the effects of anger are being revealed.

First, upon the intestinal tract. Some doctors put a tube down through the nostrils of a man into his stomach. They tested the contents of his stomach according to the states of his mind. When he was in good humor, digestion went on normally; but after they had purposely made him angry, digestion completely stopped. Only when they brought him back into good humor would digestion start again. This fact was at the basis of a doctor's advice when he said: "You ought to feel good-minded when you eat. If you don't feel good-minded, you'd better lay off from your eating."

A doctor could not find any physical basis for the constant vomiting of one of his patients. One day she incidentally remarked that her mother-in-law was coming to visit her at Thanksgiving. Taking this chance remark as a clue, he sent for the husband, persuaded him to wire his mother suggesting the postponement of her visit, told the wife that the mother-in-law was not coming, and the vomiting stopped. The resentments had upset her digestion.

The doctors tell us that stomach ulcers are often caused by anger and resentments, and that they will return even after they are cut out by operation, the edges of the wound becoming ulcerated again, if the resentments are not eliminated.

Such scientific revelation makes it quite clear that the stomach in its very constitution is made for good will and not for ill will.

Anger may cause arthritis. A mother-in-law did not like her son-in-law, whom she visited once a year. Every time she went to visit him she developed arthritis, and every time she came home again she was well.

O God, my Father, I see that good will brings harmony and peace and effectiveness, and that ill will makes for disharmony, upset and ineffectiveness—it lays a paralyzing hand on soul and body. Then save me from any clinging resentments. Help me to pull them up by the roots. Amen.

It's Not Hard for Wife to Get Back in Step With Husband

It is all very well to advise young wives to keep in step with their husbands. But what of the wife who one day wakes up to the fact that she hasn't kept up? What can he tell her?

To the wife who has asked me for an answer to that question I would like to say this?

Your husband may be ahead of you now. But there's nothing to keep you from catching up if you really try.

You say you have few friends of your own, that most of the people you see as couples are his friends. Well, that can be changed. You can make his friends your friends, too, if you will stop coasting along as Mr. So-and-so's meek little wife and asert your own personality.

You say your husband is active in community affairs while your only interest for years have been your home and family. Well, find out about the community work your husband is doing. You won't feel so left out if you know what he is trying to accomplish and can give him some encouragement.

With as many opportunities as there are for women to do worth-while community work no wife has to sit back and envy her husband because he is a real part of the community. She can contribute just as much, if she is willing to work.

Get Out and Meet People

You say your husband is much at ease socially than you are. That is probably because he is out meeting people every day—while you are sitting at home. Get out on your own a little, even if it is an effort at first.

And last, but not least, quit low-rating yourself. You aren't alone in your situation. Lots of women fail to keep up with their husbands through the years. But most of those who lag behind never face the fact. You have faced it—and are ready to do something about it. That's a good start already.

So don't wait for tomorrow. Start today to reorganize your life. You can catch up with your husband without wasting any more time. But you'll never catch him if you just continue to coast along.

End of a Chapter

XXIX

ALICE PINE needed an interval in which to think out what to explain and how to say what she wanted to say when she met Brent Halleck at Grosvenor Point.

At first, during that long drive from the city, it had been hard to compose her thoughts with the wind singing a song around her. She still wasn't able to get everything straight. But gradually the explanations came. Even though there were things she had to guess, she knew practically everything.

Of course, Alice would never be able to figure out exactly why Muriel wanted to discredit Brent around the village of Tolliver. Especially with people like Molly Tremayne. But Alice had a vague idea why.

It must have done something for Muriel's ego, she decided. Muriel wanted to build herself up by tearing Brent down through innuendos and half-truths. Alice had seen it work in her own case. Muriel wanted to pose as the success in the Halleck family, even as the breadwinner, and to destroy Brent—to point him out as the failure.

Alice couldn't think what must have been in Muriel's mind to do such a thing. But Muriel seems to have gotten some sort of a vicarious kick out of it. And to call Brent a failure was a half-truth, in a way, although perhaps Muriel herself had made it as true as it was. Muriel really had been the breadwinner for awhile.

And why not? While Muriel was making a success of her career, Brent was away, at war. Before Brent actually left, though, he had given Muriel the security she had needed in order to make her stories click. As soon as Muriel got that security, she had all she wanted from Brent. Muriel had practically admitted this to Alice.

Then, when Brent came back from the war, he had lost his magazine contacts and had a bad time re-establishing them. He had been gone for more than four years.

Brent might have been discouraged and when he turned to Muriel for the help he needed none had been forthcoming. Muriel was far ahead of him on the road to success.

ALICE did not know and Chuck himself was unable to explain why, after Muriel had by-passed her husband, as she herself admitted that she did, she came to despise him.

Alice supposed it was because Brent was not making much money and felt a little uncertain. Maybe he was out of practice and his illustrations failed to have that old sparkle. But a little encouragement would have helped. Instead, Muriel preferred to kick Brent when he was down. No one could answer why, except possibly a psychiatrist. Muriel seemed to be a kind of charming and inexplicable sadist. But Alice told herself that it did not matter now.

But naturally it mattered terribly to Brent then. He had no one excepting his best friend, and Chuck Wisner was just that, to turn to. But Chuck, by his own admission, was not the type to inspire a person on to greater things. Muriel was the cause of Brent's sarcastic, chip-on-the-shoulder attitude that Alice had noticed when she first came to Grosvenor Point.

When Brent had objected to Sloan cutting down the apple tree, he was resenting Muriel's infringement on his rights. The tree was his.

It also explained the way Brent looked—rather defeated, with a droop in his shoulders. He was defeated because Muriel thought he was, although Alice had a hunch things might change as soon as Brent got his feet on the ground. That was the reason for the job in Providence. Brent wanted to get his feet on the ground.

Alice couldn't blame Brent too much for the chip. It must have been pretty terrible, living with a financially independent, successful woman who never lost a single opportunity to remind him how rich and how successful she was getting.

Brent would deny some of this. In her mind she could see him shake his head. But it was true.

ALICE'S mind went on over each detail of the unraveled puzzle. She knew all about Brent's decision not to contest Muriel's divorce. Chuck had told her. And she knew that Brent would have to buy the old place back, even again, from Muriel now since Brent had put the property in her name after their marriage.

Brent was on a job he disliked, but he could earn enough to buy the place. Of course, Muriel would let Brent have it on easy terms. But why shouldn't Muriel? The Point was Brent's home. It meant everything to him. And Brent probably had always felt that it was his place, even when it was not legally his.

It must have been a wrench to Brent when he had let her tear down his old house. Brent could not have stopped Muriel from this. He was away at war and Muriel was the breadwinner.

Later Brent had found that actually Muriel didn't want to take Rick. That point had been cleared up by Chuck Wisner. And later—Chuck hadn't talked about this, because he hadn't known about it—Muriel had let Brent take the blame for something he hadn't done. That whip episode the night of the storm.

Brent had been too decent to clear it up with Alice. Muriel was still Brent's wife and he felt, Alice decided, that Brent had to protect her. But Muriel did come through and clear this up. That's something Alice would always remember.

Alice was approaching Grosvenor Point now. She slowed down her car as the Halleck place came into view. She swerved into the drive, and parked her machine a little to one side.

She would leave room for Brent's car, when he came.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

The offices and plant equipment of the Worrell Manufacturing company will be transferred to St. Louis and the employes of the firm will leave for that place Monday.

Sam Duvenick, baseball pitcher, and George Buohl, last year's manager of the Sedalia Cubs, will manage the baseball team this year, their selection being made at a meeting of players Wednesday night.

W. D. Laird, an employe of the M. K. & T. railway, who resigned recently, left with his family for California, Mo., where he will manage a 160 acre farm for its owner, W. H. Howard.

C. C. Lawson, of the Sedalia Business Men's association, was in Boonville to assist in the organization of a commercial club in that city.

The Doctor Says—

Iritis, Serious Eye Disease, Should be Diagnosed at Once

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Iritis is a disease of the eyes. Ias principal symptoms consist of pain, watering of the eyes, excessive sensitivity to bright light and if long continued, interference with vision. The pain is likely to be severe and worse at night. Touching or pressing the eyeball is excrutiatingly painful.

In acute iritis the symptoms tend to be worse than in the chronis variety, but recovery usually comes more rapidly—perhaps in a few weeks. When proper treatmen is begun early the iritis can clear up completely, but complications and the possibility of chronic inflammation are unfortunate possibilities.

Several different conditions can cause either the acute or chronic type of iritis. Iritis is sometimes associated with rheumatism, diabetes, tuberculosis, syphilis, or injury. It is most important that the cause of the iritis be discovered whenever possible. However, unfortunately in some cases no cause whatever can be found.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week . Watch for it.

The disease of condition producing the inflammation of the iris must be treated as well as the eye itself. The search for infection or other disease elsewhere in the body must be carried out painstakingly and thoroughly.

Protein Therapy

The eye itself requires highly skilled treatment, including the use of drugs, heat applied locally, rest and protection from light. Sometimes a method called foreign therapy has been found helpful in iritis. This consists in injecting some protein substance (boiled milk is an example) which produces a reaction of the body, usually with fever. This seems to stimulate resistance and often has a favorable effect on the iritis.

From this discussion it can be seen that iris is a serious condition requiring expert study and care.

When anything goes wrong with the eyes, diagnosis and treatment should not be delayed too long, as the risk of permanent damage to these vital organs is great. Among the sources of eye trouble iritis ranks high.

Famous Okapi Dies

LONDON—(AP)—Buta, an okapi that belonged to two kings, is dead, but not forgotten. The London zoo said he is to be stuffed and put into a museum.

King Leopold of Belgium gave the African beast, a smaller relative of the giraffe, to King George of Britain in 1937.

Buta, believed to be 20, has just died of old age and pneumonia. A young widow, Zendi, survives.

Superintendent's Report
To The Commissioners:

December 31, 1949

Gentlemen:

The following report of work accomplished for the year 1949 by the Twelve Mile Special Road District is submitted for your approval.

In addition to our regular maintenance of all roads, city streets and bridges in the district, the following additional improvements have been made during the past year:

Three miles of new gravel roads constructed, using new gravel.

Approximately 4,000 yards of gravel used in maintenance of District gravel roads.

Three reconstructed road projects were completed under the King Bill totaling ten miles with one 30 foot span concrete bridge. The Twelve-Mile Special District financed $6,144.25 toward these three roads.

20 miles ditch-line and shoulder improvement.

12 new tile culverts installed—15 inch to 24 inch sizes.

8 new box culverts

All weeds mowed regularly.

A new No. 12 Motor Grader and Snowplow was purchased at cost of $11,353.00 for use by District.

The District greatly appreciates the cooperation of all land-owners who have helped make it possible to accomplish these improvements.

Respectfully,
Wm. McGEE,
Superintendent.

S-C Tigers To Finals In Regional

Championship Tilt Tonight With The Boonville Quintet

The Smith-Cotton Tigers advanced to the finals in the regional tourney being played at Boonville by downing the Columbia Kewpies 42 to 21 Thursday night. The Tigers were way below par in the evening's contest. They tightened up considerably in the game and never looked as good as they have in the past. The Tigers will meet the Boonville Pirates in the finals. The Pirates won the right to meet the Tigers in the battle for the crown by beating the Marshall Owls in the other semi-final game 39 to 16. Boonville played a much better game than they did in the first round of the tourney when they eeked out a 41 to 40 decision over Kemper. They displayed a lot of hustle in the game.

Sedalia had an off-night from the standpoint of individual play and ball handling, but it really didn't hurt them too much as they won easily over the outclassed Columbia team. The Tigers had a fair night in the hitting department as they connected with 17 of their 55 shots for a total percentage of 30.9. Columbia only made 7 out of 45 for a 15.5 percentage.

High Point Men

Bill Holst after a slow start in the contest went on in the last half to take high point honors for the game with 14 points. Bill Brown, the snappy Sedalia forward, was second with 10. Poor led Columbia with 9 points. Musgrave and Elliot tied for second with 4 apiece on the losing squad. In the second game Fowler led the Boonville team with 14 points while McDaniels and Bell tied for high points with 5 apiece for Marshall.

The tourney will end tonight with the third place game between Marshall and Columbia being played at 7:30 and the finals with the Tigers playing Boonville at 9 o'clock tonight. The regional champion will go to the state tourney being played at Columbia March 1 through 4. Sedalia stands a good chance to win, but the Boonville team showed Thursday that they have plenty of fight and could pull an upset.

First Quarter

The first period saw both teams playing very tight ball with both teams making bad passes. Sedalia held the Kewpies scoreless in the period but were only able to score six points themselves. Brown started the scoring for Sedalia by making an early side shot. Walker followed four minutes later with a free throw. Brown then connected for a Tiger charity toss and Ruffin hit a jump shot to end the quarter.

In the second period, Sedalia played one of their worst quarters as they only succeeded in outscoring Columbia by three points 11 to 8. This left the score standing in favor of Sedalia at intermission 17 to 8. This was one of the lowest half time scores for the Tigers all year. Holst and Brown started the quarter by making two Tiger goals on a side shot and a lay up. Timble then made the losers' first point of the game on a free throw. This was followed by five Tiger points on a free throw by Holst and set ups by Walker and Brown. Columbia then hit their hottest streak in the first half by sinking five points on two goals and a charity toss.

Tigers Have Bad Period

In the third period Sedalia outscored Columbia one point 7-6. This gave them the lead at the end of the quarter of 24 to 14. This was by far the worst Tiger quarter as nothing seemed to work right. Brown hit a Tiger side shot to start things rolling. The teams then exchanged free throws made by Poor and Holst. Walker followed with another Tiger set up and Elliott and Poor made a Columbia set shot and jump shot. Walker closed the slow period for the Tigers with another set up. Musgrave made the final score of the period on a Columbia free throw.

Tigers Comeback

In the final period Sedalia played their only good quarter of the ball game as they outscored Columbia 18 to 7 to win 42 to 21. The Tigers looked like they had just wakened up in this period and showed signs that they might be ready to play better ball tonight. Holst started the quarter on a Tiger tip in. Timble and Poor then made three Columbia points on a free throw and side shot. Sedalia hit a hot streak where they made six points on McCrary's and Holst's field goals and the same two boys' free throws. Poor counted with a Columbia side shot. Sedalia finished scoring on ten straight points, made on field goals: two by Holst and one by McCrary and Ruffin and free throws by Holst and Brown. Hoefer and Hawkins closed the game with a pair of Columbia free throws to make the final score stand at Sedalia 42, Columbia 21.

Boonville Puts on a Great Game

The Boonville Pirates served warning to the S-C Tigers by rolling over the powerful Marshall five 39 to 16. The Pirates were hot in every department and the Owls just couldn't seem to do anything right. After a see saw beginning, Boonville took an 8 to 5 first quarter lead after which they were never headed.

In the second period the Pirates opened up their lead to a comfortable halftime margin of 16 to 9. In this period, the Pirates began to out hustle the Owls a great deal and wear them down.

In the third quarter the Boonville quintet played their best quarter as they outscored Marshall 13 to 3 to move to a safe third quarter lead of 27 to 13 They displayed some fine defense work in this period.

In the final period Boonville stalled most of the way but still outscored Marshall 10 to 4 to win the game 39 to 16.

Charles and Beshore All Set for Big Fight

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 24—(AP)—Ezzard Charles and Freddie Beshore—"these men are ready for the fight of their lives." That was the conclusion yesterday of Dr. Louis A. Kaiser, who examined Charles and Beshore five days before their Tuesday bout in which Charles' NBA world's heavyweight crown will be at stake.

Charles weighed 189 ½, but his handlers said he would get down around 185 before the official weighing-in Tuesday noon. Beshore scaled 184 and expects to go into the 15-round scuffle at that figure.

If Dr. Tracy Isn't Careful, the Browns May Forget They Are Playing Ball

By Harry Grayson
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Dr. David F. Tracy, the first professional Svengali in organized baseball, plans to use new fangled methods in applying old fashioned cures to the jitters that beset ball players.

The psychologist-hypnotist believes the average big league player has the ability, but a minor league mind caused by what he terms "an anxiety complex." Or as a McGraw or Durocher would put it, "he chokes up."

"Men who have failed in the majors, frequently make good on the second attempt," says Dr. Tracy, a former semi-pro pitcher. "They've overcome a defeatist complex."

That will be the good doctor's prime purpose with St. Louis—to work with the players who are up for a second or third look with the Browns.

Frank Gustine, who hit only .226 with the Cubs last trip, is to receive special attention from Dr. Tracy.

How will the doctor handle Gustine's slump?

"I'll just hypnotize him and tell him he can be a .300 hitter," is the somewhat simplified explanation Dr. Tracy gives of the treatment he is positive will transform the third baseman into a demon slugger.

Officially hired by the brothers DeWitt as the Browns' psychiatrist for 1950, Dr. Tracy brings a new wrinkle to the national pastime.

"Everybody will cooperate and we'll have a lot of fun," he predicts with what may be undue optimism.

Dr. Tracy is of the opinion that mind over matter may even compensate for what sports observers not well versed in matters psychiatric might loosely term lack of physical ability.

"There is very little physical difference in players," avers Dr. Tracy. "The only reason Joe Dimaggio is so much greater than others is because of his tremendous mastery of the art of relavation."

The St. Louis Americans peddled most of their top stars, as per usual, but Dr. Tracy is supposed to mesmerize the remaining members in an effort to put the Browns in the first division.

"By repeated suggestions I am going to see that our boys do not even know there are people in the stands," asserts Dr. Tracy.

If the good doctor isn't careful, the Browns may even forget they are playing baseball.

Boxer Loses In His Battle Against Death

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Laverne Roach, handsome ex-marine idol of Plainview, Texas, died Thursday of brain injuries received Wednesday night in a tenth round knockout loss to George Small of Brooklyn.

The end came at 12:50 p.m. (EST) with the patient in a deep coma at St. Claire's hospital where he had been taken on a stretcher from St. Nicholas arena.

"The patient was in a deep coma," the hospital report read, "and there was respiratory failure with final cessation of heart action due to the after effects of a cerebral hemmorrhage and brain damage."

Huddled at the bedside in stunned silence were the boxer's wife, Evelyn, and his manager, Johnny Abood, who handled Roach's career since his days with the Cherry Point, N. C. Marines. Yesterday was his 24th birthday.

Dr. Vincent A. Nardiello, New York state athletic commission physician, and four other doctors attended the stricken athlete after his last fight. Dr. Nardiello remained with the patient through the night until his death

The district attorney's office announced a full investigation of the fight that resulted in boxing's first fatality of 1950. Ring magazine records show 18 fight deaths last year, nine in the United States of which five were pros.

Questioning Today

Detective Lieutenant Henry Devlin, of the New York City police, said all persons concerned with the bout would be questioned at the district attorney's office tomorrow morning. He said he had seen the match and "there does not appear to be any negligence at this time."

Chairman Eddie Eagan of the New York State Athletic Commission, called an open hearing for today. He said a preliminary examination indicated no infraction of the commission rules.

Houston Open Led By Ed Forgol

HOUSTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Ed Furgol admits he is in rather unfamiliar surroundings but says he feels mighty good.

The physically handicapped Royal Oak, Mich., golfer turned in his best 18-hole score of his six-year professional career yesterday to take the leadership of the $10,000 Houston Open.

He determinedly ground out a 33-33-66 score to find himself two strokes ahead of the field at the start of today's second round.

While Furgol efficiently executed his approach shots and putting, most of the fans were watching two local idols—Jimmy Demaret, who now operates out of Ojai, Calif., and Jackie Burke, Jr., who registers from White Plains, N.Y.—run into their usual Houston bad luck.

Demaret wound up with a 74, eight strokes back of Furgol Burke finished at 76.

Furgol's late afternoon finish with a 10-foot putt on the eighteenth green enabled him to overhaul Harry Todd of Dallas who had paced the field all afternoon with a 34-34—68.

A stroke back of Todd were Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N.C., Leland Gibson, Kansas City, Mo., and Bill Nary, Los Angeles, Calif.

American Woman Golfer Plans to Enter Ireland Meet

ATLANTA, Feb. 24—(AP)—Dot Kirby, a top American woman golfer for almost 15 years, plans to compete in the British women's amateur tournament in Ireland May 15-19.

Miss Kirby has won five major tournaments and has been runner-up in seven others.

Clubs Would Like to Have Glenn Davis

FORT MONROE, Va., Feb. 24—(AP)—Professional football and big league baseball today turned that "come hither" look in the direction of Glenn Davis, the former Army gridiron great.

The "Mr. Outside" of the finest football teams produced at West Point is coming out of the army. The army said so yesterday. It accepted the resignation of the 25-year-old first lieutenant.

Neither football nor baseball—nor anybody else—can officially deal with Davis until March 1. That's when he will be free to accept civilian employment. His army resignation won't become final until June 3.

If Davis plays football — and he said today he would — it will be with the Los Angeles Rams. The Rams own first crack at Davis, who teamed with Felix (Doc) Blanchard at Army to form one of the most effective offensive football combinations in history. Davis made the Associated Press all-America team in 1944, 1945 and 1946. So did Blanchard.

"I've definitely decided on football," said Davis, who also was a baseball star.

But the twinkle in his eye indicated Davis could be lured to baseball. He didn't say so, but he hinted baseball might win him over if enough of that green stuff is dangled beneath his nose.

The first baseball club to indicate it is interested in Davis was Cleveland. The Indians' general manager, Hank Greenburg, said the club is "definitely interested."

In California, two other baseball clubs expressed an interested."

In California, two other baseball clubs expressed an interest in Davis. General manager Roy Hamey of the Pittsburgh Pirates said "We've invited him to work out with us here."

"We'd like to give him a trial," said Don Stewart, president of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

All-America Leaves Pro Football for Radio

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Glenn Dobbs, University of Tulsa All-America back in 1942, has left the bumps and bruises of professional football for radio.

The 29-year old athlete announced his retirement yesterday. He will become sports editor of Tulsa radio station KRMC.

He was released as a free agent last year by the defunct Los Angeles Dons, member of the All-America conference which was merged with the National football league.

Top Athletes To Meet in Indoor Track

By Ted Smits

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Michigan State will bid to keep its indoor track championship of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America here tomorrow night with a tiny team of 11 men.

Ten of these, however, are point winners from 1949. Only Paige Christiansen, high hurdler who finished fourth, has been lost from last year's winning squad that piled up 35 2/5 points to beat Yale by nine.

Yale, led by big Jim Fuchs, the best shot putter in the world, is Michigan State's chief rival in the field of 45 colleges at the 29th annual indoor meet at Madison Square Garden. Others are Army, Seton Hall, New York University, and Manhattan.

Michigan State is banking on five big stars: Fred Johnson, defending champion in the broad jump, who has hit 25 feet; Horace Smith, defending in the high hurdles; Jack Dianetti, runnerup in the 1949 mile who enters the star-packed 600; Warren Dreutzler, runnerup in the 1,000 yards who moves to the two mile; and Bill Mack in the mile.

Good Showing

Against Ohio State last Saturday Mack ran the mile in 4:09.6 and Dreutzler the two mile in 9:11.7, fastest times of the winter in college ranks and well under the ICAAAA records.

Meet records also will be threatened in the 60 yard dash, 600, 1,000, shot put, and one and two mile relays.

The one that seems surest of falling is the shot put mark of 56 feet 6 inches set by Al Blozis of Georgetown. Fuchs, who has a mark of 57 feet 7 ¾ inches up for world recognition, some fair day may hit an incredible 60 feet, in the opinion of Coach Bob Giegengack of Yale.

Six outstanding distance runners will compete in a special two mile race. They are Fred Wilt, the FBI star of the winter season, Curtis Stone, Horace Ashenfelter, John Joe Barry, Viljo Heino and John Twomey.

Football End Dies Of Injuries

Unhurt in four years of big-time collegiate football, Espenan was injured attempting a back flip on a trampoline in central high school gymnastium here Monday. The demonstration was part of his practice teaching as a senior in the Notre Dame school of physical education.

Death came in St. Joseph's hospital.

Espenan was a member of the Irish gridiron squad throughout its string of 38 games without defeat—a string that is still unbroken.

Although a superior end, Espenan had the misfortune to play the same position as Leon Hart, Notre Dame's All-America star. Espenan was the No. 1 replacement for Hart but was overshadowed by the huge wingman. Espenan did not get to score last season as the Irish went through an undefeated season for the mythical national championship.

Pairings For MSJCB Tourney

MOBERLY, Mo., Feb. 23—(AP)—Pairings for the Missouri State Junior College basketball tournament, beginning here next Monday, were announced by Chairman Maurice John.

Roundup of College Cage Games Played

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 — (AP) — Hopes of a post-season tournament bid for Long Island university and CCNY seemed dim today.

Both took it on the chin last night in major upsets at Madison Square Garden. Cincinnati walloped Long Island, 83-65, and Syracuse humbled CCNY, 83-74.

Leading by only 30-27 at halftime Cincinnati, champions of the Mid-America conference, went on a 53-point scoring spree in the second half to swamp L.I.U.

Ed. Miller with 26 points and Jack Kiley with 21 sparked Syracuse to its triumph. CCNY, behind by 10 points, rallied to within 73-72, at one time, but the Orange pulled away.

Notre Dame fulfilled a promise to Ray Espenan — Irish football end who died yesterday—and rallied in the closing minutes to beat St. Louis, 55-52. Captain Kevin O'Shea had sent a telegram to Espenan, shortly before his death, assuring him Notre Dame would win.

Once-beaten Duquesne, ranked fourth in this week's Associated Press poll, chalked up its 22nd victory by rushing Geneva, 59-34.

Fifth-ranking Kentucky won its 83rd consecutive home floor victory by whipping Cincinnati Xavier, 58-53, and Fordham nosed out Georgetown (DC) 64-63.

The Oklahoma Aggies took Tulsa, 34-27, in a Missouri Valley conference game.

'Won't Quit Baseball Until it Quits Me'

CARNEGIE, Pa., Feb. 24—(AP)—Birthday number 76 caught up with baseball's Mr. Shortstop today, but to bandy-legged, indestructible Honus wagner the world retire is just another term for going to bed.

"I won't quit baseball until it quits me," he declared.

A flock of birthday cards rained in on the veteran Pittsburgh Pirate coach. His gifts included a 25-pound turkey from oil millionaire Mike Benedum.

"How about that," marveled Honus. "All those people remembering me. Why, I don't know most of the people who sent me cards."

Honus is recovering from a muscular hip spasm that had him hospitalized for awhile. But he has not thought of being anywhere but on the playing field once the baseball season opens.

Honus has skipped the spring training sessions for several years and he doesn't make the Pirate road trips anymore. But when the Bucs are at Forbes field—so is he.

The flying Dutchman retired from the playing ranks in 1917 after a 21-year major league career. He went back to baseball in 1932 as a scout and coach for the Pirates. Four years later he was named to baseball's hall of fame.

64 Players Unsigned in Major Leagues

NEW YORK, 24—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers are near joining the New York Giants in having all their athletes signed up for the baseball season.

The White Sox got catcher Eddie Malone's autograph on a contract yesterday, leaving only second baseman Cass Michaels still to be satisfied.

The 24-year-old Michaels, a stubborn holdout, has written the front office: "You have my figure and you know what you offered me. Let's split the difference."

He reportedly is asking $15,000.

The Dodgers signed pitcher Clarence Podbielan today. He worked only seven games last year, won none and lost one.

Only two Brooklyn athletes now are out of the fold. They are pitcher Rex Barney and infielder Bobby Morgan.

The St. Louis Browns reduced their unsigned list to 13 by getting the signatures of pitchers Joe Ostrowski and Procopia Herrera.

Ostrowski won eight and lost as many last year for the Browns. Herrera pitched in the Texas league where he won nine and lost 12 for San Antonio.

Sixty-four major leaguers still are to sign, with spring training next Wednesday on scattered fronts. The National league has 18 players out of the fold, the American has 46.

Quarter-finals Of 2-Ball Golf

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Two of the hottest teams meet in today's quarter finals of the International Mixed Two-Ball golf tourney here.

Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Ga., and Toney Penna of Cincinnati, favorites from the start and co-medalists, run into Mrs. Mildred Zaharias of Prarie View, Ill., and George Bolesta of Tampa.

Mrs. Zaharias and Bolesta beat his brother Burl Bolesta and Kathryn Hemphill, both of Tampa, 4 and 2, yesterday. Suggs-Penne ousted Mrs. Charles Harting of Miami and Toby Lyons of Warren, Pa. 8 and 6.

NCAA to Re-study The 'Sanity Code'

CHICAGO, Feb. 24—(AP)—The policy-making council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association will begin a two-day meeting here tomorrow to consider a proposal for a complete new study of the "sanity code."

Boston College and Villanova, two of the six institutions cited as code violators at the recent New York convention of the NCAA, are expected to seek a clean bill. The code is a set of rules governing collegiate athletic practices.

St. Benedict's's Wins a Conference Cage Tilt

ATCHISON, Kas., Feb. 24—(AP)—St. Benedict's downed Rockhurst 67-53 last night in a Central conference basketball game.

It was the Ravens' second triumph over the Kansas City cagers this season.

Ken Werba led St. Benedict's with 21 points. Rex Clemmer was high for Rockhurst with 14.

Major Jones Won a Decision Over Sonny Horne

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24—(AP)—Major Jones, 157 ¼, Kansas City, out-fought Sonny Horne, 161, Valley Stream, N.Y., for a decision last night.

Jones took six rounds of the 10-round feature bout by a clear margin, although Horne pushed the fighting most of the way. There were no knockdowns.

WRITER IN PLASTER — Cleo Soucy works on plaster model of Sen. C. L. Bishop, one of ten Canadian newspapermen whose features will adorn Parliament Building, Ottawa.

GREETINGS FROM WINNIE—Whatever his future in politics, Winston Churchill has at least one other career assured. The famed amateur painter, seen at work at his easel, has just turned professional. He has signed with a Kansas City, Mo., greeting card company to allow 18 of his paintings to be used on American Christmas cards.

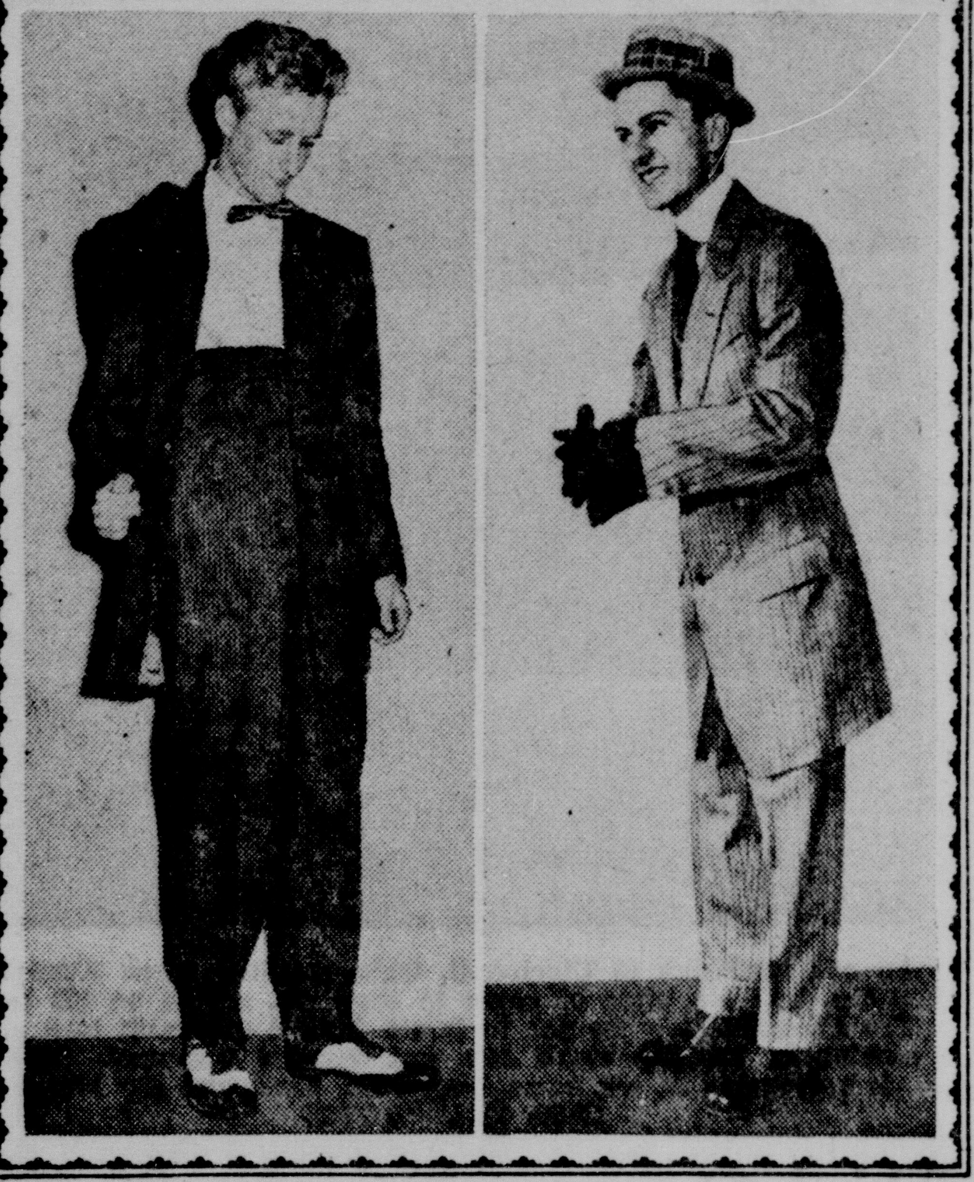
HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS



ZOOT SUITS, with their drape shapes and "reet" pleats, aren't as new as you might imagine. Although the name came into the language on the heels of the jitterbug craze, the long-drape coats and the peg-top trousers were in vogue as far back as 1907. The dandy at right is a product of that year, which saw more color applied to men's wear. Note the almost brimless, high-crown, fancy-ribboned straw hat and the choke collar. The solid gate in the "neat set of threads" at left belongs in the zoot suit tradition of World War II. The waistline of the high-rise pants stops just short of the Adam's apple, adorned by a flyaway bow-tie. Zoot suiters suffered a decline when wartime material shortages forced curtailment of their coattails.

BOAT RIDERS IN THE SKY—Rainwater on the roof of their five-story clubhouse gave these members of the Madison Square Boys' Club a chance to try out one of the rowboats used at the club's summer camp. It also gave the photographer an unusual shot of a water sport taken against the skyscraper background of water-short New York.

Hal Boyle COLUMN

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Pitch-penny observations by a pavement Plato:

It is hard to see the stars when your feet are tired.

Empty heads are full of more dreams than empty bellies.

Most folks wouldn't mind a teen ager's blowing his own horn so much if it weren't on a jalopy—and they weren't crossing the street.

The difference between a golf course and a cemetery is that in a cemetery they put monuments over the liars.

Co-Ops Argue On Tax Issue

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Rural Electric Cooperatives told congress Thursday imposition of income taxes would cripple the farm electrification program.

Witnesses denied arguments that the tax status of co-ops endangers independent business. They fought back against arguments of business groups that they enjoy tax advantages unfair to private enterprises.

Spokesmen for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association told the house ways and means committee that if taxation were imposed on the money handled by these co-ops then the only source of funds to repay rural electrification loans to the government would be through rasins rates charged farmers.

Robert D. Tisinger, general counsel, and Earl F. Wisdom, tax counselor, contended that the electric groups are formed on a non-profit basis and it is the history of income tax laws that non-profit organizations be exempt.

To raise farmers' electric bills, they argued, would cut their use of power and defeat the purpose of the REA program.

Business witnesses told the committee yesterday that the treasury is losing $1,000,000,000 a year in tax revenues on various kinds of co-ops which are "growing at jet-propelled speed." They asserted that co-ops should be taxed like other businesses and that independent businesses are being damaged because of exemptions granted the co-ops.

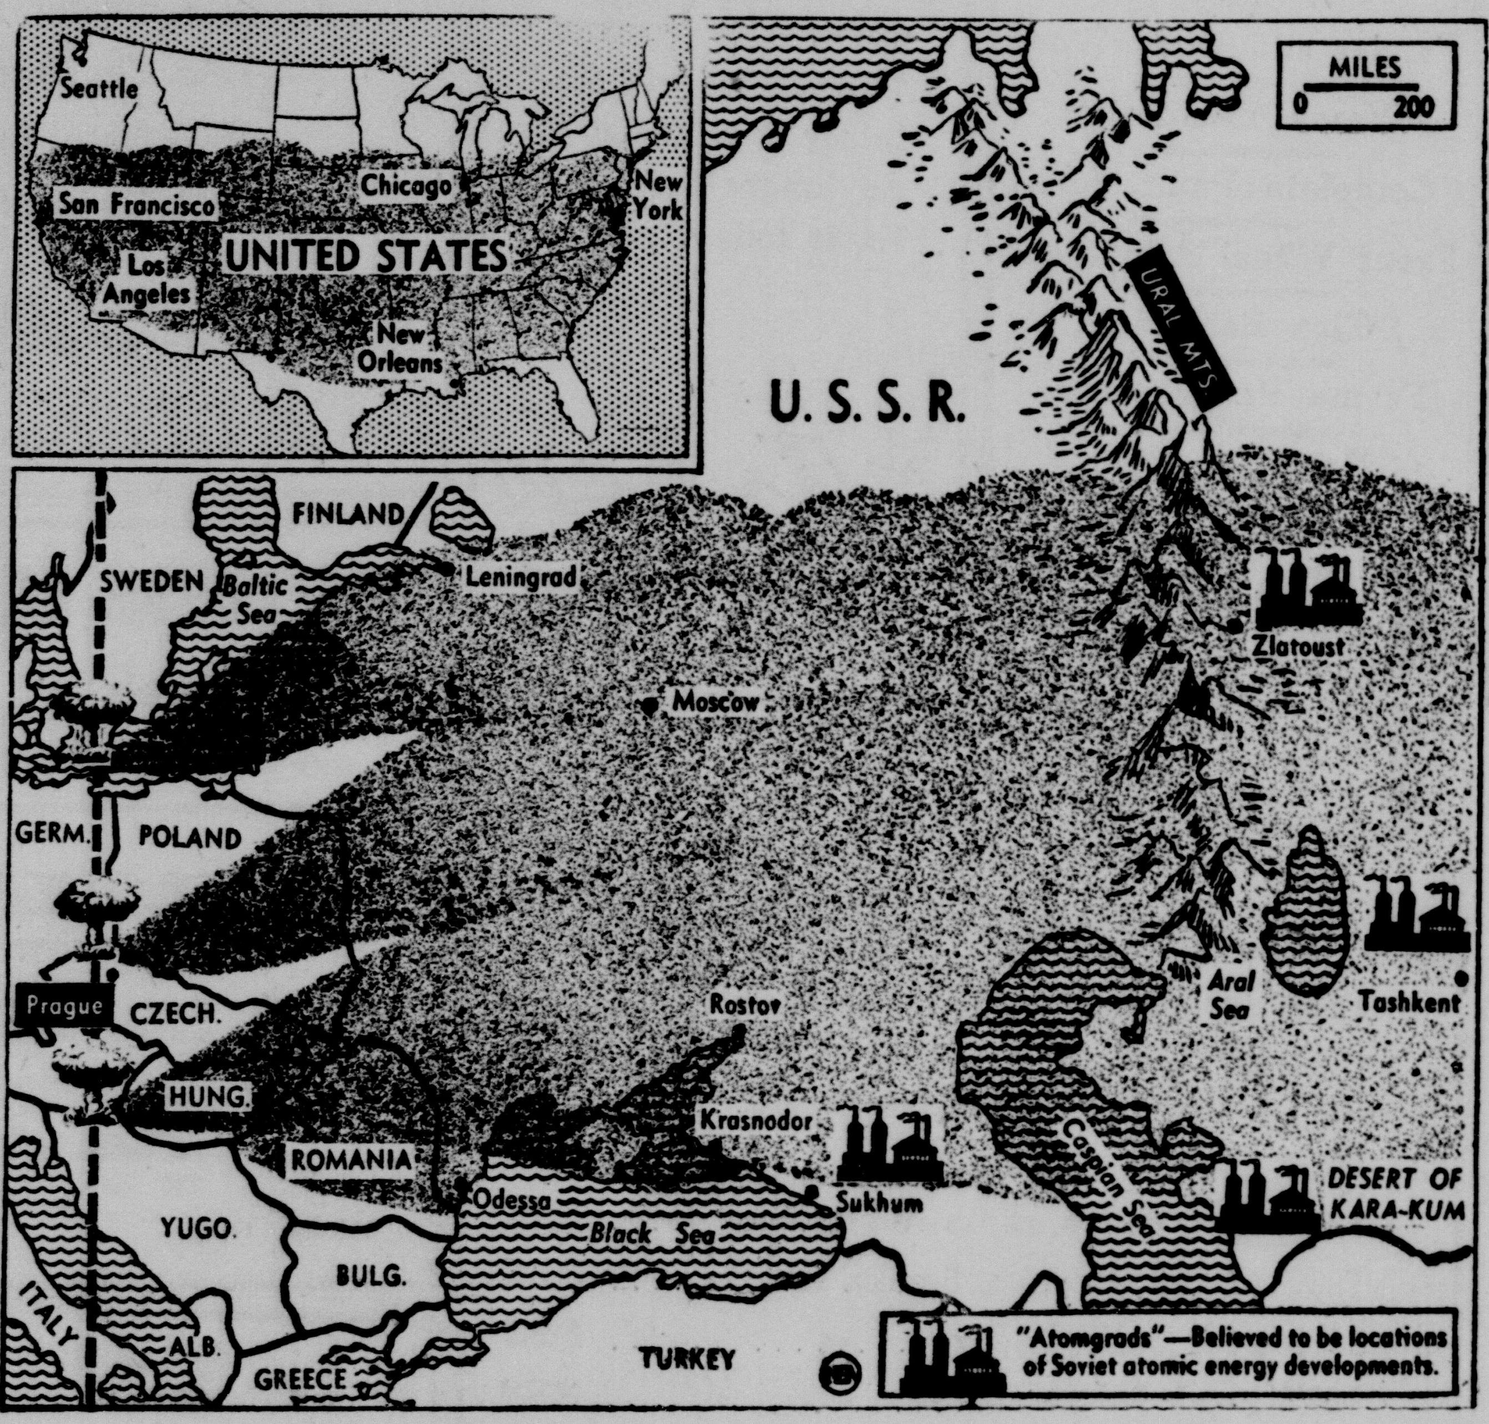
Dust of Doom



Map illustrates theory of Harrison S. Brown, atomic scientist of the University of Chicago who recently described how radioactivity from hydrogen bomb blasts could be made to kill every living thing in an area 3,000 miles wide and 1,500 miles deep. A series of H-bomb explosions, along a north-south line at about the longitude of Prague, Czechoslovakia, would produce the great clouds of radio-active dust. These would be carried eastward by prevailing winds, destroying all life from Leningrad to Odessa and from Prague to the Ural mountains, he said. Taking about three days to reach the Urals, the deadly cloud would begin losing intensity and by the time it crossed the Pacific to the west coast of North America, it would be harmless. Brown pointed out that the process could be reversed. H-bombs set off along a north-south line in the Pacific, 1,000 miles west of California, would produce a radioactive cloud that would hit California in about a day and and New York in four or five days, as shown on inset map.

Whistle-Stop Speeches Planned

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—President Truman said Thursday he will make whistlestop speeches to and from the northwest coast if he accepts an invitation to dedicate Grand Coulee dam in the spring.

Mr. Truman told his news conference the trip to Grand Coulee is still under consideration and no final decision has been made.

The President, in response to another question, described as political a statement by Senator Byrd (D-Va) calling Mr. Truman the chief obstacle to a balanced budget.

Under questioning, the President said he expects to make speeches enroute to the northwest and on the return home.

There probably will be some whistle stops, he said, on what he jokingly described as a non-political trip.

When reporters wanted to know how to tell the difference between a political and non-political speech, if he makes them, he said they would have to decide for themselves.

Then he went on to say that any speech a President makes is political.

FORT SILL, Okla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Pvt. Donald R. Rogers, 19, of Alton, Ill., was killed Thursday when a half-track drove over him during armored field artillery battalion maneuvers.

Capt. Robert Simon, post public relations officer, said Rogers was a bazookaman stationed at an outpost during the field games. The youth lay down in the grass for a rest and was run over by the half-track before he could get up.

Next of kin was listed as a sister, Mrs. Ethel Smith, also of Alton.

Damages Of $400 Over Shooting Bull

BETHANY, Mo., Feb. 24—(AP)—A circuit court jury ruled Thursday two farmers must pay $400 damages for emasculating a neighbor's bull with shotgun fire.

The suit was filed by Emil Streuby of Conception Junction, Mo., against Albert Henggeler and Leo Henggeler. Testimony disclosed that Streuby's bull broke through a fence and joined the Hennggerlers' herd of pure bred cows April 28, 1948.

Leo Henggeler testified he fired on the bull to protect the cows from contagious abortion. Streuby then had to sell the animal as a steer.

The court instructed the jury that the Henggelers were required to give Streuby three days notice of intention to emasculate the bull. Leo Henggeler said the notice was not given.

Streuby filed the action in Nodaway county, asking $1,175 actual and $3,000 punitive damages. The case was brought to Harrison county on a change of venue when the defendants alleged there was prejudice in Nodaway county.

Victory Won By Laborites

In Britain Hold 5 To 3 Lead Over Conservatives—Cut In Labor Ranks

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 24—(AP)—Britain's Labor party wrapped up a 5 to 3 lead over the Conservatives in parliamentary election returns from more than a third of the nation today. Labor claimed a clear-cut victory and with it, a mandate to drive Britain along the road to socialism for five more years.

Returns from 258 of 625 constituencies showed labor clinched 159 seats in the new House of Commons, the Sonservatives 98 seats, and the once-powerful Liberals, only one.

Jubilant Laborites predicted at least a 60-seat majority in the new house. They had a 148-member majority in the last one.

Gloom settled over Conservatives headquarters. While Winston Churchill's hard fighting party had cut into labor's ranks in parliament, by morning it still had a long way to go. But the Conservatives had not yet given up the fight.

Attlee Re-elected

Prime Minister Attlee was reelected to the house, along with Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, and Aneurin Bevin, the health minister.

Attlee hailed the results as "pretty satisfactory."

At 4:45 a. m. (10:45 p. m. Thursday, CST) he told Labor party officials at party headquarters:

"I should say while one never likes to anticipate a result before the finish, the results are pretty satisfactory and the vote is up."

The 67-year-old leader seemed tired, but was in good spirits.

"There will be a Labor government in power in Britain tomorrow," declared Morgan Phillips, Labor party secretary.

Phillips, the party strategist, said the labor vote would be the highest in the 50-year history of his party. He predicted that labor's majority in the new house would be at least 60 seats. Labor had fully expected that the whopping 148 majority it had in the last house would be reduced. The last house had 640 seats, 15 more than the new one will have.

Enormous Vote Cast

The indications were that the vote was the heaviest in Britain's history—somewhere in the neighborhood of 26,000,000. Late afternoon and early evening rainstorms which caused labor some dismay apparently had little effect on the size of the outpouring of voters seeking to say their say on the issue of more or less socialism.

The labor minister of Heath, Bevin, was a four to one winner in his district in Monmouthshire, Wales.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was returned to the house, but Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones lost out to his Conservative opponent by a margin of 81 votes.

The vote in Conservative leader Churchill's district was not be counted until later today, but like most top party leaders, his was a "safe" constituency with election virtually assured for the 75-year-old leader of His Majesty's loyal opposition.

In biting into labor's majority, the Conservatives took 14 commons seats which had been laborite, while surrendering only one which had been Conservative. Because of the revision of constituencies, it was not possible in most cases to compare these results with those of 1945, wehn Labor scored its postwar landslide.

The count of votes will be resumed this afternoon.

Indications were that the voters looked upon this election as a straight-out battle between Labor and Conservatives. The minor parties did badly.

The Communists had won no seats at all. They had two seats in the last parliament and put 100 candidates in the field this time.

Prime Minister Attlee, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps, Attorney General Sir Hartley Shawcros sand most of the Labor cabinet were notified of their reelection early in the counting. Cripps smothered by more than 2 to 1 Conservative Ronald E. Sims in the Bristol East district.

Victory For Attlee Party

X-Ray Clinic For Students At Court House

Equipment Brought To City by County Tuberculosis Society

The mass X-ray program sponsored by the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society started Wednesday at the court house at which time students of Smith-Cotton and Hubbard high schools were X-rayed free of charge. The teachers, secretaries and janitors were also X-rayed.

The total number X-rayed on Wednesday was 712. This morning students from the parochial schools of the city and from the surrounding rural schools were swarming into the court house where the machine is now located and were being X-rayed as fast as cards could be made out by Mrs. Alice Crawford, secretary of the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society and her assistants. They then went to the next room where they were X-rayed as quickly as the machine could be adjusted to the individual heighth and the picture taken, which only took a few seconds.

Open to Public

This afternoon the X-ray program was opened to the public and the program will continue for the general public tonight, Friday and Saturday with hours being in the morning from 10:00 to 12:00 o'clock; afternoon 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock and night 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock.

The X-ray equipment of the National X-ray Association was brought to Sedalia by the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society by means of the seal sale conducted each Christmas. It is operated by Frank Rano, X-ray technician supervisor and James Hann, his assistant, both of Orange, N. J., who do such X-ray work in all of the forty-eight states.

Refusal As To 'Loyalty' Files

President Averse To Any Dramatic Approach To Russia

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—President Truman persisted in a stearn refusal today to give congress confidential "loyalty" files on federal employes.

He said he had promised the senate Foreign Relations committee he will otherwise cooperate with it in disproving what he called false charges made by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) that communist ring exists in the state department.

He told a news conference that subpoena powers voted by the senate for the committee investigators would make no difference to him. He said it would be pretty hard to serve a subpoena on the President since the government affords him protection against such service.

Mr. Truman emphasizes that his directive to government departments to refuse congressional demands for official files on loyalty investigations still stands. This directive provides that all such demands be turned over to him by the departments.

The President laughed and joked with the newsmen today in contrast to the sharp exchanges of last week when they questioned him regarding an exclusive interview he gave Arthur Krock of the New York Times.

No New Peace Feelers

Once more he rejected demands in and out of congress that some new dramatic approach be made to Russia in the cold war he said he doesn't see how it can be settled in that manner. He added this country has made every approach possible in the United Nations in an effort to reach an agreement on atomic controls, but it has been unable to get one.

In response to a question today, he said there have been no new peace feelers from Russia.

Mr. Truman refused to comment on the bill passed by the house today setting up a fair employment practices commisison stripped of enforcement powers. But he referred newsmen to his previous messages on the subject in which he called for a commission "without arthority" to prevent discriminations in employment based on race, color, religion or national origin.

Asked if it would be possible to legislate against racial discrimination and still leave employers free to hire and fire as they please, the President replied he always thought so.

The President said he has under consideration an invitation to dedicate Grand Coluee dam in Washington this spring and if he accepts he will make speeches on the way out and back. He conceded laughingly that they would be political since any statement or speech a President makes is political.

Insistent on Records

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Senator Wherry of Nebraska, Republican leader, proposed tonight that Secretary of State Acheson be prosecuted for contempt if Senators are balked in their effort to get secret loyalty files on state department employees.

The proposal was an outgrowth of charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) that a communist spy ring is operating in the department.

The senate has voted for an in-

City Scales Bring Low Income But Are Important to the City

Revenue collected from the city scales is one of the lowest city incomes, yet the scales are an important factor to the city, as it accommodates the farmer and the business man, and attracts strangers to this city, who might otherwise drive to another city where they could weigh a load of corn or hay.

Monies collected from the scales and city parking lot during the calendar year of 1949 totaled $1,574.65, and goes into the general operating fund of the city. Fees of 10 cents, 20 cents and 50 cents are collected from the scales, the prices varying according to the size of loads weighed. A gross load of under 10,000 pounds brings a fee of 10 cents. Over that weight, 20 cents. All loaded semi-trailers bring in a fee of 50 cents.

The present scales handle a load up to 49,000 gross pounds, and are tested at least once a year. The platform is 10 feet wide and 30 feet long. The last time the scales were inspected, they were approved and no repairs were recommended. The scales unit was built by the W.P.A. in the years 1936 and 1937. Prior to this construction, old scales were located just south of the present scales.

Jack Mullaley Weighmaster

Jack L. Mullaley has been weighmaster for the past four years, by appointment. He operates the scales six days a week, from 7:00 o'clock in the morning until 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon. After hours up until 9:00 o'clock at night and on Sundays and holidays, firemen quartered at the fire station just across the alley from the scales, operate the weighing apparatus. Of course, when the firemen are on a run, the customer has to wait until the firemen return.

Mr. Mullaley said drivers of trucks loaded with hay and corn are the biggest customers, followed with coal trucks. Trucks loaded with poultry, eggs and glass also bring a lot of business. He said the Sedalia glass plant weighs nearly all its loads there. He added that gross loads of eggs totaled as high as 48,000 pounds. Occasionally, loaded trucks will pull in to get weighed and they are too heavy. So he said, we have to split the load. We do that by weighing the front end of the truck and then the rear end, he said. He pointed out that many trucks would drive up just to check the weight to keep with-

Hold Strike Off For Sixty Days

President To Invoke Railway Labor Act On Unions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—President Truman disclosed today he will invoke an automatic 60-day stop to head off a threatened nationwide railroad strike, tentatively set to begin at 5 a.m., CST., Monday.

The Brotherhood of Conductors and Trainmen, representing between 200,000 and 250,000 workers, called the strike after rejecting federal arbitration on its wage-hour demands.

However, the railway labor act provides that a strike must be postponed for at least 60 days after the President appoints an emergency fact-finding board.

The White House announced that Mr. Truman will appoint an emergency board tomorrow or Saturday. The board has 30 days to submit a report, and no strike can be called then until another 30 days has elapsed.

In Cleveland, a spokesman for the trainmen's brotherhood said the union will comply with the legal procedures.

Confronting the administration with a third major labor-management struggle in the present year, the railway dispute comes in the midst of the growing coal- strike emergency and the hanging threat of a nationwide telephone strike.

Last night, in response to a personal appeal by Mr. Truman, the CIO union of 100,000 phone workers agreed to a 60-day postponement of their strike. It had been scheduled to begin Friday.

Month-long mediation talks in the railway dispute broke down in Chicago on Feb. 14 when chairman Francis A. O'Neill of the National Mediation Board announced that the discussions were "getting nowhere."

O'Neill said the case was ex-

Murder Trial Is Interrupted

Attorney Has Heart Attack In Case At Rockport, Mo.

ROCKPORT, Mo., Feb. 23—(AP)—The first degree murder trial of Harold (Hoover) Emrich was halted unexpectedly today when the defense attorney suffered a heart attack.

The Lawyer, Clayton W. Allen, Rockport, collapsed shortly after the state had completed its case against the 21-year-old Stanberry, Mo., youth charged with the slaying of Miss Mary Hammer, 81-year-old recluse January 20, 1949.

Circuit Judge Fred Maughmer recessed the case until 9 a. m. Friday.

The state's chief witness today was Fredie Edgar McQuinn, 34, who was convicted of second degree murder in the case and sentenced to serve 15 years.

He related that he and Emrich went to Miss Hammer's home near Island City to collect some junk and old iron. While there, he said, they entered the home of the aged cripple and Emrich pushed her to the floor and hit her over the head with her crutch. The witness also added that he hit her twice in the chest with the same weapon.

The pair then carried the body to the barn and covered it up with hay and returned to the house where they filled their pockets with old bank notes and gold certificates found in a gallon can in the bedroom.

Checked on Currency

Officers at first believed Miss Hammer had been trampled to death by cattle in the barn. However, when old currency and coin began appearing in the Stanberry vicinity officers began checking the possibility that she had been slain. They estimated that about $6,000 in old currency and coin had been taken from the home.

Permit For Soft Coal Use In St. Louis

Arranged To Get Coal For Hospitals From Illinois

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—Faced with a growing fuel crisis, city officials decided today to permit use of soft coal in St. Louis for the first time in ten years.

The city's anti-smoke ordinance was relaxed for the first time in an effort to forestall shutdowns by schools, hospitals and industries.

Mayor Joseph M. Darst said special permits for use of the soft coal must be obtained from the St. Louis smoke commissioner.

Darst's office said public schools will mik their remaining coal supplies with coal of the softer variety when they re-open Monday. The schools were closed Tuesday for the remainder of the week.

Some relief was promised for St. Louis hospitals that were fast running out of coal. The help was promised by the Progressive Mine Workers Union of Illinois. Coal shipments from supplies already mined and stored at nearby Collinsville, Ill., were arranged.

The greater St. Louis hospital council appealed to the PMW and the larger United Mine Workers union for help.

UMW chief John L. Lewis telegraphed the council:

"Suggest you urge coal companies heretofore supplying your coal to sign contract with the United Mine Workers of America which will permit immediate resumption of production."

The St. Louis Real Estate board reported to Mayor Darst that 2,700 housing units managed by its members have less than five-day supply of coal.

Son Of Churchill Loses Bid For Seat

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 24—(AP)—Winston Churchill's son Randolph lost his bid for a seat in the Devonport district being defeated by Michael Foot, laborite who represented the constituency in the old parliament. During the campaign the elder Churchill spoke in the district to bolster his son's race.

Yielded To Pleas Made By Husband

So Sheriff Asserts Dr. Sander Stated In "Mercy Death"

By TOM HORGAN

MANCHESTER, N. J., Feb. 23—(AP)—A country sheriff testified today Dr. Hermann N. Sander admitted killing a cancer patient in a "weak moment" after yielding to pleas of her husband to "eliminate" her to relieve her suffering.

Sheriff Thomas F. O'Brien's testimony came after the defense claimed it would show that the 59-year-old housewife was dead before air was allegedly injected into her veins.

In charging Dr. Sander with first degree murder, the state contends that he made four fatal injections of air as an "act of mercy."

Chief Defense counsel Louis Wyman said after court adjourned that he has a statement from Dr. Albert Snay "That the patient already had expired." Dr. Snay had been referred to earlier as a doctor who examined Mrs. Abbie Borroto before Dr. Sander arrived at the hospital, and gave the injections. Dr. Snay is scheduled to testify later.

Dr. Sander was quoted by O'Brien as saying Borroto begged him to give his wife relief—"eliminate her life if it is necessary; then she will be better off."

Declared Hesitarcy

The defendant was reported by the Sheriff to have told Borroto "You can't do that" but said "Borrotto kept bringing it up and in a weak moment I agreed to go through with it."

O'Brien quoted Dr. Sander as saying Mrs. Borroto "had suffered so much" and adding "She couldn't under any condition live more than a week."

The sheriff said the doctor told him that on Dec. 4—the day she died—"He (Sander) called Mr. Borroto and said he'd taken care of the situation and Mr. Borroto said 'Thank God, it's over."

Miss Josephine Connor, record librarian at Hillsboro county hospital and last witness of the day, read from her stenographer's notebook the entry which is the cornerstone of the state's case and which led to Dr. Sander's arrest.

She said the doctor dictated the note to her on the Borroto case on Dec. 12—eight days after Mrs. Borroto died. She read:

"Dec. 4—the patient was given 10 cubic centimeters of air intravenously repeated four times and expired within 10 minutes after this was started."

Attorney General William L. Phinney asked the nurse whether Dr. Sander said anything to her about that note after he dictated it. Miss Connor said:

"In answer to my question of how it works he said it works pretty good and the patient died easy."

Attorney-General William L. Phinney earlier claimed that Dr. Sander had admitted killing Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59, at the urging of her husband to end her pain.

The attorney general told the jury in his opening statement:

"The motive behind any determined and premeditated killing has no bearing. Whether it be good or bad, the results are the same."

"Of so-called mercy killings,' said Phinney, "No such thing exists under the law. Such action is homicide."

"No Results" Are Announced For An Ending Of The Soft Coal Dispute

By JOHN B. OWEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Soft coal contract talks brought "absolutely no results" tonight despite earlier reports that John L. Lewis and the operators had edged closer together on money differences.

David L. Cole, chairman of President Truman's coal inquiry board, appearing haggard and dejected, told reporters that progress had stopped in negotiations which failed for the eighth day to end the strike of 372,000 United Mine Workers.

The two sides, under federal court order to stick to their bargaining, were called back for 1:30 p.m. CST tomorrow.

Apparently hope had vanished for a sudden break in the strike which the miners have maintained in defiance of a federal court Taft-Hartley directive.

And at 9 a.m. tomorrow their union must answer for it.

The UMW must try to convince Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech that it hasn't been in contempt of his order issued Feb. 11 and should not go to trial Monday. He can make the penalty as harsh as he wishes.

It was assumed that one UMW contention would be that the miners were acting as individuals in quitting work—which the Taft-Hartley act permits. Lewis is on record with two public calls for them to go back to work.

Situation Unimproved

The atmosphere as the closed door talks broke up for the day after two sesisons was one of complete gloom. A coal operator who was asked what went on replied, "Nothing". Lewis wouldn't comment.

Cyrus Ching, federal mediation chief, agreed with Cole that the situation had not improved.

Cole said that Lewis and the operators had wound up the day's talks "just about where they were yesterday."

Yesterday's discussions were said to have shaved the wide gap between the two sides on money terms. This report came from informants in close touch with the situation, although it was not confirmed by either side.

No Truman Comment

President Truman was silent. To news conference questions he replied only that the coal subject is before the courts and he does not propose to comment now.

William A. Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, said on capitol hill that the miners would go back to work pending a settlement if the government took over the mines and asked them to return temporarily.

Green described this as a last-resort measure and said he was not sure the time for such a step has arrived.

The AFL president contended that President Truman has inherent powers to make the move. Mr. Truman disputes this.

The situation at the close of the first of the day's bargaining discussions was described about like this:

Lewis proposals for wage increases and higher per ton royalties to finance miners pensions and welfare payments were estimated by operators to cost about $1.85 to $2 a day.

Operators were said to have offered concessions worth about 80 cents a day several days ago. Now it is reported, that they have indicated they might consider a compromise costing $1 to $1.20 a day. Just how much this would increase the price of coal to consumers was not immediately clear.

Lewis has been seeking a raise in the $14.05 basic daily wage to $15, and a hike to 35 cents for the welfare royalty, now 20 cents. He got such terms in scattered contracts in recent weeks.

Coal Rationing Spreads

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23—(AP)—Mass layoffs, coal rationing and mine picketing violence spread through the nation today in the great soft coal strike of 1950.

Two Speakers For Teachers Association

Talks On Book Program And On M. S. T. A. Activities

About 75 teachers and guests attended the Pettis County Teachers Association meeting held in the assembly room of the court house, Saturday morning, at which time they gave various reports and announcements, and heard two interesting talks given by Miss Flavel Barnes of New York City, advisor of the UNESCO-CARE Book Program, and by Gordon R. Renfrow, Missouri State Teachers Association.

Miss Barnes, speaking on "UNESCO Book Program In War-Devastated Countries," said, "There are hungry minds, as well as hungry bodies, overseas. That was what she stressed to help rebuild war-wrecked libraries with gifts of new scientific and technical books. Miss Barnes was in this city to enlist public support for the plan, which the Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe, in cooperation with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, added to its food and textile package service recently.

Help In Understanding

"By channelling food for the mind, as well as food for the body, to the people of Europe and Asia," Miss Barnes declared, "Americans can help nourish the understanding and recovery which is our best hope for world peace."

"Through books, we in America can feed hungry minds overseas. Money donated to the CARE-UNESCO Book Program will provide teachers and students with the books which are the basic tools of education. It will give farmers the know-how of new agricultural methods that can increase food supplies. It will give engineers the facts they need to rebuild devastated cities and factories. It will bring doctors up-to-date on new medical research that will help build sound bodies and minds. In all of this, we will be making a real contribution to the kind of reconstruction that helps people to help themselves.

Losses In Wartime

The need for books abroad, Miss Barnes stated, had its beginnings in the wartime losses: First, through the book-burnings and confiscations carried on by the Nazis, and later through the bombings that gutted schools and libraries.

Education institutions in France, for instance, she cited, lost a total of two and a half million volumes. The University of Vienna lost 150,000 books. At the British Museum Library, London, 250,000 books were lost. The library of the Institute of Agriculture and Forestry in Prague, Czechoslovakia, lost 18,000 of a prewar 20,000 books. In the Philippines, an estimated five million books were lost.

The book plan, as outlined by Miss Barnes, works this way:

CARE and UNESCO representatives abroad obtain lists of book needs, in specified categories, from libraries, universities, technical schools and research centers. With the funds donated by Americans, CARE then fills those needs as closely as possible by buying the latest and best books published in English.

Tells Of State Body

Mr. Renfrow began his talk with a brief history of the Missouri State Teachers Association, and said a group of forward-looking educators met in St. Louis in 1856, with Horace Mann, an early leader in the educational profession. They set up four major needs of Missouri teachers namely: inservice training for teachers, normal schools to educate for the teaching profession, a professional magazine for exchange of ideas, and a state professional association. These needs have largely been met, the speaker said.

Mr. Renfrow related that among the current activities of the M. S. T. A. are the publishing of professional bulletins and pamphlets, research work having as its object increased support of schools and the state educational program, and recruitment of new teachers. Mr. Renfrow stated that during the next sixteen years America would need one million new teachers, ten thousand new elementary principals, five thousand new high school principals, five thousand new town and city superintendents, two thousand new county superintendents and one thousand new college professors.

Talk Is Illustrated

Following his address, Mr. Renfrow showed colored slides which illustrated activities of the state teachers association in its building at Columbia, and also a series of slides showing buildings, sports, and scenic surroundings at Bunker Hill Ranch, the 2080 acre resort deeded to the teachers of Missouri by the late E. T. Behrens, a former Sedalian.

The meeting was called to order Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock by the president, Mrs. Imogene Peoples. C. F. Scotten, county superintendent, made some announcements.

Miss Marjorie Rector, secretary, gave a brief talk on the 1950-51 teachers requirements.

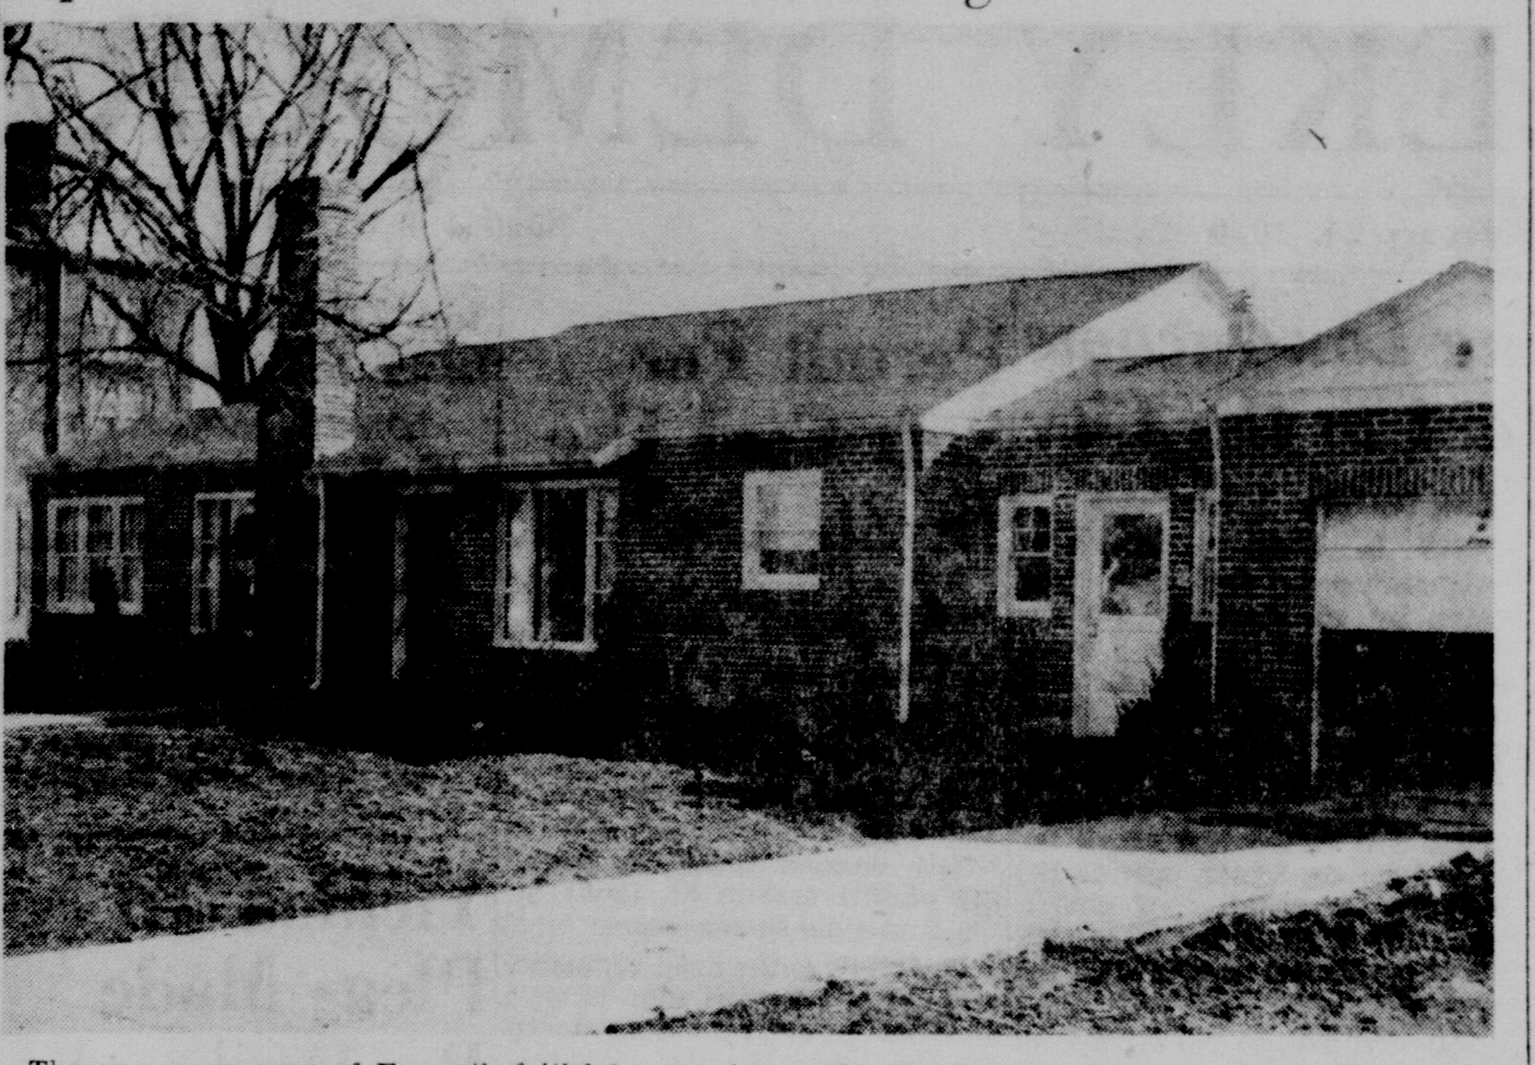
Reports of the study group activities were given by G. D. Corwine, Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn, Mrs. Charles Guier, Mrs. Vaughn White, Mrs. Donald Donath and Miss Dora E. Benz.

The second guest speaker, Mr. Renfrow was introduced by Mrs. Peoples. At 11:45 a. m., Mr. Scotten gave a summary of classification of schools.

Epworth Methodist Church Parsonage



The new parsonage of Epworth Methodist church Broadway and Engineer, which the people of that church have had built for their pastor, the Rev. Ralph Emerson Hurd, has been completed and open house will be held at 7:00 o'clock Tuesday night to which all friends of the church are invited.

All will first assemble at the church and will then go to the new home where a number of the church women will show them through. Others will preside over the guests books. After going through the home the guests may return to the church where young matrons of the congregation, in formals, will serve refreshments.

The new home which faces the north and is located just west of the church is the ranch house type built of red brick and landscaped with evergreens. A curving cement walk leads to the front door which is of light oak with three small panes, of glass.

Former Members Send Gifts

As the button is pushed to ring the bell chimes may be heard and these were a gift of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weber, who were members of the church until they moved to DeSoto, Mo., a few years ago. The gift was in memory of Mrs. Weber's mother, the late Mrs. Elizabeth Boyle, a faithful member of Epworth church.

The living room is long with two picture windows in front, one on each side of door. The windows are designed with three smaller panes on either side of the large panes. In the living room is a large fireplace in dark red tile with light oak mantel. The natural light oak woodwork is used throughout the home with doors of solid wood, all in one piece and brass knobs. The walls are a pastel green with darker green draperies.

Off the living room to the east is the sun room with draperies matching those in the living room.

Cosy Study

An archway leads to a small hall and at the back of the house is the pastor's study with walls of mulberry shade and windows on two sides. Here are built-in bookshelves and a large closet. The study is on the east and from it the hall leads to the guest room which is in wedgewood blue with two large windows. At the west side of the house, in the rear, is the pastor's bedroom which is in dubonnet and here also are two large windows. In both bedrooms are spacious closets, and between the bedrooms in the hallway is a large linen closet. At the extreme west end of the home is the bathroom, all in white. Floors over the entire house are hard wood.

Kitchen In Front

The kitchen is in the front of the house directly off the living room to the west. The window over the sink looks out onto Broadway and on either side of the window are built in cabinets and shelves. The drainboards are of white tile and are built up as high as the cabinets. There is no color, except one black tile on each side corresponding with the black and white squares of the linoleum. Below the sink are also built-in cabinets. Next to the kitchen is the utility room in which are the furnace and hot water heater. The room is white and has four doors, the one leading to the living room, one to the garage, and two outside doors one leading to the front yard and one to the back yard.

The lighting is complete with three way switches all over the house that the lights may be turned off and on from anywhere about the home. Too, there are electrical wall receptacles over the entire house, with a number of them in each room.

The house was built by the Dean Construction company.

Oriental Art Curator To Be Sorosis Guest

Miss Jeanne Harris, assistant to Laurence Sickman, curator of Oriental art at the Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City, was the speaker at Sorosis last Monday afternoon at the Heard Memorial club house.

Miss Harris makes frequent use of her ability to read and speak Chinese in the research of all Chinese paintings and art objects, and she hopes to supplement her skeleton vocabulary someday with a visit to China which has been her ambition since her graduation several years ago from Sweet Briar college, Lynchburg, Va., with a bachelor of arts degree. She has, however, been unable to make the trip because of the war.

With such a trip in mind she began the study of Oriental art as well as museum procedure. While a member of the staff at the Newark Museum, Newark, N. J., she was schooled in the various museum departments and her experience there proved valuable later at the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art where she spent the next few years. While in New York she decided to take her master's degree and she applied for admission to the Columbia university under the Chinese Cultural Fellowship program. She studied in the department of Chinese and Japanese for a year and it was there that she acquired the knowledge of Chinese languages. The following year the program was discontinued but she completed her master's degree.

The various duties of Miss Harris are exhibitions, both in and out of the gallery, the taking care of the collections, which requires storage, cleaning, and preservation, research work to place objects in their proper historical periods and checking their authenticity with reference to catalogs and with other well known pieces in similar style and the answering of many questions on privately owned works. There are also gallery tours for visitors given to groups by special appointment.

White Breasted Robin Returns To Frank T. Johnson Home

Even if they looked half frozen and as if they wished they had waited awhile longer during those few cold days, the robin red breats are back in almost everybody's yard now, at least one or two of them, but Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Johnson, 1615 South Beacon avenue, think they have a robin of real distinction. Their robin has a white breast instead of a red breast and white wings—in fact, said Mrs. Johnson, it looks almost entirely white when it flies.

Early last spring the white breasted robin was noticed at the bird feeder in Johnson's yard and he stayed there until summer when the other robins had all come, then he disappeared. This year he is back again, all alone as he was last year, and is hopping around making himself at home.

Many save bread crumbs and various things to feed the birds, and one woman buys an extra loaf of bread in the winter time every week because she uses so much of her bread to feed the birds. They gather at her back door, about her breakfast time every morning and if she is a little late they begin in their chirping voices to tell her about it. She keeps a pan of water filled for them, too, and she was amused one of the cold mornings when the water had frozen in the pan to see a bluejay telling her off when he couldn't get a drink. He would peck on the ice, shake himself furiously and fuss in a loud, angry tone, finally he gave up and flew away.

Travelogue Is Given To Loan Association

E. C. Nelson Chief Speaker Before 125 At Dinner-Meeting

One-hundred and fifteen members and guests attended a dinner-meeting of the National Farm Loan Association, Saturday afternoon in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwel lhotel, with the president, D. L. Kauffman, in charge of the meeting.

Three board members were reelected, H. L. Garnett of Lincoln, A. G. Lenz of Boonville and L. E. Durley of Hughesville.

Edgar C. Nelson of Boonville was the principal speaker. William A. Dickison, Association Service Division of Federal aLnd Bank gave a brief talk and reviewed the history of the Federal Land Bank.

Told of European Trip

An unusually interesting travelogue of his trip to Europe was given by Mr. Nelson in which he told of the two months spent in seven European countries and of his impressions of those countries and their people.

Seeing things as most Missourians would see them for the first time Mr. Nelson gave his impressions from the time he left New York on the SS Queen Mary for Southhampton, England, until he returned on the Queen Elizabeth from Cherbourg, France.

England he found to be a beautiful land, a fascinating hodgepodge of heaths and moors, hills and valleys, factories, grasslands and farms. There is history, antiquity, traditions, dignity wherever you go, he said, and the children are well behaved.

Has Dutch Cleanser Look

Holland, Mr. Nelson said, has the Dutch Cleanser look. The Dutch and the Swiss are the smartest people he visited in Europe. "About the only difference between them" a recent magazine writer declared, "Is that the Dutch can't yodel and the Swiss won't wear wooden shoes." Nearly one-half of Holland is below sea level, the speaker said, and water is an ever-present, ever-threatening problem. The Dutch have rendered it harmless by their fabulous chain of dikes and put it to work on their 5,000 miles of canals. When the Nazis blew up most of the dikes the Dutch rolled up their sleeves after liberation and started all over again. Everybody in Holland rides bicycles and they wind in and out between trucks and cars but nobody gets hurt, Mr. Nelson said, and there are flowers from early spring until late fall, something about the Dutch earth makes it burst with flowers.

Brussels Hub of Belgium

Belgium is a tiny land, the speaker said, of which Brussels is the hub of the wheel. It is full of factories and Belgium farmers rival Dutch and Danes in getting results from the soil, he said. Mr. Nelson found the people of Belgium friendly, kindly and industrious. They love music, he said, and know how to have fun with little effort and cost.

Switzerland has about everything, Mr. Nelson said, mountains, lakes, forests, lovely little farms, electric trains, castles, chalets, old age pensions, a vast army of precision workers and a government that is run by the people at a cost that is not prohibitive. The tourist business is the fourth biggest business. All hotels cooperate to give the best service possible, and every citizen exerts himself to extend the utmost courtesy and helpfulness, he said.

Visiting Italy he was most impressed with Venice which he said could be pictured as a city half the size of Kansas City with all the streets and alleys full of water. The gondolas by the hundreds cast a spell of romance over all tourists.

The strangest city he visited Mr. Nelson said was Pompeii which was destroyed by Vesuvius when the fine what ash of the eruption consolidated with water and embalmed everything it covered but in 1594 the city was discovered by engineers.

France, Mr. Nelson said, is the largest country in Europe next to Soviet Russia. It is a land of small farmers. It has a flair for the artistic that finds its highest expression in Paris where there is art unsurpassed, charm and local color wherever you go, he said, and is the supreme court of high fashion.

Mr. Nelson concluded his talk by telling a little about some of the interesting people he met on the trip.

Seven Sedalias In Nation, How Three Got Their Names

As most people know in this community the name Sedalia came from a pet name that was given to George R. Smith's daughter Sed, (Sarah). It was first Sedville, then Sedalia. Now there are six other towns over the nation with the same name, Sedalia.

The others however are not as large as our city. The population of the other communities is as follows: Sedalia, Colo., 241; Sedalia, Ind., 424; Sedalia, Ky., 191; Sedalia, N. C., 25; Sedalia, Ohio, 317; Sedalia, S. C., 29. These figures are in part from the United States Official Postal Guide. The recent figures are probably increased considerably at the present time.

Sometime ago letters were sent from the Democrat-Capital with the intention of getting the original source of the seven Sedalia's names. The letters were addressed to the postmasters in the various towns. At the present time two letters have been received.

Charles P. Stewart, postmaster of Sedalia, Colo. sent the following:

"Dear Sir: In regard to the information you asked for as to how Sedalia, Colo., was named.

"The first name of the community was Round Corral. This was about 1855. The name then changed to Plum in 1865. Then about ten years later an early settler whose name was H. M. Clay, originally from Sedalia, Mo., laid out the town site as it is now. A name was voted on and Mr. Clay, selected the name of Sedalia."

Mr. Stewart says his community is located on highways 85 and 87 about 25 miles south of Denver. Cattle Ranching is the principal occupation.

Sedalia, Indiana

The second postmaster heard from was H. O. Duddleson of Sedalia, Ind. His story was not connected to Sedalia, Mo., in any way but was very interesting.

He said. "The local story as to the origin of the name Sedalia is as follows. When the railroad was built through here in 1870 or '71 this was a wood station. The first of each month was pay day for the wood workers and railroad men. The agent for the railroad was named Dailey. It bemame the custom for the people railroad was named Dailey. It month to get paid for their wood and cross ties. Thus "See Daliey" became Sedalia. It is located on the junction state road and the Penn lines from Chicago and Louisville. The original railroad was called the South Bend Logansport and Terre Haunte Railroad.

The four other Sedalias are yet to be heard form. When the information of their naming comes into this office it will be published.

Second Grade Gives Program At Washington

Mrs. C. E. Van Horn gave the devotional in which she stressed the need for the return of faith. "Somewhere under an unknown teacher today is a child who will lead the world to peace," Mrs. Van Horn said, "And we must deepen our faith so we will meet the need of our youth."

The school program was presented by the second grade, taught by Miss Jessie White and Mrs. Doras Herndon.

A skit, "Door Bells and Book Houses" was given, showing how our friends can come through the covers of a book to visit us as well as through the doors of our house.

The second grade pupils sang two songs, one in honor of Abraham Lincoln and one on George Washington with the parents joining in to sing "America."

A play, "A Woman's Privilege," was given by the Senior Girl Scouts, Troop No. 4, Smith-Cotton high school under the direction of Mrs. John Zulauf.

The meeting was followed by the Founders' Day tea.

School Nurse Makes Talk At Hubbard

Mrs. John Murrell, public school nurse, addressed the entire student body of Hubbard school, Friday, at the 11 o'clock assembly.

Some of the highlights of Mrs. Murrell's address were:

"Even though a person may have a brilliant mind and a healthy body—if he has an unpleasant personality he will be given a second place in life.

"The most important places for a child to learn to work is in the home and school. Be willing to do an assigned chore at home or school. This will help you when you enter your life's work as an adult.

"Students, lead a clean and healthy life. Avoid the pitfalls of adolescence. Choose your friends wisely. You are judged by the friends you keep. The friends you make during adolescence are the most important friends you will ever have. They will stay with you.

"Adolescens should not have too much freedom. It is during this time of life so many boys and girls make mistakes.

Be Proud of Your Race

"Students, do not feel or think that you are handicapped because of your race, creed, or color. Be proud of your race. Individuality is your birth-right. You have many outstanding people of your race to be proud of, namely: Lena Horn, Bill Robinson, Marion Anderson, Joe Louis, and many others. Time does not permit me to name them all.

"Above all, whatever job you have to do, do it better than anyone else. Be like Joe Louis—do your best—be your best. In his field, Joe Louis, is The Best, not because he was smart and did not listen to what his manager and trainer told him to do but because he wanted to do what was right and he wanted to do his job better than anyone else."

The entire student body was very attentive and were very much inspired by Mrs. Murrell's address.

Music for the program was furnished by the Hubbard school band, under the direction of Mr. Charles Moten.

J. B. Hylick, school principal, gave the closing remarks, thanking Mrs. Murrell for such a timely address. In his remarks he re-emphasized to the students the importance of making friends and keeping them—taking jobs and doing them beter than anybody else.

Mr. Hylick invited the public, through the students, to come down and observe, at any time, just how well the children are observing the Keep-Clean Campaign now in progress.

HOBBS, N.M., Feb. 23 —(AP)—Pedro, the singing mouse, finally has been caught.

A piece of cheese lured him into a trap. Not the regular kind —except for his feelings, he's unhurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Gray listened to him singing for several days. Radio newsman Phil McGee tried to record its voice, but Pedro was shy while a stranger was around. He hid in a partition.

Mrs. Gray says Pedro has chirped a few times since she caught him, and she's hopeful he'll resume his treble warbling as he gets used to his captors.

Village Is Saved By Fire-Fighters

MARA, Eritrea, Feb. 23—(AP)—Fire-fighters saved a whole village today from arsonist burning in Christian-Moslem riots that have killed 32 and mutilated many more since the outbreak Monday.

All the reported casualties were among Eritreans.. Many were struck down in hand-to-hand fighting with knifers.

They are victims of the communal blood feud over the Coptic Christian campaign to join at least part of Eritrea with neighboring Ethiopia and Moslem counter-cries for independence in the disposition of this prewar Italian colony on the Red Sea.

Winter Slaps Ice And Snow Across Nation

Impedes Travel by Motor Car And Air; Walking Hazardous

By the Associated Press

Winter slapped a slippery punch of ice and snow across wide areas of the eastern half of the nation Thursday.

The snow, sleet and rain impeded motor and air travel. Icy sidewalks made walking hazardous. There were hundreds of accidents and many traffic fatalities were blamed on the glazed streets and highways.

The sleet and snow hit hard over the northeastern part of the country as a rather intense storm moved northeastward across Lake Ontario. Southern New England was blanketed with the second biggest snowfall of the season, with falls measuring up to eight inches in some areas. The falls in the northern region measured were up to a depth of two to four inches. The snow turned to sleet and rain over most of the area during the night.

Snow, Sleet, Rain

Sleet, snow and freezing rains pelted New York state. New York City's rain and sleet made streets and sidewalks treacherous and slowed subway service along its above-ground routes and railroads. The Idlewild and La Guardia airports were closed.

Snow in New York

Snow and sleet in western New York made highways dangerous and clogged streets in Buffalo. Snow mixed with freezing rain fell in northern New York state.

Heavy fog over the Baltimore area Wednesday forced the cancellation of all flights at the municipal airport.

Much of Pennsylvania was coated with ice after a steady freezing rain. Last night's church Lenten services were cancelled because of icy roads at Easton, Pa. Four to seven inches of snow were forecast for the mountain areas today.

Sidewalks in Newark, N. J. were a sheet of ice from freezing rainfalls and most pedestrians walked in the streets. Highway conditions were extremely bad and many accidents were reported. An eight year old boy was killed when his sled ran into a car.

The rain belt extended from Pennsylvania southward into Florida. Light snow was reported in Ohio, southern Michigan and from Wisconsin westward to the northern Rockies. Chicago's heaviest fall of the season, nearly five inches, helped to send the mercury down to 10 above today. Fair weather prevailed from the central and lower Mississippi valley westward to California.

Temperatures were mild from near Washington, D. C., southward to Florida. Elsewhere throughout the country readings were near normal levels. The only sub-zero temperatures were in sections of North Dakota and northern Minnesota. Today's low was 13 below zero at Pembina, North Dakota.

Tough Day For A One-Armed Hitchhiker

TEXARKANA, Tex., Feb. 23—(AP)—A one-armed painter trying to hitchhike from Ashdown, Ark., to Kansas City, Mo., had a rough time of it in this area today.

His trouble stemmed from the fact six escapees from the Boston, Tex., Bowie county jail last night included a one-armed ex-convict, Chris Cooney, 39.

About as soon as the one-armed painter would clear himself with one officer he would be picked up by another.

MoPac Train Is Derailed

PIEDMONT, Mo., Feb. 23—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad's fast Texas to St. Louis passenger train No. 8 was derailed last night when a rock slide fell in a cut just south of Gads Hill and the train smashed into it.

No one was injured although both units of the diesel locomotive and a storage baggage car were derailed. Gads Hill is about 120 miles south of St. Louis.

Other Missouri Pacific trains between Poplar Bluff and St. Louis were rerouted over the Belmont and Cairo branches of the railroad from Bismarck to Poplar Bluff.

A spokesman for the division superintendent said today the track probably will not be cleared until early tonight.

J. P. Carroll of St. Louis, was engineer of the train and Jess Lovelace of Poplar Bluff was fireman. W. C. Missey of De Soto was conductor.

Increase In Cost Of Age Assistance

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 23—(AP)—The cost of old age assistance in Missouri rose to $5,615,262 for this month, bringing the total for the first two months of 1950 to $11,201,513.

The state division of welfare reported today pension checks for February averaged $43.37 and went to 129,470 oldsters. The average check was a dime more than last month while the number of pensioners increased 363.

Aid to dependent children totaled $1,349,553 for February, $13,557 more than for last month. There were 293 more families on the rolls and this month's average family check was $52.76, eight cents lower than in January.

Federal funds provide part of the cost of both old age assistance and ADC.

tinuing drive to choke off the last bit of production.

Sixty-nine West Virginia coal pickets were indicted on charges of strike violence.

Best estimates are that more than 100,000 workers in coal-dependent industries will be laid off by the end of the week.

Dimout in Illinois

A state-wide dimout is ordered in Illinois.

The state commerce commission called for a 25 per cent reduction in electrical power consumption to save coal burned to generate electricity. Organized fuel merchants asked the governor to close all public-non-essential institutions such as schools.

The International Harvester Company said 49,000 workers in Illinoise and Indiana will go on a three-day week Monday to have coal.

Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation began laying off the 23,000 employes in two big Pittsburgh district plants which must close for lack of coal.

Another 40,000 workers in coal dependent industries in the Great Lakes port of Erie, Pa., will be furloughed by the end of the week. That city has an electrical brownout to stretch out a fast fading coal reserve.

A "critically serious" situation was reported in Akron, Ohio.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The house passed today a fair employment practices (FEPC) bill stripped of enforcement provisions.

The vote was 241 to 176.

The bill, far short of what President Truman wanted, now goes to the senate. The house action came after a debate that started at noon yesterday and ran into early this morning.

The bill that finally emerged from the house fell so far short of what Mr. Truman wanted that many of its original supporters refused to vote for it. Southern Democrats opposed it solidly. They were largely responsible for having knocked all the enforcement teeth from the proposal.

It expresses a policy that there should be no discrimination against the minority groups in job opportunities and seeks to avert such discrimination through persuasion and education. It provides no penalties for anyone violating its major provisions.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Nine Missouri representatives, all Democrats, today voted for passage of a house measure for a fair employment practices commission.

They were Bolling, Christopher, Carnahan, Irving, Sullivan, Karst, Karsten and Welch.

Against the measure were Cannon, Jones and McGee, all Democrats and Short, Republican.

Co-Ops Argue On Tax Issue

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Rural Electric Cooperatives told congress today that imposition of income taxes would cripple the farm electrification program.

Witnesses denied arguments that the tax status of co-ops endangers independent business. They fought back against arguments of business groups that they enjoy tax advantages unfair to private enterprises.

Spokesmen for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association told the house ways and means committee that if taxation were imposed on the money handled by these co-ops then the only source of funds to repay rural electrification loans to the government would be through rasins rates charged farmers.

Robert D. Tisinger, general counsel, and Earl F. Wisdom, tax counselor, contended that the electric groups are formed on a non-profit basis and it is the history of income tax laws that non-profit organizations be exempt.

To raise farmers' electric bills, they argued, would cut their use of power and defeat the purpose of the REA program.

Business witnesses told the committee yesterday that the treasury is losing $1,000,000,000 a year in tax revenues on various kinds of co-ops which are "growing at jet-propelled speed." They asserted that co-ops should be taxed like other businesses and that independent businesses are being damaged because of exemptions granted the co-ops.

in highway laws, because certain type trucks are allowed to carry a certain amount of weight over the highways. For instance, a tandem wheel truck is allowed 28,600 pounds, whereas a single wheel drive is allowed a load of 18,000 pounds.

No Arguments

The weighmaster said since he has operated the scales there has been no friction or argument among the customers. He said one has to be careful with the scales and they have to be balanced every day. He added that they have to be checked several times a day during stormy weather, because at that time the platform gets wet and heavy. Just to prove his point, he balanced the heavy scales and then put a dollar bill on the weight end of the scales. The dollar bill caused the weights to fall to the bottom, and when the bill was picked up, the weights lifted into place.

Murder Trial Is Interrupted

Their investigation led to the arrest of seven persons. Emrich and McQuinn were charged with murder. Thomas Beal and Columbus McCrary pleaded guilty to theft of money, Beal receiving five years at Algoa reformatory, and McCrary two years. Earl Emrich, brother of the murder case defendant, received eight years for grand larceny. Raymond Petty was acquitted on a charge of receiving stolen property.

The Hoover brothers' mother, Mrs. Elsie Emrich is expected to go to trial on a charge of receiving stolen money.

Charles Elsman, a cafe operator, testified that Harold Emrich had given $2 worth of obsolete nickles in payment for playing shuffleboard at his cafe. Mrs. Leota Sweatt, Stanberry filling station attendant, said Emrich and McQuinn had offered her a number of silver dollars of an early date for a tire they bought from her.

tremely complicated. The unions have made 13 demands and the railroads 17, chiefly in operating rules.

The unions' main demand is for a 40-hour week instead of the present 48 hours—without a cut in pay—for some 85,000 yard service workers. They have also asked bigger allowances for work away from home and changes in pay-computing bases for train crews.

vestigation and has clothed the Foreign Relations committee with power to subpoena records on investigations into employees' loyalty.

President Truman today branded McCarthy's charges as false and persisted in a refusal to give up such records.

To speed a court test, Wherry said the Foreign Relations committee should subpoena Acheson and direct him to produce the records. If he refused, said Wherry, he should be cited for contempt of the senate.

The next step, Wherry continued, would be for the attorney general to prosecute Acheson and thus bring about "an interpretation of the powers of the senate as the policy making department of the government."

Gasoline Leaks from Pipeline

Catches Fire on Leland Coontz Farm; Disaster Threatened, But No One Was Hurt

Several thousands of gallons of gasoline, which flowed from a break in a Phillips 66 pipe line, six miles south of Sedalia, burst into flames, about 9 o'clock this morning, and created much excitement in the neighborhood.

The break in the line was in the farm yard of Leland Coontz, on rural route 1, about 200 feet north of the farm home and beneath the roadway leading from the farm-to-market road to the farm home.

The break was believed to have occurred sometime early Thursday night, releasing the gasoline flow. Gasoline flowed out of the large hole into two small ditches along the farm home road, thence north to a deep drainage ditch along the farm-to-market road, thence west to a gully which circled under the Valda road, thence north around the Winzenburg grocery store at the junction of the Valda and Waterworks road. The flow of gasoline continued northward into a small stream bed. When the gasoline was ignited, about a quarter of a mile north of the break, it took only a matter of two or three minutes to burn back to the Coontz farm. The flames never ignited gasoline in the hole at the break, which probably saved the pipeline from a disastrous explosion.

Flames Leaped High

As the fire ran along the ditches, flames leaped high into the air and sent dark clouds of smoke into the air, which attracted a large gathering of farmers in the vicinity and some Sedalians who happened to be attracted by the billowing smoke clouds in the south. Along the line of fire, fence posts, telephone and electric poles were burned and damaged, all of which frightened the farmers as well as a telephone repair crew working along one ditch where the fire started.

A small stream into which some gasoline had flowed ignited and some fish in one "hole" were practically cooked. They were seen floating on top of the water after the fire.

In various points along the ditches, gasoline stood about 14 inches deep and two feet wide before the flames reached these points, according to Mr. Coontz. Gasoline, which spread out into fields also caught fire, and wherever the fire followed the gasoline, there are blackened paths.

Smelled Gasoline This Morning.

It was not determined how long the pipe had been broken. Mrs. Coontz said she smelled gasoline when she awakened this morning around 7:00 o'clock. The first to notice the leakage was Leland Coontz, Jr., around 8:30 o'clock, prior to the ignition. He said he put in a call to the bulk plant in Sedalia, and then went to a neighbor, A. B. Robertson, to warn him that gas was soaked in the ground in that area.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone company crew, who were in that area this morning repairing broken lines, said they smelled gasoline when they arrived, but thought the truck was flooded, and let it go at that. About five minutes later, three men were atop telephone poles when flames started leaping under and around them.

Henry Winzenburg, proprietor of a grocery store, said he first noticed the flames when they were rolling up his way in the branch. They missed his store by about 50 feet, and had the wind been in the south instead of the north, he said his store would have probably gone up in the blaze.

Wiremen Down in a Hurry

Duke McFarland, Gordon Williams and Lee Hart, telephone repairmen, were on poles when flames started leaping into the air in the ditch on the opposite side of the road. They made their way down the poles and out of the area in a hurry. Paul Huston, construction foreman, and Garry Tuggle, members of the crew were on the ground, and they and other members of the crew were unaware just how the blaze started.

Sedalia firemen who were called, went to the scene when it was stated the fire might cause a disaster in the neighborhood. Before they left the city emergency firemen had been called and reported for duty at the fire station.

Propose Freight Rate Cut

Examine Hole Caused by Break in Gasoline Pipeline

Spectators gathered around a hole in the gravel roadway of the Leland Coontz farm, six miles south of Sedalia, where a Phillips 66 gasoline pipeline had broken and released several thousands of gallons of gasoline during the night. The released gasoline ignited about 9:00 o'clock this morning and created excitement in the neighborhood, but flames failed to ignite gasoline in the hole which probably was responsible for no explosion occurring. Emergency Fact Finding Board Set up

Heads Off Railroad Strike Scheduled For February 27

The action has the effect of delaying the proposed strike for 60 days.

Mr. Truman signed an executive order creating the board to investigate a dispute between the carriers and the Brotherhoods of Railway Conductors and Railroad Trainmen.

The names of the emergency board members will be announced later.

The dispute is between the brotherhoods and carriers represented by the eastern, the western and the southeastern carriers' conference committees.

Union Will Comply

Officials of the trainmen's brotherhood in Cleveland have said the union will comply with legal procedures provided by the railway labor act.

The conductors and the trainmen's brotherhood refused arbitration, which had been proposed by the national (railway) mediation board. Together the unions represent between 200,000 and 250,000 workers.

Appointment of a presidential fact finding board under the railway labor act requires both sides in the dispute to retain the status quo. The board has 30 days in which to make a report and no strike can be called for 30 days after the board's report is submitted, according to the law.

The union's principal demand is for a 40-hour week for some 85,000 yard service employes, without a cut in pay from their present 48-hour scale.

Negotiations began nearly a year ago. The unions asked for 13 changes in operating rules, and the nation's carrier asked for 17 changes.

Naval Attache To Bucharest Drops to Death

By G. K. Hodenfield

VIENNA, Austria, Feb. 24—(AP)—A man identified by police as the U. S. naval attache to Bucharest plunged to his death in a railroad tunnel south of Salzburg yesterday. Semi-official sources said today there is "no hint of foul play."

U. S. army investigators tentatively identified the man as Capt. Eugene Karpe, who was a close friend of Robert A. Vogeler, the American businessman sentenced to prison in Hungary Tuesday on charges of being an American spy.

Austrian police said papers on the battered body, found on the curve of a railway track, bore the name of Capt. Karpe. Police said Karpe may have been standing by a sleeping car door, losing his balance when the Paris-bound Arleberg express rounded the curve. It was known that Karpe suffered from gout, which made it difficult for him to stand erect.

May Have Been Slain

In Washington, however, officials said they were not eliminating the possibility that the officer may have been slain. Formal comment was being withheld pending further word from abroad. The navy reported Karpe had been in Bucharest since 1946. He was sent there as a naval member of the allied control commission.

The navy listed Karpe's hometown as Delhi, La., and said he was a former basketball player at the naval academy where he was graduated in 1926.)

Kansas Citian Hurt When Car Leaves Curve

Overturns And Burns Three Miles North of Sedalia

W. J. Noonan, Jr., representative of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Kansas City, was painfully but believed not seriously injured about 1:45 o'clock this morning when his automobile left a curve about three miles north of Sedalia on highway 65, overturned and burned. Noonan was thrown clear of the vehicle as it "flipped" over.

Noonan, at the Bothwell hospital where he was taken by two friends, told a newspaper reporter he was blinded by lights of an automobile or truck approaching from the opposite direction. He said as he went into the curve the lights blinded him and as the car hit the shoulder tried to pull back but was unable to do so. He was alone at the time.

Following Another Car

He was following Jack Fults and Joe Adams enroute to Marshall, according to state patrolman Wayne Allman and when Noonan failed to appear behind their car, they turned around and went back to look for him. They came upon the car and Noonan was a few feet away. They placed him in their car and took him to the hospital where Dr. E. L. Rhodes gave medical attention.

Trooper Allman said the car went over a slight ridge, turned over, knocking down a six foot Falstaff sign. The car then caught fire and was practically demolished. The car was a 1949 Plymouth coach. The Chamberlain wrecker was called and to get the car back to Sedalia it had to be loaded on a "low-boy" trailer.

Mrs. Noonan, his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Noonan, Sr., arrived in Sedalia this morning.

Governor Leaps Out an Open Elevator Door as Cage Slips

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24—(AP)—Gov Forrest Smith leaped through the open door of a slowly moving elevator at the Jefferson hotel last night when the heavily-loaded cage began to slip.

The brakes finally caught and no one was hurt.

The governor was in town for the annual gridiron dinner of the advertising club of St. Louis. He was prepared for a ribbing. But he was taking no chances and acted quickly in the elevator.

Smith had boarded the car at the mezzanine floor. When the cage started to slip the operator shouted a warning. The governor and an unidentified companion leaped from the car as the operator quickly opened the door.

An operator was seriously injured the night of the dinner last year in a 40 foot fall down the elevator shaft.

Smith and other public officials were put on the pan at the affair last night. In a pre-dinner celebration, the governor was kidded about his proposed gasoline tax increase.

He was seized at the door by a group of Illinois filling station operators who invited him across the river where gasoline can be bought cheap.

Charges of Contempt Hold Good

Judge Orders Coal Miners to Trial Monday; States Have Emergency Measures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech today set Monday for trial of the United Mine Workers on charges of contempt for disregarding his order to end the coal strike. Conviction could bring multi-million dollar fines against the union.

Keech set the trial date after a brief hearing. UMW attorneys had come before him in response to an order for them to "show cause" why the union should not be held in contempt of court.

Today's hearing offered the union a chance to show it had "purged" itself of contempt. But that was not brought up because it would have meant showing the union was now complying with the judge's "stop strike" order.

Instead, the union attorneys argued Keech had no right to issue his "stop strike" order. They moved that the contempt charges be dropped. Keech overruled that.

Keech told union attorneys they could have a jury trial if they desired.

Welly K. Hopkins, chief UMW attorney, said he would consider over the week end whether to ask for a jury trial.

Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morison asked that the trial start tomorrow. He noted that since the original court back-to-work order, issued Feb. 11, "there has been no increase in production of the bituminous mines of this country."

Urging the need for speed in the case, Morison said:

Adopt Emergency Measures

"At least 20 states have adopted emergency measures to take care of the coal supply.

"Virtually all of the nation's cities have the same problem.

"If this contempt is established in appropriate trial then it is the view of the government that the full power and majesty of this court" be used to get the miners back on the job.

Hopkins objected to having the trial start tomorrow.

Judge Keech then set it for Monday.

The judge denied Hopkins' formal motion that the civil and criminal contempt charges be dropped and the proceedings be ended.

Union attorneys had argued the court had no right to issue back to work orders to the miners.

Attorneys Answer

Replying to charges that the union is in contempt of the court's back to work order, the attorneys:

1. Denied the union called the walkout.

2. Denied the union was responsible for continuing the idleness which has cut the nation's coal supply to famine level.

The UMW attorneys told Judge Richmond B. Keech that the strike was a result of individual action by the 370,000 soft coal diggers.

"Refusal to work was and is entirely without suggestion, direction or authorization of the respondent union and wholly in contempt of and contrary to the directions aforesaid by the respondent through its officers," said Welly K. Hopkins.

Hopkins is chief attorney for the union. Stripped of his legal phrases, his argument meant that John L. Lewis, as president of the mine workers, had ordered them back to work in compliance with the court's order, but the miners had not obeyed.

Order Now in Effect

Judge Keech has issued a temporary restraining order against a strike on Feb. 11. The order; once extended, is good until March 3.

Hopkins said that the only powers the union has are those of recommendation. He pointed out that Lewis and his fellow officers had sent two back to work orders to the miners since the court's decree without avail.

Hopkins also argued that Keech's order for the miners to go back to work without a contract was "involuntary servitude" and therefore was unconstitutional.

Hopkins said that the union's international executive board, which has the power to call a strike after a referendum vote of the membership, had issued no strike call.

The union has not "done any act to cause, induce, engage in, permit or encourage any alleged continuance," Hopkins said.

Blast of Snow From Canada Over Midwest

Chicago Gets Second Heavy Snowfall; Traffic Slowed

By The Associated Press

A blast of cold air from Canada spread across the snow-covered midwest today and sent temperatures to around 30 degrees below-zero in some areas. Snow fell over many sections of the cold belt.

The fast-moving storm headed eastward and was expected to move into the New England states by tonight. The northeastern part of the country was digging out from one of the season's worst sleet and snow storms.

The icy air covered the northern plains states and the upper Mississippi valley. Temperatures were below zero as far south as northern Iowa and were near zero in parts of northern Illinois.

Chicago got another heavy snowfall, the second this week, with more than four inches falling during the night. Traffic was slowed and some plane operations disrupted. Snow also fell in parts of Indiana, southern Michigan and northern Ohio.

Thirty Below

The mercury dipped to near 30 below zero in North Dakota and Minnesota early today. No immediate relief from the cold was forecast for the north central section. High readings forecast for northern Minnesota today were 5 to 15 below zero

Light snow was reported in the western Dakotas and eastern Montana while rain fell over most of the Pacific northwest. Generally fair weather was reported over the southern half of the country.

Temperatures, outside the frosty midwest, were near the seasonal normal and were a little above normal from the Rockies westward. Some early morning readings included Boston 24; Richmond 31; Miami 68; Detroit 27; Nashville 42; Denver 38; Spokane 38, and Albuquerque 43.

Can't Stomach Red Literature, But Eat Food They Donated

CAN'T STOMACH 2-24 ital . ..

MUSE, Pa., Feb. 24—(AP)—Many of the 1200 miners in this Southwestern Pennsylvania coal town are eating Communist-donated food today — but they say they can't stomach the literature that came with it.

Canned goods, laced with Communist signs and pamphlets, arrived from New York City for distribution among needy diggers in the big "no contract no work" strike.

United Mine Workers Local 5600 refused the cargo. The food and literature then were taken into a club across the street from union headquarters.

One club member said: "They got it in the club by trickery. If they ever try again, they'll find it dumped on the street.

Other club members destroyed the party literature before permitting the food to be distributed.

The cans of food were handed out by a handful of men who refused to identify themselves.

One miner said:

"We don't think much of it (the distribution) but we are hungary. We'll take the food."

Another miner tucked cans of food in his pockets and declared:

Late Victories For Conservatives in England's Election; Record Vote Out

LONDON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee's Labor party held only a narrow lead tonight in its bid to rule Britain for five more years, and faced the possibility of going into the new House of Commons with an unworkable majority.

Late Conservative victories threw up stumbling blocks on the road to Socialism. The Labor party, which had held an overnight lead of 61 seats, saw its advantage steadily whittled away as additional returns were tabulated from the 625 districts electing members too the House of Commons. Several times the count between the Laborites and their combined opposition was a standoff. Then the Laborites began building up a lead again and gained 17 seats in two hours.

Shortly after 6 p. m. the Laborites held a lead of 20 seats over their combined opposition. With 95 per cent of the vote counted, the results were:

Labor 308 seats, Conservatives and allied candidates 281, Liberals seven.

Need Thirty Seats

Labor needed a majority of at least 30 seats to function effectively, its leaders said.

Conservative party experts said at 6 p. m., that prospects of their winning a clear-cut victory looked "quite hopeless." But one analyst declared:

"Whichever government wins it will not stay in power long."

This posed the possibility of new elections if the Labor party emerged with a final victory but met defeat in the House of Commons on a vote of confidence.

Winston Churchill, who spearheaded the Conservatives along the comeback trail after their landslide defeat in 1945, said:

A Record Vote

The total vote in the elections, held yesterday, broke all records. In the first 550 districts 25,216,425 votes were counted, compared with the previous high for all districts of 25,018,393 in 1945. Eighty-five per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls in the 550 districts. The national average in 1945 was 73 per cent.

There will be 625 seats in the new House of Commons. There were 640 in the last house and the Laborites held 381 seats, the Conservatives 202.

Churchill himself re-elected by a big margin, told his constituency at Woodford:

"We cannot tell and I am certainly not going to pronounce what is going to happen, but it is abvious parliament is going to be in a very unstable condition.

Vote at 11 a. m.

"All we can do is to keep our eyes steadily fixed on the main purpose to bring our country back to the forefront of the nations and to make her a home for all our people."

The popular vote at 11 a. m. (CST) was:

Labor 11,698,099. Conservatives 10,938,204, Liberals 2,318,247.

With the race so close it was possible that votes in four constituencies in the remote parts of Scotland could have an important bearing on the issue. Because of travel difficulties they will not report on how they voted until next Monday.

The constituences are in the highlands an dislands off the Scottish coast. Of the four one voted Liberal National, one for Labor, and two for the Conservatives in 1945.

Lewis' Brother Shot to Death

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—Thomas A. Lewis, 67, brother of John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, was found shot to death today in his home here.

Deputy Coroner Catherine Rutherford said he had shot himself because of ill health.

Mrs. Rutherford said Lewis' wife, Leonore, discovered her husband's body in the bathtub on the second floor of the home. A revolver was lying near the body.

The deputy coroner said that Lewis, a retired Immigration Service employe, had been in ill health for some time and suffered a severe heart attack yesterday.

It was the second time in six weeks that death occurred in the Lewis family. Mrs. Ann Louisa Lewis, mother of the UMW leader died here Jan. 12 at the age of 91.

Perfectionism

Perfectionism means a striving after supreme excellence. The perfectionist may be an artist trying to create something that is flawless in design and execution. He may be a workman intent on doing a job that is completely competent. Or he may be an individual with an intense desire to pattern his life in full accord with the will of God.

Every human being has a duty to bring the best in him to every task. There should be perfectionists in every office and factory. Parents and teachers cannot afford to be negligent or slip-shod in the vital roles assigned to them. A great responsibility rests on leaders of government lest hasty or careless decisions spell widespread disaster or calamity.

It must be remembered, however, that perfectionism sometimes becomes a vice rather than virtue. The perfectionist may give up a task because he sees too many imperfections in the work already done. Or he may waste hours or days trying to iron out unimportant imperfections from unimportant products. In the spiritual order, perfectionism may degenerate into scrupulosity.

Very often perfectionism leads to sloth. A man who finds his efforts unsatisfying may gradually acquire the habit of taking it easy and doing as little as he can get by with. Sometimes perfectionism may be motivated by vanity or human respect. Often the perfectionist's trouble is that he wants to be considered a genius and cannot abide the slightest reflection on his genius.

Perfectionism must always be accompanied by a sensible regard for one's own limitations. There are no absolute standards in perfectionism. Not all artists can produce masterpieces. Some must be content to do work that is at least technically flawless. A writer may turn out a sound book that is not literature. And so on.

Perfectionism nevertheless always makes high demands. This is especially true in the spiritual life. These demands call for humility, exalted resolve, constant prayer, and ready submission to God's will. The spiritual perfectionists are those with the single aim of imitating the perfection of Christ. They may fall many times from grace, but through penance and self-control they ultimately achieve the infinitely great goal of uniting themselves forever with God.

Sedalia Woman Wins Award In Crazy Hat Contest in K. C.

Mrs. William Schutt, 3600 South Kentucky avenue, Wednesday attended the program "Luncheon on the Plaza" at Sears Roebuck store in Kansas City which is broadcast over station WHB at 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. Schutts entered the crazy hat contest wearing a hat representing a farm yard, which was a winner and as an award she received a large box of food. The clever hat worn by Mrs. Schutts was a wide brimmed affair and not only had the farm house and other buildings surrounded by a fence, the many animals and fowls found in a farm yard but also had a little man milking and a woman churning. Mrs. Schutts had used the small farm figures several years ago as a table centerpiece when she entertained for a bride who was marrying a farmer. When she decided to attend the program and enter the contest Mrs. Schutts got out the little farm yard and put it on a hat. She had a little difficulty going up on the train she dropped the hat and the figures, at least part of them came off.

Friends helped her pick them up and someone suggested sticking them on with nail polish, producing from her purse a small bottle of polish. And it worked. But by the time they reached Kansas City and the time drew closer for the program the figures began to come loose again. This time, in desperation, Mrs. Schutts used adhesive tape and managed to keep all of the animals intact long enough to win in the contest.

Another Sedalian was presented with a corsage at the same program for being the oldest persons there. She was Mrs. Fred Knehans, who was 76 years old on January 30. Mrs. Knehans has been spending the winter months in Kansas City with her daughter, Mrs. Oscar Samuelson.

Secretary of State is In Trouble

Doesn't Know The Political Faith Of Newspapers

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 24—(/P)—How do you tell whether a newspaper is Republican, Democratic or independent?

That was the question puzzling Secretary of State Walter H. Toberman. He had to find a workable solution, because the law says he has to designate two newspapers in each county—of opposite political faith—to publish the four cent gas tax law to be voted on at a referendum election April 4.

So Toberman took the question to Attorney General J. E. Taylor. He came up today with this conclusion:

(1) The secretary of state may determine a newspaper's politics from the way it is listed with the Missouri Press Association or with the secretary of state's own blue book department. But that alone is not enough.

Other Considerations

(2) The secretary of state may also consider whether the newspaper has actually supported the candidates and policies of the party it claims to represent.

(3) As for a newspaper which calls itself an independent paper, it "is not a newspaper of any political faith and therefore is not entitled to be designated (to publish the election information) except in the absence of newspapers representing two political faiths."

Assistant Attorney General Robert R. Welborn, who wrote the opinion, also noted that "The known politics of the owner would not have any bearing on the matter unless the newspaper also supported and carried out such politics."

"All Democrats"

Reporters asked Toberman why he didn't solve the problem by just calling up the editors and asking them the politics of their papers.

"Well, you know, they all tell me their Democrats when I talk to them," Toberman smiled. Like the other elected state officials, he is a Democrat.

He said the question of newspaper politics "isn't pestering me as much as another problem — what can we do in a county where no newspaper is willing to take the official publication?"

He hasn't found the answer to that one yet.

In counties where two papers are designated, each will receive $336 to carry the official notice twice — a cost of $672 for each county.

That makes a total publication cost of $77,280 for the whole state.

Attend Insurance Clinic

A number of Sedalia insurance agents attended an insurance clinic of the Missouri 1752 club which was held all day Thursday at the Bothwell hotel.

The fire panel was composed of William Dow of Mansfield, O.; H. R. Gist, Columbia, Mo. The casualty panel was composed of J. R. Pound and Kenny Kay.

In 1752, Benjamin Franklin started the first fire insurance company in America, the Philadelphia and Contributionship, which is still in operation.

H. M. Anderson of Kansas City was chairman of the clinic.

Another Drop In Living Cost

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(/P)—A government report today on consumer prices in January was expected to show another drop in the U. S. cost of living.

The labor department report (about 11 a. m. EST) may show a dip sufficient to bring a wage cut to the 362,000 General Motors workers whose pay is tied by contract to the Bureau of Labor Statistics index.

A price decline is usual in January, officials said, because of the seasonal decline in food prices, January sales, and other factors. Wholesale prices have climbed in recent weeks, but the rises have not had time to affect retail price tags.

The consumer's index dropped more than a full point in December—the biggest drop in any month last year—and stood at 167.5 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

General Motors' agreement with the CIO United Auto Workers contains a sliding wage clause. The pay rate, which now averages $1.64 an hour, moves up or down at the rate of one cent hourly for each 1.14 point change in the official index, but does not go below a fixed minimum.

Department Store Sales Slightly up

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24—(/P)—Department store sales in the federal reserve bank's eighth district in the week ended Feb. 18 averaged slightly higher than in the same week a year ago.

In Little Rock, Ark., however, sales dropped 6 per cent. Louisville, Ky., recorded a two per cent drop.

Biggest increase in volume of sales was recorded by St. Louis and Memphis, Tenn., each with a 2 per cent gain.

The bank's weekly report said sales were up substantially in the smaller shopping centers, including Fort Smith, Ark., and Springfield, Mo. Grouped with other towns, these centers averaged an increase of 14 per cent.

Kiss Has Town Buzzing

Charlotte McClain (above) 16 was kissed by Riddell Riggs, 16, when he crowned her basketball queen of Bethany, Okla., and the central Oklahoma "blue law" town hasn't heard the last of it yet. Since kissing is taboo, 30 students walked out fearing punishment. Five leaders were suspended from school. Angry parents are now threatening court action against the strict school authority. Not Yet Told Of Robbery

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24—(/P)—Aged multimillionaire William G. Mather was still unaware today that seven hooded gunmen had terrorized his household and looted the mansion of $350,000 in gems while he was peacefully sleeping.

Members of the household said the 92-year-old iron ore and shipping magnate had not been told of yesterday's robbery because of his health.

Police Chief William T L'Estrange said last night he was convinced the robbers, who brandished a submachine-gun and revolvers, were "an out-of-town gang."

L'Estrange said the holdup trail seemed to lead to New York. He explained he had learned that most of the servants hired by the Mathers in recent years had been obtained through a New York agency. Some have left the household and their whereabouts is being checked, he added.

Price Cuts on GM Cars-Trucks

DETROIT, Feb. 24.—(/P)—Price cuts ranging from $10 to $40 on the prices of all its cars and trucks were announced today by General Motors Corp. The reductions are effective immediately and come with announcement of downward adjustment in the cost living allowance given GM employes.

An adjustment of the cost of living allowawnce given GM employes is part of the contract between GM and its hourly and salaried workers. It is revised according to the cost of living index of the bureau of labor statistics.

Under the terms of the adjustment formula, there will be a two cents an hour reduction in the cost-of-living allowance for 290,000 hourly rated employes and a $10 quarterly reduction in cost of living bonuses paid approximately 72,000 salaried workers. This revision will be effective March 1.

Elimination Withholding Tax Asked For

Former Secretary Of State Byrnes Expresses Opinion

James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State and "Assistant President" during the World War II, today called for the elimination of the withholding tax, maintaining that it was neither sound nor honest to give the taxpayer a "mild anesthetic" while his money is being taken from him.

Writing in Collier's, Byrnes said that under the withholding tax system, millions of workers do not realize they are paying income taxes.

"If like others, he (the taxpayer) had to pay quarterly installments out of the money he had already taken home, I predict it would result in reducing appropriations several billions of dollars," Byrnes wrote in the Collier's article, entitled "Crisis Government Can Ruin Us."

"It costs the employers time and money to collect the taxes from their employees, and it often makes the employee angry with the employer.

Should Work Both Ways

"Taxes should not be collected from them every pay day when employers are allowed to pay their taxes quarterly.

"The employees should be treated just as are the employers; they are equally as honest."

"It may be argued that if employees are treated this way, the government would lose some money. Even if this were true, the people would save money."

Byrnes called on all employers in the nation to insert an informative slip in each worker's pay envelope.

"Let him (the employer) have printed and placed in every worker's pay envelope a slip stating: 'The amount of your pay is——. I have been forced by the government to deduct from your pay for income taxes—and for Social Security taxes—.'

"When the worker's wife gets that slip she will think of many things she could have purchased with the amount deducted, and the chances are she will think of writing her Congressman about government expenditures."

Gives Warning

In the Collier's article, Byrnes, now a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of South Carolina, warned that the American people will lose its liberties unless the growth of big government, big spending and big borrowing is halted.

As an example, he maintained that he could not think of "one compelling reason" for the country to change from its present health system "that is giving us progressive and sensationally good results" to one that he believes is "doubtful and experimental."

"Proposals for some kind of socialization in this field are put forward as a 'must'—a word that is an insult to the Congress, though, unfortunately, many of its members do not seem to realize it," he wrote. "General health conditions in the United States are excellent, and improving rapidly.

Must Train Doctors

"Regardless of how much money is appropriated for a government bureau, you cannot get medical treatment for more people unless you have more doctors. But you cannot secure a doctor by legislation—he must be trained. Medical colleges are already working on their own to increase their faculties and their students.

"If the politicians will let the doctors alone, the government will be able to continue its boasts about improved health conditions."

Byrnes revealed that socialized medicine was not proposed by the late President Roosevelt and quoted FDR as saying in a 1940 radio speech that "neither the American people nor their government intend to socialize medical practice any more than they plan to socialize industry."

No Crisis Now

"So far as I know, he did not thereafter change his views," Byrnes said.

To pay his federal taxes, the average worker today puts in about 47 days a year—close to one day a week, the former Secretary continued. But if the government's proposed programs such as socialized medicine, federal aid to education and new-plant construction—are put into effect, the average worker will then have to give the pay from 67 days of his work to pay federal taxes of all kinds.

"When there is a real crisis, it is necessary to give the ventral government extraordinary powers. But today there is no war and no depression. There is no crisis that justifies continuing those powers unmodified, let alone extending them."

One-Armed Man Gets Passport

TEXARKANA, Ark., Feb. 24—(AP)—A one-armed painter had to have a passport to get out of this border city yesterday.

The man, hitch hiking to Kansas City, arrived during the hunt for five prisoners, including a one-armed man, who broke out of the Bowie county, Texas, jail at Boston Wednesday night.

After he had been returned here several times by officers hunting the prisoners, Deputy Sheriff Frank Riley furnished the passport, a document certifying that he was not one of the fugitives, and drove him to Ashdown, Ark.

The last word from the man, whose name Riley did not disclose, is that he was picked up by Little River County Sheriff Tom Jester at Ashdown, but immediately cleared by his "passport."

The last of the escaped prisoners were captured near here last night.

Pike County Judge Against Gas Tax Law

Writes Members Of Association of His Opinions

BOWLING GREEN, Mo., Feb.—(AP) — Pike County Judge H. H. Palmer has asked all the county judges in Missouri to join him in opposing Gov. Forrest Smith's four cent gasoline tax law.

Palmer is presiding judge of the Pike county court and vice-president of the Missouri Judges' association. He said today he sent a letter to other county judges, urging defeat of the law, in his capacity as an official of the judges' association.

The governor's plan to double the present two cent tax comes up for a vote at a special referendum election April 4.

The law includes a pledge by the state highway commission that it will use one cent of the extra revenue to build low type rural roads. But Palmer expressed doubt about that promise in the letter he sent other judges and newspapers of the state.

Charges Doublecrossing

"It looks like the highway department is going to doublecross the counties again," he wrote. "According to newspaper reports, they are making a deal with the city officials for support on the gas tax vote. Where will that leave the counties?

"They have been asking for more money for the state roads. If they pass out some of this money to the cities, will there be any left for the county roads? You all know what has happened to us in the past. It looks like we will be left in the same boat again.

"A personal friend of mine in the attorney general's office advised me that the legislature could not earmark a cent of the road money for rural roads or any other purpose as it must all go through the highway department. It is my opinion that if this law passes, they will quote the law to us and that will leave us out."

Hits At Contractors

Palmer charged "the contractors, who are financing the campaign for the increase, have no interest in building rural roads."

"Let's take a good look before we connect ourselves with an organization that has always built slab roads and is not interested in mud roads," he urged.

"I am against this gas tax bill and I hope you are too. I am sending a copy of this letter to the newspaper sand I hope you will back me up."

'He'd Broken Laws Before' Witness Said

Declared Doctor Made That Statement In Conversation

By Henry L. Supple

MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24—(AP)—A hospital records keeper testified today that Dr. Herman N. Sander said he knew he had broken a law in the "mercy killing" death of a cancer patient and added "he'd broken laws before — he'd been through stop signs."

Miss Josephine Connor, medical librarian at Hillsboro county hospital, calmly told a 13-man jury about a conversation she said she heard between a county medical referee and Sander.

Dr. Sander is being tried on a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59, Manchester housewife.

Broken Laws Before

"Dr. Biron asked if he Sander) realized he had broken the law. Dr. Sander said 'Yes, he'd broken laws before — he'd been through stop signs.

"Dr. Biron said this was more serious. This was murder . . . Dr. Sander said he did realize he'd broken the law but the law should be changed.

"Dr. Biron said 'Why didn't you change it first — before you did this?"

Miss Connor testified she did not remember Dr. Sander's reply to that last question.

Dr. Sander's Answer

Dr. Sander sat cross-legged, chewing a candy drop as he heard the nurse testify that he gave this answer when Dr. Biron asked him about the manner of Mrs. Borroto's death:

"Dr. Sander's answer to that was 'Well, Mr. Borroto was so tired and if you could have seen him up all night drinking coffee and smoking you would have been sorry for him, too'."

Miss Connor said Dr. Biron then put the question flatly to Dr. Sander:

"Why did you do it?"

She said Dr. Sander did not answer "other than Mr. Borroto was tired and had a hard night."

Dr. Biron then asked Sander, the nurse testified, if he realized the seriousness of it and "that it might be brought up at a later date."

Dr. Sander replied, Miss Connor said, that "he saw no reason why it should be."

J. C. Nichols Will is Filed

The will was filed for probate today. It provides that after the death of Mrs. Nichols his estate will be held in trust for his three children.

Under the will's provisions, the children who are 40 years old (or upon reaching that age) are to receive half their share of the trust estate and the other half is to be kept in trust with the income paid to them for their lifetime.

At the death of any of the three children, the income from the trust estate would be paid to the children of the heir until they reach the age of 21. Then the principal would be distributed to the grandchildren of Nichols.

Nichols' three children are Miller Nichols, Jesse Clyde Nichols, Jr., and Mrs. Eleanor N. Allen.

The only specific bequest, aside from personal property, was the bestowal of 400 shares of J. C. Nichols Company stock to Ansel N. Mitchell, a nephew who is superintendent of the firm's construction department.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

U. S Roving Ambassador Philip Jessup has slipped quietly into New Delhi, India, but while his advent has been unheralded and unsung we are safe in interpreting it as a matter of prime international importance

There are two things which support this assumption One is that the distinguished but unobtrusive Jessup is a key figure in the development of Washington's Far Eastern policy The other is that India bids fair to emerge as chief of the independent democracies of Asia

Thus we reach the conclusion that America's policy in that part of the world must be heavily influenced by India And when we speak of India we are of course, thinking of her dynamic leader Prime Minister Nehru, one of the world's great personalities who recently made an extensive tour of the United States

Hope For Joint Program

It is interesting that as Prime Minister Nehru and Ambassador Jessup got together in India, Secretary of State Dean Acheson should be discussing the Far Eastern position with the Senate foreign relations committee in Washington He said the State Department is looking hopefully for the countries of southeast Asia to join together in an economic, political and social program backed by American dollar aid

However, Acheson said any such association must be spontaneous and the U S government must wait for those nations to act first He added that there are no concrete results yet

Quite likely is it concrete results which Jessup seeks in New Delhi

For Freedom Without Communism

Broadly speaking America's policy has been aimed at a solution which would give the peoples of southeast Asia freedom without Communism Nehru is important as a symbol of successful nationalist forces which have found a solution that isn't Communist

Nehru has made it plain that India won't join any anti-Communist bloc This doesn't mean that he is pro-Communist but that he doesn't propose to get involved in the ideological war Hence America's willingness to accept the idea of a spontaneous association of Asiatic nations with which Washington can cooperate

India's Support Vital

Since India's support is vital for the formation of such an association, Jessup undoubtedly is discussing that matter with Nehru The ambassador also is bound to be putting his best foot forward to strengthen relations between India and America

It is an amazing thing to find India, which received its independence from England less than three years ago today assuming such a position of leadership in the Far East

Of course the Orient is in a state of turmoil, it is in the melting pot Still it is possible to say that India may be the paramount nation of the Far East and certainly will rank as one of the world's dominant powers China is bigger in area and population and has greater resources, but the question of whether that shattered and disunited country will again rank as one of the "Big Five" powers is highly problematical

Statement to Reporters

Jessup yesterday made a statement to reporters which was virtually an echo of Secretary Acheson's statement before the Senate committee The ambassador declared America isn't indulging in a struggle for power in the Far East

The aim of the United States Jessup said "is to support the independent development of peoples which we see threatened primarily by this expanding imperialism" of the Soviet Union

Bert Andrews—New GOP Publicist?

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON. — Bert Andrews, Pulitzer prize-winning chief of the New York Herald Tribune's Washington bureau, has been offered the man-size job of breathing life into the Republican party.

Officially, Andrews' position would be GOP director of public relations—a job now vacant. However, in view of Andrews' thorough knowledge of Washington politics, GOP chairman Guy Gabrielson is expected to give him an almost free hand in guiding the party's destiny.

Though hard pressed for funds, the Republican national committee feels that Andrews would perform political miracles and consequently have offered him a $40,000 contract to run for seven years.

Civilian Defense Speeded

It's an unpleasant but inescapable fact that civilian defense preparations for dealing with any surprise attack on the United States are being speeded up in important talks inside the Pentagon building.

The old days of air-raid wardens, sand buckets and tin hats are now over, and the new civilian defense against atomic war will concentrate chiefly on diversification of industry, blood plasma, and underground garages.

Medical experiments, as a result of the Hiroshima bombing, have shown that whole blood and plasma are the only effective treatment for radioactivity. Thus, large blood banks must be built up.

Also under consideration are underground garages in all major cities. It is believed that these not only can help to solve downtown traffic problems, but serve as air-raid shelters in case of emergency. The program now under consideration may be so great that federal funds will be advanced to states or cities.

Military planners have also been considering the whole field of war-plant dispersal. In general it's believed that it would be too expensive to uproot certain major industries, such as the auto industry in Detroit. Instead, military planners propose duplicate facilities built on a stand-by-basis.

The civilian defense program may lead to enormous expansion of industrial capacity and the relocation of some parts of the population, but there will be no drastic changes overnight.

The Army Walks

Testifying before the House Armed Services committee, Defense Secretary Louis Johnson was asked why the draft act had to be extended to get men into the Army.

"We don't need legislation to get recruits for the Navy and Air Forces," remarked Congressman Doyle of Long Beach, Calif.

"Mr. Doyle's question can be answered very simply," interrupted chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia. "The Navy floats . . . the Air Force flies . . . the Army walks."

Lewis's Tragic Climax

John L. Lewis, at the age of 70, has reached the most tragic climax of his long career.

His tragedy lies in that he has done more for one great segment of labor than any other individual in history, yet the more he has done for the miners, the less demand he has created for their product. As a result other fuels today have become almost as important as coal.

Another tragedy is that, in waging his battle, John L. and his bushy eyebrows, his stentorian statements and his bulldozing manner have become such a symbol of dislike to the American public that there is little sympathy for the miners he represents. And they deserve sympathy.

Finally, John L., aged, lonely and at the peak of his career, appears to have lost control of his miners for the first time. He had partly lost control during the three-day week, which many of them blamed on him, not understanding that the demand for coal had lessened.

Now they are sore at the operators and Taft-Hartley, and the government which has invoked the T-H act.

Sick Industry

The truth is that the coal industry is sick. And Lewis, by his work stoppages to win wage increases, has made it sicker. Every strike he called, every wage boost he won increased the demand for oil and natural gas, until today only 26 per cent of the nation's passenger trains burn coal, as against 68 per cent two years ago. Today, also, so many factories, electric power plants and homes are turning to oil that it is doubtful the mines will ever need to work much more than three days a week except in case of emergencies.

That is why President Truman, if he really wanted to solve the coal crisis, could have appointed not a fact-finding board for wages but a fuel commission.

What the nation needs to know is whether certain unproductive mines should not be closed down with other mines operating full time; whether some miners should not move to other jobs, allowing other mines to work full time. In brief, what the very sick coal industry needs is not prolonged bickering, but over-all planning.

Dewey Dictum

J. Russel Sprague, shrewd political adviser to Tom Dewey, had a meeting with GOP leaders in and around New York City the other day. He, Sprague, laid down orders that the party leaders must:

1. Pledge their support for Dewey's renomination, if Dewey decides to run, and
2. If Dewey decides to step out, they must support his choice for the nomination.

GOP leaders went along on the first request, but refused to swallow number two.

U.S. vs. U.S.S.R. Justice

Larry Todd, the thin, red-cheeked reporter for the Russian news agency, Tass, rushed into the State Department's press office to ask: "Does the department have a statement on the arrest of Klaus Fuchs?"

Roger Tubby, an assistant to Secretary Dean Acheson, looked up and said no. Then, he added: "This goes to show the difference between the American and Russian systems. Over here," he continued, "a man accused of giving secrets to the Russians is investigated openly before congressional committees. The story is in all the papers and on the radio. The case is argued on forums. The trial is public.

"But, in Russia," concluded Tubby, "if a man is accused of giving secrets to the U.S., he just vanishes. No stories, no trial, no man."

Football Dictatorship

Peron's dictatorship in Argentina gets to looking more and more every day like one of the iron curtain "popular democracies." This now applies even to football.

The glib Gaucho's latest move to get in step with his totalitarian colleagues was the arrest of two professional football players who tried to leave the country in order to play in Colombia.

Half a dozen of the best Argentine players have been lured away by Colombian teams during the past year. As a result, Buenos Aires outfits are now so relatively weak that the government has refused to send a team to the world soccer championship, to be held in Rio de Janeiro next July.

However, no official action had previously been taken to prevent players from leaving Argentina. That was why an Argentine who joined a Colombian team last spring announced in Bogota that he would renew his contract in Colombia "because in this country," he said, "I can live like a gentleman and am treated like one."

Thirty-six hours later, two Buenos Aires stars, Vincente de La Mata and Jose Arnaldo, went to the airport in the Argentine capital to board a plane for Colombia. Argentine federal police, however, detained them and took them back to the city, charged with "income-tax irregularities."

The following day, the Argentine minister of education Oscar Ivanissevich told a luncheon gathering:

"Just as we shall see to it that Argentina is not flooded with alien customs and cultural products, so we shall prevent the best of our own national life being taken from us."

Honest Self-Criticism Is Prime Need of Labor

By Bruce Biossat

Labor leaders don't often indulge in self-criticism, so when they do the event should be marked well.

We had such an instance the other day when George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, took his fellow unionists to task for too often ignoring the general good while serving their own selfish interests.

The labor movement, he said, probably "places too much emphasis on the narrow policy of higher wages and shorter hours to the neglect of other important matters."

Brother Harrison's words are refreshing. It's the first inkling we've had that labor may not be as pure as its spokesmen so stutly maintain.

No reasonable person wants labor to nod an eager second to every charge leveled against it, or to indulge in a rash of self-censure. But it would be welcome proof of growing maturity if unions would concede they are as much guilty of human error and excess as the next fellow.

Unfortunately the chief offenders in promoting the idea that labor is without sin have been its highest leaders, William Green, president of the AFL, and Philip Murray, head of the CIO. One may comb their public remarks diligently without encountering the slightest hint that all is not perfect within their domains.

This attitude was most pointedly evident in the 1947 and 1949 congressional hearings on the Taft-Hartley law. Undoubtedly many lawmakers approached labor law revision in vindictive fashion. But many others were moderate men earnestly worried by the impact of labor strife on the general welfare.

These men sought vainly first to get labor to admit shortcomings which were plainly written in the nation's economic history, and second to propose its own plan for better labor relations. Unions took the view that no problems existed and hence no law was needed.

It's hard for a bystander to see how this juvenile stubbornness is any more commendable than the blindness of the many industrialists who so long insisted there was no "labor problem."

Taft-Hartley will loom large in the 1950 election campaign. And if the Democrats retain their grip on Congress, next year is certain to see another try at repealing that act.

The best thing Green and Murray can do meantime is to engage in the sort of searching self-examination suggested by Harrison in his recent Detroit speech. When they come to Capitol Hill a third time, let them be ready to offer an honest labor program of their own. The country has had enough of these absurd professions of lily-white innocence.

Operation Etiquetchup

The Army handed out a stern lesson in table manners recently. Two enlisted men were court-martialed for refusing to pass the ketchup to a sergeant.

"Increased respect for senior non-commissioned officers, along with a keener awareness of correct table manners, is expected of all GI's as the result of the trial," said the Army.

This sounds as if the top brass expected the boys to rush out and gobble up copies of Emily Post's Etiquette.

A more likely result will be a new password to denote the approach of a sergeant: "Please pass the ketchup.

THE DISRUPTIVE EFFECTS OF ANGER

Now that we have seen the possibilities of righteous anger for good, let us look at the possibilities of resentments for evil.

There was a time when men thought that to get angry and hold resentments was just too bad; holding resentments made people difficult to get along with but nothing much happened except just that. We know now the fallacy of that belief, for in the cold white light of science the effects of anger are being revealed.

First, upon the intestinal tract. Some doctors put a tube down through the nostrils of a man into his stomach. They tested the contents of his stomach according to the states of his mind. When he was in good humor, digestion went on normally; but after they had purposely made him angry, digestion completely stopped. Only when they brought him back into good humor would digestion start again. This fact was at the basis of a doctor's advice when he said: "You ought to feel good-minded when you eat. If you don't feel good-minded, you'd better lay off from your eating."

A doctor could not find any physical basis for the constant vomiting of one of his patients. One day she incidentally remarked that her mother-in-law was coming to visit her at Thanksgiving. Taking this chance remark as a clue, he sent for the husband, persuaded him to wire his mother suggesting the postponement of her visit, told the wife that the mother-in-law was not coming, and the vomiting stopped. The resentments had upset her digestion.

The doctors tell us that stomach ulcers are often caused by anger and resentments, and that they will return even after they are cut out by operation, the edges of the wound becoming ulcerated again, if the resentments are not eliminated.

Such scientific revelation makes it quite clear that the stomach in its very constitution is made for good will and not for ill will.

Anger may cause arthritis. A mother-in-law did not like her son-in-law, whom she visited once a year. Every time she went to visit him she developed arthritis, and every time she came home again she was well.

O God, my Father, I see that good will brings harmony and peace and effectiveness, and that ill will makes for disharmony, upset and ineffectiveness—it lays a paralyzing hand on soul and body. Then save me from any clinging resentments. Help me to pull them up by the roots. Amen.

It's Not Hard for Wife to Get Back in Step With Husband

It is all very well to advise young wives to keep in step with their husbands. But what of the wife who one day wakes up to the fact that she hasn't kept up? What can he tell her?

To the wife who has asked me for an answer to that question I would like to say this?

Your husband may be ahead of you now. But there's nothing to keep you from catching up if you really try.

You say you have few friends of your own, that most of the people you see as couples are his friends. Well, that can be changed. You can make his friends your friends, too, if you will stop coasting along as Mr. So-and-so's meek little wife and asert your own personality.

You say your husband is active in community affairs while your only interest for years have been your home and family. Well, find out about the community work your husband is doing. You won't feel so left out if you know what he is trying to accomplish and can give him some encouragement.

With as many opportunities as there are for women to do worth-while community work no wife has to sit back and envy her husband because he is a real part of the community. She can contribute just as much, if she is willing to work.

Get Out and Meet People

You say your husband is much at ease socially than you are. That is probably because he is out meeting people every day—while you are sitting at home. Get out on your own a little, even if it is an effort at first.

And last, but not least, quit low-rating yourself. You aren't alone in your situation. Lots of women fail to keep up with their husbands through the years. But most of those who lag behind never face the fact. You have faced it—and are ready to do something about it. That's a good start already.

So don't wait for tomorrow. Start today to reorganize your life. You can catch up with your husband without wasting any more time. But you'll never catch him if you just continue to coast along.

XXIX

ALICE PINE needed an interval in which to think out what to explain and how to say what she wanted to say when she met Brent Halleck at Grosvenor Point.

At first, during that long drive from the city, it had been hard to compose her thoughts with the wind singing a song around her. She still wasn't able to get everything straight. But gradually the explanations came. Even though there were things she had to guess, she knew practically everything.

Of course, Alice would never be able to figure out exactly why Muriel wanted to discredit Brent around the village of Tolliver. Especially with people like Molly Tremayne. But Alice had a vague idea why.

It must have done something for Muriel's ego, she decided. Muriel wanted to build herself up by tearing Brent down through innuendos and half-truths. Alice had seen it work in her own case. Muriel wanted to pose as the success in the Halleck family, even as the breadwinner, and to destroy Brent—to point him out as the failure.

Alice couldn't think what must have been in Muriel's mind to do such a thing. But Muriel seems to have gotten some sort of a vicarious kick out of it. And to call Brent a failure was a half-truth, in a way, although perhaps Muriel herself had made it as true as it was. Muriel really had been the breadwinner for awhile.

And why not? While Muriel was making a success of her career, Brent was away, at war. Before Brent actually left, though, he had given Muriel the security she had needed in order to make her stories click. As soon as Muriel got that security, she had all she wanted from Brent. Muriel had practically admitted this to Alice.

Then, when Brent came back from the war, he had lost his magazine contacts and had a bad time re-establishing them. He had been gone for more than four years.

Brent might have been discouraged and when he turned to Muriel for the help he needed none had been forthcoming. Muriel was far ahead of him on the road to success.

ALICE did not know and Chuck himself was unable to explain why, after Muriel had by-passed her husband, as she herself admitted that she did, she came to despise him.

Alice supposed it was because Brent was not making much money and felt a little uncertain. Maybe he was out of practice and his illustrations failed to have that old sparkle. But a little encouragement would have helped. Instead, Muriel preferred to kick Brent when he was down. No one could answer why, except possibly a psychiatrist. Muriel seemed to be a kind of charming and inexplicable sadist. But Alice told herself that it did not matter now.

But naturally it mattered terribly to Brent then. He had no one excepting his best friend, and Chuck Wisner was just that, to turn to. But Chuck, by his own admission, was not the type to inspire a person on to greater things. Muriel was the cause of Brent's sarcastic, chip-on-the-shoulder attitude that Alice had noticed when she first came to Grosvenor Point.

When Brent had objected to Sloan cutting down the apple tree, he was resenting Muriel's infringement on his rights. The tree was his.

It also explained the way Brent looked—rather defeated, with a droop in his shoulders. He was defeated because Muriel thought he was, although Alice had a hunch things might change as soon as Brent got his feet on the ground. That was the reason for the job in Providence. Brent wanted to get his feet on the ground.

Alice couldn't blame Brent too much for the chip. It must have been pretty terrible, living with a financially independent, successful woman who never lost a single opportunity to remind him how rich and how successful she was getting.

Brent would deny some of this. In her mind she could see him shake his head. But it was true.

ALICE'S mind went on over each detail of the unraveled puzzle. She knew all about Brent's decision not to contest Muriel's divorce. Chuck had told her. And she knew that Brent would have to buy the old place back, even again, from Muriel now since Brent had put the property in her name after their marriage.

Brent was on a job he disliked, but he could earn enough to buy the place. Of course, Muriel would let Brent have it on easy terms. But why shouldn't Muriel? The Point was Brent's home. It meant everything to him. And Brent probably had always felt that it was his place, even when it was not legally his.

It must have been a wrench to Brent when he had let her tear down his old house. Brent could not have stopped Muriel from this. He was away at war and Muriel was the breadwinner.

Later Brent had found that actually Muriel didn't want to take Rick. That point had been cleared up by Chuck Wisner. And later—Chuck hadn't talked about this, because he hadn't known about it—Muriel had let Brent take the blame for something he hadn't done. That whip episode the night of the storm.

Brent had been too decent to clear it up with Alice. Muriel was still Brent's wife and he felt, Alice decided, that Brent had to protect her. But Muriel did come through and clear this up. That's something Alice would always remember.

Alice was approaching Grosvenor Point now. She slowed down her car as the Halleck place came into view. She swerved into the drive, and parked her machine a little to one side.

She would leave room for Brent's car, when he came.

The Doctor Says—

Iritis, Serious Eye Disease, Should be Diagnosed at Once

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Iritis is a disease of the eyes. Its principal symptoms consist of pain, watering of the eyes, excessive sensitivity to bright light and if long continued, interference with vision. The pain is likely to be severe and worse at night. Touching or pressing the eyeball is excrutiatingly painful.

In acute iritis the symptoms tend to be worse than in the chronis variety, but recovery usually comes more rapidly—perhaps in a few weeks. When proper treatmen is begun early the iritis can clear up completely, but complications and the possibility of chronic inflammation are unfortunate possibilities.

Several different conditions can cause either the acute or chronic type of iritis. Iritis is sometimes associated with rheumatism, diabetes, tuberculosis, syphilis, or injury. It is most important that the cause of the iritis be discovered whenever possible. However, unfortunately in some cases no cause whatever can be found.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

The disease of condition producing the inflammation of the iris must be treated as well as the eye itself. The search for infection or other disease elsewhere in the body must be carried out painstakingly and thoroughly.

Protein Therapy

The eye itself requires highly skilled treatment, including the use of drugs, heat applied locally, rest and protection from light. Sometimes a method called foreign therapy has been found helpful in iritis. This consists in injecting some protein substance (boiled milk is an example) which produces a reaction of the body, usually with fever. This seems to stimulate resistance and often has a favorable effect on the iritis.

From this discussion it can be seen that iris is a serious condition requiring expert study and care.

When anything goes wrong with the eyes, diagnosis and treatment should not be delayed too long, as the risk of permanent damage to these vital organs is great. Among the sources of eye trouble iritis ranks high.

S-C Tigers To Finals In Regional

Championship Tilt Tonight With The Boonville Quintet

The Smith-Cotton Tigers advanced to the finals in the regional tourney being played at Boonville by downing the Columbia Kewpies 42 to 21 Thursday night. The Tigers were way below par in the evening's contest. They tightened up considerably in the game and never looked as good as they have in the past. The Tigers will meet the Boonville Pirates in the finals. The Pirates won the right to meet the Tigers in the battle for the crown by beating the Marshall Owls in the other semi-final game 39 to 16. Boonville played a much better game than they did in the first round of the tourney when they eeked out a 41 to 40 decision over Kemper. They displayed a lot of hustle in the game.

Sedalia had an off-night from the standpoint of individual play and ball handling, but it really didn't hurt them too much as they won easily over the outclassed Columbia team. The Tigers had a fair night in the hitting department as they connected with 17 of their 55 shots for a total percentage of 30.9. Columbia only made 7 out of 45 for a 15.5 percentage.

Bill Holst after a slow start in the contest went on in the last half to take high point honors for the game with 14 points. Bill Brown, the snappy Sedalia forward, was second with 10. Poor led Columbia with 9 points. Musgrave and Elliot tied for second with 4 apiece on the losing squad. In the second game Fowler led the Boonville team with 14 points while McDaniels and Bell tied for high points with 5 apiece for Marshall.

The tourney will end tonight with the third place game between Marshall and Columbia being played at 7:30 and the finals with the Tigers playing Boonville at 9 o'clock tonight. The regional champion will go to the state tourney being played at Columbia March 1 through 4. Sedalia stands a good chance to win, but the Boonville team showed Thursday that they have plenty of fight and could pull an upset.

First Quarter

The first period saw both teams playing very tight ball with both teams making bad passes. Sedalia held the Kewpies scoreless in the period but were only able to score six points themselves. Brown started the scoring for Sedalia by making an early side shot. Walker followed four minutes later with a free throw. Brown then connected for a Tiger charity toss and Ruffin hit a jump shot to end the quarter.

In the second period, Sedalia played one of their worst quarters as they only succeeded in outscoring Columbia by three points 11 to 8. This left the score standing in favor of Sedalia at intermission 17 to 8. This was one of the lowest half time scores for the Tigers all year. Holst and Brown started the quarter by making two Tiger goals on a side shot and a lay up. Timble then made the losers' first point of the game on a free throw. This was followed by five Tiger points on a free throw by Holst and set ups by Walker and Brown. Columbia then hit their hottest streak in the first half by sinking five points on two goals and a charity toss.

Tigers Have Bad Period

In the third period Sedalia outscored Columbia one point 7-6. This gave them the lead at the end of the quarter of 24 to 14. This was by far the worst Tiger quarter as nothing seemed to work right. Brown hit a Tiger side shot to start things rolling. The teams then exchanged free throws made by Poor and Holst. Walker followed with another Tiger set up and Elliott and Poor made a Columbia set shot and jump shot. Walker closed the slow period for the Tigers with another set up. Musgrave made the final score of the period on a Columbia free throw.

Tigers Comeback

In the final period Sedalia played their only good quarter of the ball game as they outscored Columbia 18 to 7 to win 42 to 21. The Tigers looked like they had just wakened up in this period and showed signs that they might be ready to play better ball tonight. Holst started the quarter on a Tiger tip in. Timble and Poor then made three Columbia points on a free throw and side shot. Sedalia hit a hot streak where they made six points on McCrary's and Holst's field goals and the same two boys' free throws. Poor counted with a Columbia side shot. Sedalia finished scoring on ten straight points, made on field goals: two by Holst and one by McCrary and Ruffin and free throws by Holst and Brown. Hoefer and Hawkins closed the game with a pair of Columbia free throws to make the final score stand at Sedalia 42, Columbia 21.

Boonville Puts on a Great Game

The Boonville Pirates served warning to the S-C Tigers by rolling over the powerful Marshall five 39 to 16. The Pirates were hot in every department and the Owls just couldn't seem to do anything right. After a see saw beginning, Boonville took an 8 to 5 first quarter lead after which they were never headed.

In the second period the Pirates opened up their lead to a comfortable halftime margin of 16 to 9. In this period, the Pirates began to out hustle the Owls a great deal and wear them down.

In the third quarter the Boonville quintet played their best quarter as they outscored Marshall 13 to 3 to move to a safe third quarter lead of 27 to 13 They displayed some fine defense work in this period.

In the final period Boonville stalled most of the way but still outscored Marshall 10 to 4 to win the game 39 to 16.

Charles and Beshore All Set for Big Fight

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 24—(AP)—Ezzard Charles and Freddie Beshore—"these men are ready for the fight of their lives." That was the conclusion yesterday of Dr. Louis A. Kaiser, who examined Charles and Beshore five days before their Tuesday bout in which Charles' NBA world's heavyweight crown will be at stake.

Charles weighed 189 ½, but his handlers said he would get down around 185 before the official weighing-in Tuesday noon. Beshore scaled 184 and expects to go into the 15-round scuffle at that figure.

If Dr. Tracy Isn't Careful, the Browns May Forget They Are Playing Ball

By Harry Grayson
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Dr. David F. Tracy, the first professional Svengali in organized baseball, plans to use new fangled methods in applying old fashioned cures to the jitters that beset ball players.

The psychologist-hypnotist believes the average big league player has the ability, but a minor league mind caused by what he terms "an anxiety complex." Or as a McGraw or Durocher would put it, "he chokes up."

"Men who have failed in the majors, frequently make good on the second attempt," says Dr. Tracy, a former semi-pro pitcher. "They've overcome a defeatist complex."

That will be the good doctor's prime purpose with St. Louis—to work with the players who are up for a second or third look with the Browns.

Frank Gustine, who hit only .226 with the Cubs last trip, is to receive special attention from Dr. Tracy.

How will the doctor handle Gustine's slump?

"I'll just hypnotize him and tell him he can be a .300 hitter," is the somewhat simplified explanation Dr. Tracy gives of the treatment he is positive will transform the third baseman into a demon slugger.

Officially hired by the brothers DeWitt as the Browns' psychiatrist for 1950, Dr. Tracy brings a new wrinkle to the national pastime.

"Everybody will cooperate and we'll have a lot of fun," he predicts with what may be undue optimism.

Dr. Tracy is of the opinion that mind over matter may even compensate for what sports observers not well versed in matters psychiatric might loosely term lack of physical ability.

"There is very little physical difference in players," avers Dr. Tracy. "The only reason Joe Dimaggio is so much greater than others is because of his tremendous mastery of the art of relaxation."

The St. Louis Americans peddled most of their top stars, as per usual, but Dr. Tracy is supposed to mesmerize the remaining members in an effort to put the Browns in the first division.

"By repeated suggestions I am going to see that our boys do not even know there are people in the stands," asserts Dr. Tracy.

If the good doctor isn't careful, the Browns may even forget they are playing baseball.

Boxer Loses In His Battle Against Death

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Laverne Roach, handsome ex-marine idol of Plainview, Texas, died Thursday of brain injuries received Wednesday night in a tenth round knockout loss to George Small of Brooklyn.

The end came at 12:50 p.m. (EST) with the patient in a deep coma at St. Claire's hospital where he had been taken on a stretcher from St. Nicholas arena.

"The patient was in a deep coma," the hospital report read, "and there was respiratory failure with final cessation of heart action due to the after effects of a cerebral hemmorrhage and brain damage."

Huddled at the bedside in stunned silence were the boxer's wife, Evelyn, and his manager, Johnny Abood, who handled Roach's career since his days with the Cherry Point, N. C. Marines. Yesterday was his 24th birthday.

Dr. Vincent A. Nardiello, New York state athletic commission physician, and four other doctors attended the stricken athlete after his last fight. Dr. Nardiello remained with the patient through the night until his death

The district attorney's office announced a full investigation of the fight that resulted in boxing's first fatality of 1950. Ring magazine records show 18 fight deaths last year, nine in the United States of which five were pros.

Questioning Today

Detective Lieutenant Henry Devlin, of the New York City police, said all persons concerned with the bout would be questioned at the district attorney's office tomorrow morning. He said he had seen the match and "there does not appear to be any negligence at this time."

Chairman Eddie Eagan of the New York State Athletic Commission, called an open hearing for today. He said a preliminary examination indicated no infraction of the commission rules.

Houston Open Led By Ed Forgol

HOUSTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Ed Furgol admits he is in rather unfamiliar surroundings but says he feels mighty good.

The physically handicapped Royal Oak, Mich., golfer turned in his best 18-hole score of his six-year professional career yesterday to take the leadership of the $10,000 Houston Open.

He determinedly ground out a 33-33-66 score to find himself two strokes ahead of the field at the start of today's second round.

While Furgol efficiently executed his approach shots and putting, most of the fans were watching two local idols—Jimmy Demaret, who now operates out of Ojai, Calif., and Jackie Burke, Jr., who registers from White Plains, N.Y.—run into their usual Houston bad luck.

Demaret wound up with a 74, eight strokes back of Furgol Burke finished at 76.

A stroke back of Todd were Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N.C., Leland Gibson, Kansas City, Mo., and Bill Nary, Los Angeles, Calif.

American Woman Golfer Plans to Enter Ireland Meet

ATLANTA, Feb. 24—(AP)—Dot Kirby, a top American woman golfer for almost 15 years, plans to compete in the British women's amateur tournament in Ireland May 15-19.

In 1948, Miss Kirby reached the quarter finals of the British amateur. She lost to a fellow Atlantan, Louis Suggs, on the 20th hole. She also was on the 1948 Curtis cup team.

Miss Kirby has won five major tournaments and has been runner-up in seven others.

Clubs Would Like to Have Glenn Davis

FORT MONROE, Va., Feb. 24—(AP)—Professional football and big league baseball today turned that "come hither" look in the direction of Glenn Davis, the former Army gridiron great.

The "Mr. Outside" of the finest football teams produced at West Point is coming out of the army. The army said so yesterday. It accepted the resignation of the 25-year-old first lieutenant.

Neither football nor baseball—nor anybody else—can officially deal with Davis until March 1. That's when he will be free to accept civilian employment. His army resignation won't become final until June 3.

If Davis plays football — and he said today he would — it will be with the Los Angeles Rams. The Rams own first crack at Davis, who teamed with Felix (Doc) Blanchard at Army to form one of the most effective offensive football combinations in history. Davis made the Associated Press all-America team in 1944, 1945 and 1946. So did Blanchard.

"I've definitely decided on football," said Davis, who also was a baseball star.

But the twinkle in his eye indicated Davis could be lured to baseball. He didn't say so, but he hinted baseball might win him over if enough of that green stuff is dangled beneath his nose.

The first baseball club to indicate it is interested in Davis was Cleveland. The Indians' general manager, Hank Greenburg, said the club is "definitely interested."

In California, two other baseball clubs expressed an interested."

In California, two other baseball clubs expressed an interest in Davis. General manager Roy Hamey of the Pittsburgh Pirates said "We've invited him to work out with us here."

"We'd like to give him a trial," said Don Stewart, president of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

All-America Leaves Pro Football for Radio

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Glenn Dobbs, University of Tulsa All-America back in 1942, has left the bumps and bruises of professional football for radio.

The 29-year old athlete announced his retirement yesterday. He will become sports editor of Tulsa radio station KRMC.

He was released as a free agent last year by the defunct Los Angeles Dons, member of the All-America conference which was merged with the National football league.

Top Athletes To Meet in Indoor Track

By Ted Smits

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Michigan State will bid to keep its indoor track championship of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America here tomorrow night with a tiny team of 11 men.

Ten of these, however, are point winners from 1949. Only Paige Christiansen, high hurdler who finished fourth, has been lost from last year's winning squad that piled up 35 2/5 points to beat Yale by nine.

Yale, led by big Jim Fuchs, the best shot putter in the world, is Michigan State's chief rival in the field of 45 colleges at the 29th annual indoor meet at Madison Square Garden. Others are Army, Seton Hall, New York University, and Manhattan.

Michigan State is banking on five big stars: Fred Johnson, defending champion in the broad jump, who has hit 25 feet; Horace Smith, defending in the high hurdles; Jack Dianetti, runnerup in the 1949 mile who enters the star-packed 600; Warren Dreutzler, runnerup in the 1,000 yards who moves to the two mile; and Bill Mack in the mile.

Good Showing

Against Ohio State last Saturday Mack ran the mile in 4:09.6 and Dreutzler the two mile in 9:11.7, fastest times of the winter in college ranks and well under the ICAAAA records.

Meet records also will be threatened in the 60 yard dash, 600, 1,000, shot put, and one and two mile relays.

The one that seems surest of falling is the shot put mark of 56 feet 6 inches set by Al Blozis of Georgetown. Fuchs, who has a mark of 57 feet 7 ¾ inches up for world recognition, some fair day may hit an incredible 60 feet, in the opinion of Coach Bob Giegengack of Yale.

Six outstanding distance runners will compete in a special two mile race. They are Fred Wilt, the FBI star of the winter season, Curtis Stone, Horace Ashenfelter, John Joe Barry, Viljo Heino and John Twomey.

Football End Dies Of Injuries

Unhurt in four years of big-time collegiate football, Espenan was injured attempting a back flip on a trampoline in central high school gymnastium here Monday. The demonstration was part of his practice teaching as a senior in the Notre Dame school of physical education.

Death came in St. Joseph's hospital.

Espenan was a member of the Irish gridiron squad throughout its string of 38 games without defeat—a string that is still unbroken.

Although a superior end, Espenan had the misfortune to play the same position as Leon Hart, Notre Dame's All-America star. Espenan was the No. 1 replacement for Hart but was overshadowed by the huge wingman. Espenan did not get to score last season as the Irish went through an undefeated season for the mythical national championship.

Roundup of College Cage Games Played

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 — (AP) — Hopes of a post-season tournament bid for Long Island university and CCNY seemed dim today.

Both took it on the chin last night in major upsets at Madison Square Garden. Cincinnati walloped Long Island, 83-65, and Syracuse humbled CCNY, 83-74.

Leading by only 30-27 at halftime Cincinnati, champions of the Mid-America conference, went on a 53-point scoring spree in the second half to swamp L.I.U.

Ed. Miller with 26 points and Jack Kiley with 21 sparked Syracuse to its triumph. CCNY, behind by 10 points, rallied to within 73-72, at one time, but the Orange pulled away.

Notre Dame fulfilled a promise to Ray Espenan — Irish football end who died yesterday—and rallied in the closing minutes to beat St. Louis, 55-52. Captain Kevin O'Shea had sent a telegram to Espenan, shortly before his death, assuring him Notre Dame would win.

Once-beaten Duquesne, ranked fourth in this week's Associated Press poll, chalked up its 22nd victory by rushing Geneva, 59-34.

Fifth-ranking Kentucky won its 83rd consecutive home floor victory by whipping Cincinnati Xavier, 58-53, and Fordham nosed out Georgetown (DC) 64-63.

The Oklahoma Aggies took Tulsa, 34-27, in a Missouri Valley conference game.

'Won't Quit Baseball Until it Quits Me'

CARNEGIE, Pa., Feb. 24—(AP)—Birthday number 76 caught up with baseball's Mr. Shortstop today, but to bandy-legged, indestructible Honus wagner the world retire is just another term for going to bed.

"I won't quit baseball until it quits me," he declared.

A flock of birthday cards rained in on the veteran Pittsburgh Pirate coach. His gifts included a 25-pound turkey from oil millionaire Mike Benedum.

"How about that," marveled Honus. "All those people remembering me. Why, I don't know most of the people who sent me cards."

Honus is recovering from a muscular hip spasm that had him hospitalized for awhile. But he has not thought of being anywhere but on the playing field once the baseball season opens.

Honus has skipped the spring training sessions for several years and he doesn't make the Pirate road trips anymore. But when the Bucs are at Forbes field—so is he.

The flying Dutchman retired from the playing ranks in 1917 after a 21-year major league career. He went back to baseball in 1932 as a scout and coach for the Pirates. Four years later he was named to baseball's hall of fame.

64 Players Unsigned in Major Leagues

NEW YORK, 24—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers are near joining the New York Giants in having all their athletes signed up for the baseball season.

The White Sox got catcher Eddie Malone's autograph on a contract yesterday, leaving only second baseman Cass Michaels still to be satisfied.

The 24-year-old Michaels, a stubborn holdout, has written the front office: "You have my figure and you know what you offered me. Let's split the difference."

He reportedly is asking $15,000.

The Dodgers signed pitcher Clarence Podbielan today. He worked only seven games last year, won none and lost one.

Only two Brooklyn athletes now are out of the fold. They are pitcher Rex Barney and infielder Bobby Morgan.

The St. Louis Browns reduced their unsigned list to 13 by getting the signatures of pitchers Joe Ostrowski and Procopia Herrera.

Ostrowski won eight and lost as many last year for the Browns. Herrera pitched in the Texas league where he won nine and lost 12 for San Antonio.

Sixty-four major leaguers still are to sign, with spring training next Wednesday on scattered fronts. The National league has 18 players out of the fold, the American has 46.

Quarter-finals Of 2-Ball Golf

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Two of the hottest teams meet in today's quarter finals of the International Mixed Two-Ball golf tourney here.

Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Ga., and Toney Penna of Cincinnati, favorites from the start and co-medalists, run into Mrs. Mildred Zaharias of Prarie View, Ill., and George Bolesta of Tampa.

Mrs. Zaharias and Bolesta beat his brother Burl Bolesta and Kathryn Hemphill, both of Tampa, 4 and 2, yesterday. Suggs-Penne ousted Mrs. Charles Harting of Miami and Toby Lyons of Warren, Pa. 8 and 6.

NCAA to Re-study The 'Sanity Code'

CHICAGO, Feb. 24—(AP)—The policy-making council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association will begin a two-day meeting here tomorrow to consider a proposal for a complete new study of the "sanity code."

Boston College and Villanova, two of the six institutions cited as code violators at the recent New York convention of the NCAA, are expected to seek a clean bill. The code is a set of rules governing collegiate athletic practices.

St. Benedict's's Wins a Conference Cage Tilt

It was the Ravens' second triumph over the Kansas City cagers this season.

Major Jones Won a Decision Over Sonny Horne

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24—(AP)—Major Jones, 157 ¼, Kansas City, out-fought Sonny Horne, 161, Valley Stream, N.Y., for a decision last night.

Jones took six rounds of the 10-round feature bout by a clear margin, although Horne pushed the fighting most of the way. There were no knockdowns.

GREETINGS FROM WINNIE—Whatever his future in politics, Winston Churchill has at least one other career assured. The famed amateur painter, seen at work at his easel, has just turned professional. He has signed with a Kansas City, Mo., greeting card company to allow 18 of his paintings to be used on American Christmas cards.

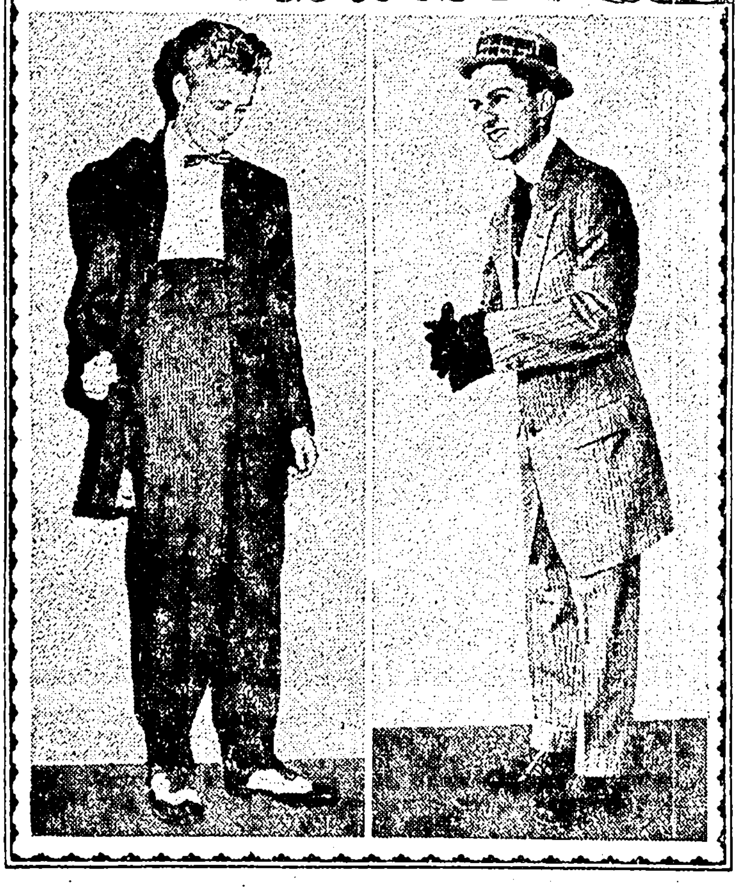
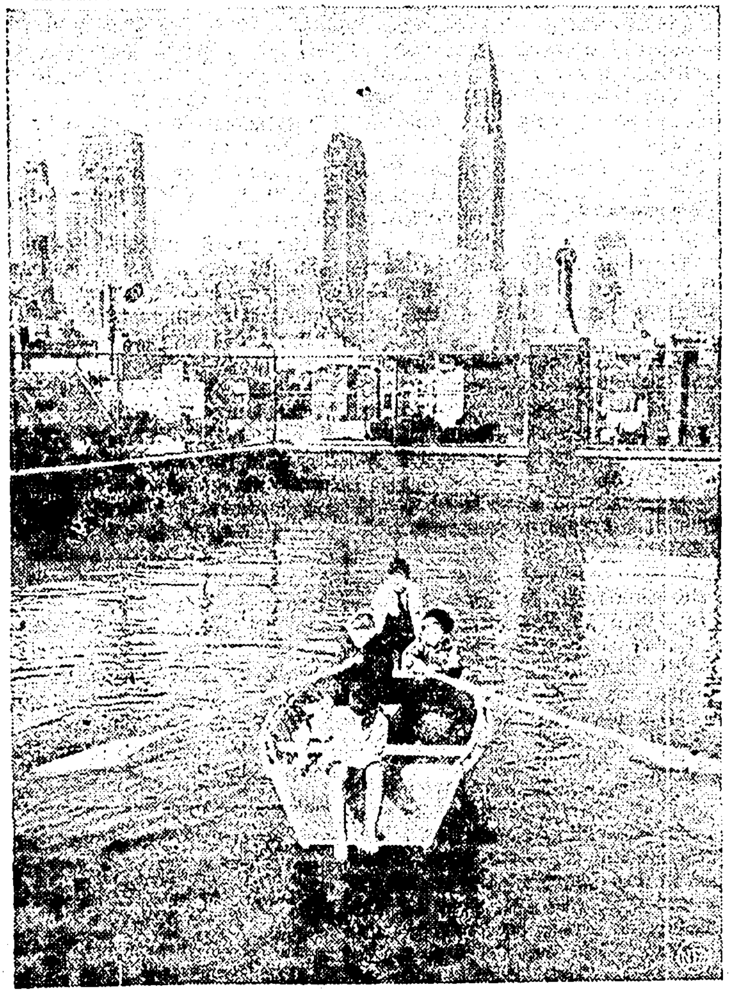
HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS



ZOOT SUITS, with their drape shapes and "reet" pleats, aren't as new as you might imagine. Although the name came into the language on the heels of the jitterbug craze, the long-drape coats and the peg-top trousers were in vogue as far back as 1907. The dandy at right is a product of that year, which saw more color applied to men's wear. Note the almost brimless, high-crown, fancy-ribboned straw hat and the choke collar. The solid gate in the "neat set of threads" at left belongs in the zoot suit tradition of World War II. The waistline of the high-rise pants stops just short of the Adam's apple, adorned by a flyaway bow-tie. Zoot suiters suffered a decline when wartime material shortages forced curtailment of their coattails.



BOAT RIDERS IN THE SKY—Rainwater on the roof of their five-story clubhouse gave these members of the Madison Square Boys' Club a chance to try out one of the rowboats used at the club's summer camp. It also gave the photographer an unusual shot of a water sport taken against the skyscraper background of water-short New York.

It is hard to see the stars when your feet are tired.

Empty heads are full of more dreams than empty bellies.

Most folks wouldn't mind a teen ager's blowing his own horn so much if it weren't on a jalopy—and they weren't crossing the street.

This is science in our times: One scientist discovers a way to make concrete out of ordinary dirt and a few chemicals. Then some other scientists take some more chemicals and figure out a bomb that will turn concrete buildings back into dirt again.

What plagues most of us about President Truman's goal of a $12,000 average annual income by the year 2,000 is: "Can a fellow spend all that money in a wheel chair?"

Medical definition of a gay old dog: "Chronic puppy love complicated by arterio-sclerosis."

The fact there are two sexes in marriage doesn't cause as much trouble as the fact there are two egos.

Honeymoon quarrels are just love at first slight.

If dead men did tell tales, more live heroes would be explaining than bragging.

Co-Ops Argue On Tax Issue

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Rural Electric Cooperatives told congress Thursday imposition of income taxes would cripple the farm electrification program.

Witnesses denied arguments that the tax status of co-ops endangers independent business. They fought back against arguments of business groups that they enjoy tax advantages unfair to private enterprises.

Spokesmen for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association told the house ways and means committee that if taxation were imposed on the money handled by these co-ops then the only source of funds to repay rural electrification loans to the government would be through rasins rates charged farmers.

Robert D. Tisinger, general counsel, and Earl F. Wisdom, tax counselor, contended that the electric groups are formed on a non-profit basis and it is the history of income tax laws that non-profit organizations be exempt.

To raise farmers' electric bills, they argued, would cut their use of power and defeat the purpose of the REA program.

Business witnesses told the committee yesterday that the treasury is losing $1,000,000,000 a year in tax revenues on various kinds of co-ops which are "growing at jet-propelled speed." They asserted that co-ops should be taxed like other businesses and that independent businesses are being damaged because of exemptions granted the co-ops.

He was fined $5.00 and costs.

Ultra English Conservatives

A party of voters in the village of Foots Cray, Kent County, England, show ultra conservatism as they use an oldtime stagecoach to take them to the polls in the British general election. All are supporters of Winston Churchill's Conservative party. Some are dressed as rats and one carries a poster reading "We vermin want more cheese so are voting today for Steward," the Conservative candidate for parliament. Cheese is rationed in England. Dust of Doom

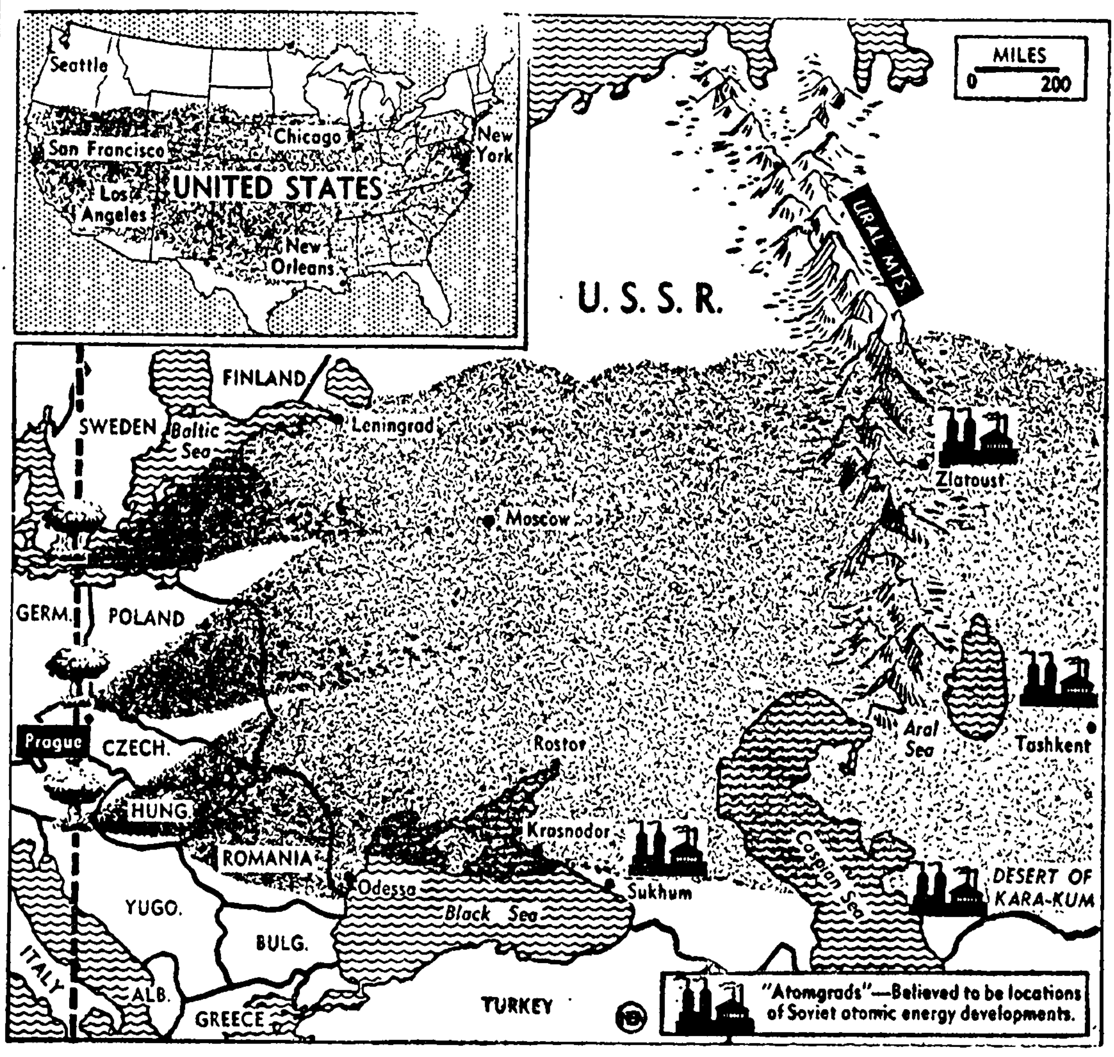

Map illustrates theory of Harrison S. Brown, atomic scientist of the University of Chicago who recently described how radioactivity from hydrogen bomb blasts could be made to kill every living thing in an area 3,000 miles wide and 1,500 miles deep. A series of H-bomb explosions, along a north-south line at about the longitude of Prague, Czechoslovakia, would produce the great clouds of radio-active dust. These would be carried eastward by prevailing winds, destroying all life from Leningrad to Odessa and from Prague to the Ural mountains, he said. Taking about three days to reach the Urals, the deadly cloud would begin losing intensity and by the time it crossed the Pacific to the west coast of North America, it would be harmless. Brown pointed out that the process could be reversed. H-bombs set off along a north-south line in the Pacific, 1,000 miles west of California, would produce a radioactive cloud that would hit California in about a day and and New York in four or five days, as shown on inset map.

Blast Lifts Sidewalk Slabs

An odd explosion in Cincinnati, Ohio, resulted when Kenneth Miller, 31, lit a piece of paper to thaw out a lock on his car. The sidewalk blew up due to fumes from a gas main leak according to the Cincinnati Gas and Electric company. Miller is recovering at his home from face, hand and leg burns. (NEA TELEPHOTO)

Whistle-Stop Speeches Planned

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—President Truman said Thursday he will make whistlestop speeches to and from the northwest coast if he accepts an invitation to dedicate Grand Coulee dam in the spring.

Mr. Truman told his news conference the trip to Grand Coulee is still under consideration and no final decision has been made.

The President, in response to another question, described as political a statement by Senator Byrd (D-Va) calling Mr. Truman the chief obstacle to a balanced budget.

Under questioning, the President said he expects to make speeches enroute to the northwest and on the return home.

There probably will be some whistle stops, he said, on what he jokingly described as a non-political trip.

When reporters wanted to know how to tell the difference between a political and non-political speech, if he makes them, he said they would have to decide for themselves.

Then he went on to say that any speech a President makes is political.

Private D. R. Rogers Is Killed In Maneuvers

FORT SILL, Okla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Pvt. Donald R. Rogers, 19, of Alton, Ill., was killed Thursday when a half-track drove over him during armored field artillery battalion maneuvers.

Capt. Robert Simon, post public relations officer, said Rogers was a bazookaman stationed at an outpost during the field games. The youth lay down in the grass for a rest and was run over by the half-track before he could get up.

Next of kin was listed as a sister, Mrs. Ethel Smith, also of Alton.

Damages Of $400 Over Shooting Bull

BETHANY, Mo., Feb. 24—(AP)—A circuit court jury ruled Thursday two farmers must pay $400 damages for emasculating a neighbor's bull with shotgun fire.

The suit was filed by Emil Streuby of Conception Junction, Mo., against Albert Henggeler and Leo Henggeler. Testimony disclosed that Streuby's bull broke through a fence and joined the Hennggerlers' herd of pure bred cows April 28, 1948.

Leo Henggeler testified he fired on the bull to protect the cows from contagious abortion. Streuby then had to sell the animal as a steer.

The court instructed the jury that the Henggelers were required to give Streuby three days notice of intention to emasculate the bull. Leo Henggeler said the notice was not given.

Streuby filed the action in Nodaway county, asking $1,175 actual and $3,000 punitive damages. The case was brought to Harrison county on a change of venue when the defendants alleged there was prejudice in Nodaway county.

Victory Won By Laborites

In Britain Hold 5 To 3 Lead Over Conservatives—Cut In Labor Ranks

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 24—(AP)—Britain's Labor party wrapped up a 5 to 3 lead over the Conservatives in parliamentary election returns from more than a third of the nation today. Labor claimed a clear-cut victory and with it, a mandate to drive Britain along the road to socialism for five more years.

Returns from 258 of 625 constituencies showed labor clinched 159 seats in the new House of Commons, the Sonservatives 98 seats, and the once-powerful Liberals, only one.

Jubilant Laborites predicted at least a 60-seat majority in the new house. They had a 148-member majority in the last one.

Gloom settled over Conservatives headquarters. While Winston Churchill's hard fighting party had cut into labor's ranks in parliament, by morning it still had a long way to go. But the Conservatives had not yet given up the fight.

Attlee Re-elected

Prime Minister Attlee was re-elected to the house, along with Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, and Aneurin Bevin, the health minister.

Attlee hailed the results as "pretty satisfactory."

At 4:45 a. m. (10:45 p. m. Thursday, CST) he told Labor party officials at party headquarters:

"I should say while one never likes to anticipate a result before the finish, the results are pretty satisfactory and the vote is up."

The 67-year-old leader seemed tired, but was in good spirits.

"There will be a Labor government in power in Britain tomorrow," declared Morgan Phillips, Labor party secretary.

Phillips, the party strategist, said the labor vote would be the highest in the 50-year history of his party. He predicted that labor's majority in the new house would be at least 60 seats. Labor had fully expected that the whopping 148 majority it had in the last house would be reduced. The last house had 640 seats, 15 more than the new one will have.

Enormous Vote Cast

The indications were that the vote was the heaviest in Britain's history—somewhere in the neighborhood of 26,000,000. Late afternoon and early evening rainstorms which caused labor some dismay apparently had little effect on the size of the outpouring of voters seeking to say their say on the issue of more or less socialism.

The labor minister of Heath, Bevin, was a four to one winner in his district in Monmouthshire, Wales.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was returned to the house, but Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones lost out to his Conservative opponent by a margin of 81 votes.

The vote in Conservative leader Churchill's district was not be counted until later today, but like most top party leaders, his was a "safe" constituency with election virtually assured for the 75-year-old leader of His Majesty's loyal opposition.

In biting into labor's majority, the Conservatives took 14 commons seats which had been laborite, while surrendering only one which had been Conservative. Because of the revision of constituencies, it was not possible in most cases to compare these results with those of 1945, wehn Labor scored its postwar landslide.

The count of votes will be resumed this afternoon.

Indications were that the voters looked upon this election as a straight-out battle between Labor and Conservatives. The minor parties did badly.

The Communists had won no seats at all. They had two seats in the last parliament and put 100 candidates in the field this time.

Prime Minister Attlee, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps. Attorney General Sir Hartley Shawcros sand most of the Labor cabinet were notified of their reelection early in the counting Cripps smothered by more than 2 to 1 Conservative Ronald E Sims in the Bristol East [illegible]trict.

Victory For Attlee Party

X-Ray Clinic For Students At Court House

Equipment Brought To City by County Tuberculosis Society

The mass X-ray program sponsored by the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society started Wednesday at the court house at which time students of Smith-Cotton and Hubbard high schools were X-rayed free of charge. The teachers, secretaries and janitors were also X-rayed.

The total number X-rayed on Wednesday was 712. This morning students from the parochial schools of the city and from the surrounding rural schools were swarming into the court house where the machine is now located and were being X-rayed as fast as cards could be made out by Mrs. Alice Crawford, secretary of the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society and her assistants. They then went to the next room where they were X-rayed as quickly as the machine could be adjusted to the individual heighth and the picture taken, which only took a few seconds.

Open to Public

This afternoon the X-ray program was opened to the public and the program will continue for the general public tonight, Friday and Saturday, with hours being in the morning from 10:00 to 12:00 o'clock; afternoon 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock and night 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock.

The X-ray equipment of the National X-ray Association was brought to Sedalia by the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society by means of the seal sale conducted each Christmas. It is operated by Frank Rano, X-ray technician supervisor and James Hann, his assistant, both of Orange, N. J., who do such X-ray work in all of the forty-eight states.

Refusal As To 'Loyalty' Files

President Averse To Any Dramatic Approach To Russia

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—President Truman persisted in a stearn refusal today to give congress confidential "loyalty" files on federal employes.

He said he had promised the senate Foreign Relations committee he will otherwise cooperate with it in disproving what he called false charges made by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) that communist ring exists in the state department.

He told a news conference that subpoena powers voted by the senate for the committee investigators would make no difference to him. He said it would be pretty hard to serve a subpoena on the President since the government affords him protection against such service.

Mr. Truman emphasizes that his directive to government departments to refuse congressional demands for official files on loyalty investigations still stands. This directive provides that all such demands be turned over to him by the departments.

The President laughed and joked with the newsmen today in contrast to the sharp exchanges of last week when they questioned him regarding an exclusive interview he gave Arthur Krock of the New York Times.

No New Peace Feelers

Once more he rejected demands in and out of congress that some new dramatic approach be made to Russia in the cold war he said he doesn't see how it can be settled in that manner. He added this country has made every approach possible in the United Nations in an effort to reach an agreement on atomic controls, but it has been unable to get one.

In response to a question today, he said there have been no new peace feelers from Russia.

Mr. Truman refused to comment on the bill passed by the house today setting up a fair employment practices commisison stripped of enforcement powers. But he referred newsmen to his previous messages on the subject in which he called for a commission "without arthority" to prevent discriminations in employment based on race, color, religion or national origin.

Asked if it would be possible to legislate against racial discrimination and still leave employers free to hire and fire as they please, the President replied he always thought so.

The President said he has under consideration an invitation to dedicate Grand Coluce dam in Washington this spring and if he accepts he will make speeches on the way out and back. He conceded laughingly that they would be political since any statement or speech a President makes is political.

Insistent on Records

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Senator Wherry of Nebraska, Republican leader, proposed tonight that Secretary of State Ache on be prosecuted for contempt if Senators are balked in their effort to get secret loyalty files on state department employees.

The proposal was an outgrowth of charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) that a communist spy ring is operating in the department.

The senate has voted for an in-

City Scales Bring Low Income But Are Important to the City

Revenue collected from the city scales is one of the lowest city incomes, yet the scales are an important factor to the city, as it accommodates the farmer and the business man, and attracts strangers to this city, who might otherwise drive to another city where they could weigh a load of corn or hay.

Monies collected from the scales and city parking lot during the calendar year of 1949 totaled $1,574.65, and goes into the general operating fund of the city. Fees of 10 cents, 20 cents and 50 cents are collected from the scales, the prices varying according to the size of loads weigned. A gross load of under 10,000 pounds brings a fee of 10 cents. Over that weight, 20 cents. All loaded semi-trailers bring in a fee of 50 cents.

The present scales handle a load up to 49,000 gross pounds, and are tested at least once a year. The platform is 10 feet wide and 30 feet long. The last time the scales were inspected, they were approved and no repairs were recommended. The scales unit was built by the W.P.A. in the years 1936 and 1937. Prior to this construction, old scales were located just south of the present scales.

Jack Mullaley Weighmaster

Jack L. Mullaley has been weighmaster for the past four years, by appointment. He operates the scales six days a week, from 7:00 o'clock in the morning until 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon. After hours up until 9:00 o'clock at night and on Sundays and holidays, firemen quartered at the fire station just across the alley from the scales, operate the weighing apparatus. Of course, when the firemen are on a run, the customer has to wait until the firemen return.

Mr. Mullaley said drivers of trucks loaded with hay and corn are the biggest customers, followed with coal trucks. Trucks loaded with poultry, eggs and glass also bring a lot of business. He said the Sedalia glass plant weighs nearly all its loads there. He added that gross loads of eggs totaled as high as 48,000 pounds. Occasionally, loaded trucks will pull in to get weighed and they are too heavy. So he said, we have to split the load. We do that by weighing the front end of the truck and then the rear end, he said. He pointed out that many trucks would drive up just to check the weight to keep with-

Hold Strike Off For Sixty Days

President To Invoke Railway Labor Act On Unions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—President Truman disclosed today he will invoke an automatic 60-day stop to head off a threatened nationwide railroad strike, tentatively set to begin at 5 a.m., CST., Monday.

The Brotherhood of Conductors and Trainmen, representing between 200,000 and 250,000 workers, called the strike after rejecting federal arbitration on its wage-hour demands.

However, the railway labor act provides that a strike must be postponed for at least 60 days after the President appoints an emergency fact-finding board.

The White House announced that Mr. Truman will appoint an emergency board tomorrow or Saturday. The board has 30 days to submit a report, and no strike can be called then until another 30 days has elapsed.

In Cleveland, a spokesman for the trainmen's brotherhood said the union will comply with the legal procedures.

Confronting the administration with a third major labor-management struggle in the present year, the railway dispute comes in the midst of the growing coal strike emergency and the hanging threat of a nationwide telephone strike.

Last night, in response to a personal appeal by Mr. Truman, the CIO union of 100,000 phone workers agreed to a 60-day postponement of their strike. It had been scheduled to begin Friday.

Month-long mediation talks in the railway dispute broke down in Chicago on Feb. 14 when chairman Francis A. O'Neill of the National Mediation Board announced that the discussions were "getting nowhere."

O'Neill said the case was ex-

Murder Trial Is Interrupted

Attorney Has Heart Attack In Case At Rockport, Mo.

ROCKPORT, Mo., Feb. 23—(AP)—The first degree murder trial of Harold (Hoover) Emrich was halted unexpectedly today when the defense attorney suffered a heart attack.

The Lawyer, Clayton W. Allen, Rockport, collapsed shortly after the state had completed its case against the 21-year-old Stanberry, Mo., youth charged with the slaying of Miss Mary Hammer, 81-year-old recluse January 20, 1949.

Circuit Judge Fred Maughmer recessed the case until 9 a. m. Friday.

The state's chief witness today was Fredie Edgar McQuinn, 34, who was convicted of second degree murder in the case and sentenced to serve 15 years.

He related that he and Emrich went to Miss Hammer's home near Island City to collect some junk and old iron. While there, he said, they entered the home of the aged cripple and Emrich pushed her to the floor and hit her over the head with her crutch. The witness also added that he hit her twice in the chest with the same weapon.

The pair then carried the body to the barn and covered it up with hay and returned to the house where they filled their pockets with old bank notes and gold certificates found in a gallon can in the bedroom.

Checked on Currency

Officers at first believed Miss Hammer had been trampled to death by cattle in the barn. However, when old currency and coin began appearing in the Stanberry vicinity officers began checking the possibility that she had been slain. They estimated that about $6,000 in old currency and coin had been taken from the home.

Presenting Washington Elm Marker

Arranged To Get Coal For Hospitals From Illinois

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—Faced with a growing fuel crisis, city officials decided today to permit use of soft coal in St. Louis for the first time in ten years.

The city's anti-smoke ordinance was relaxed for the first time in an effort to forestall shutdowns by schools, hospitals and industries.

Mayor Joseph M. Darst said special permits for use of the soft coal must be obtained from the St. Louis smoke commissioner.

Darst's office said public schools will mix their remaining coal supplies with coal of the softer variety when they re-open Monday. The schools were closed Tuesday for the remainder of the week.

Some relief was promised for St. Louis hospitals that were last running out of coal. The help was promised by the Progressive Mine Workers Union of Illinois. Coal shipments from supplies already mined and stored at nearby Collinsville, Ill., were arranged.

The greater St. Louis hospital council appealed to the PMW and the larger United Mine Workers union for help.

UMW chief John L. Lewis telegraphed the council:

"Suggest you urge coal companies heretofore supplying your coal to sign contract with the United Mine Workers of America which will permit immediate resumption of production."

The St. Louis Real Estate board reported to Mayor Darst that 2,700 housing units managed by its members have less than five-day supply of coal.

Whistle-Stop Speeches Planned

WASHINGTON Feb. 23—(AP)—President Truman said today he will make whistle-stop speeches to and from the northwest coast if he accepts an invitation to dedicate Grand Coulee dam in the spring.

Mr. Truman told his news conference the trip to Grand Coulee is still under consideration and no final decision has been made.

The President, in response to another question, described as political a statement by Senator Byrd (D-Va) calling Mr. Truman the chief obstacle to a balanced budget.

Under questioning, the President said he expects to make speeches enroute to the northwest and on the return home.

There probably will be some whistle stops, he said, on what he jokingly described as a non-political trip.

When reporters wanted to know how to tell the difference between a political and non-political speech, if he makes them, he said they would have to decide for themselves.

Then he went on to say that any speech a President makes is political.

Son Of Churchill Loses Bid For Seat

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 24—(AP)—Winston Churchill's son Randolph lost his bid for a seat in the Devonport district being defeated by Michael Foot, laborite who represented the constituency in the old parliament. During the campaign the elder Churchill spoke in the district to bolster his son's race.

Yielded To Pleas Made By Husband

By TOM HORGAN

MANCHESTER, N. J., Feb. 23—(AP)—A country sheriff testified today Dr. Hermann N. Sander admitted killing a cancer patient in a "weak moment" after yielding to pleas of her husband to "eliminate" her to relieve her suffering.

Sheriff Thomas F. O'Brien's testimony came after the defense claimed it would show that the 59-year-old housewife was dead before air was allegedly injected into her veins.

In charging Dr. Sander with first degree murder, the state contends that he made four fatal injections of air as an "act of mercy."

Chief Defense counsel Louis Wyman said after court adjourned that he has a statement from Dr. Albert Snay "That the patient already had expired." Dr. Snay had been referred to earlier as a doctor who examined Mrs. Abbie Borroto before Dr. Sander arrived at the hospital, and gave the injections. Dr. Snay is scheduled to testify later.

Dr. Sander was quoted by O'Brien as saying Borroto begged him to give his wife relief—"eliminate her life if it is necessary; then she will be better off."

Declared Hesitarcy

The defendant was reported by the Sheriff to have told Borroto "You can't do that" but said "Borrotto kept bringing it up and in a weak moment I agreed to go through with it."

O'Brien quoted Dr. Sander as saying Mrs. Borroto "had suffered so much" and adding "She couldn't under any condition live more than a week."

The sheriff said the doctor told him that on Dec. 4—the day she died—"He (Sander) called Mr. Borroto and said he'd taken care of the situation and Mr. Borroto said 'Thank God, it's over."

Miss Josephine Connor, record librarian at Hillsboro county hospital and last witness of the day, read from her stenographer's notebook the entry which is the cornerstone of the state's case and which led to Dr. Sander's arrest.

She said the doctor dictated the note to her on the Borroto case on Dec. 12—eight days after Mrs. Borroto died. She read:

"Dec. 4—the patient was given 10 cubic centimeters of air intravenously repeated four times and expired within 10 minutes after this was started."

Attorney General William L. Phinney asked the nurse whether Dr. Sander said anything to her about that note after he dictated it. Miss Connor said:

"In answer to my question of how it works he said it works pretty good and the patient died easy."

Attorney-General William L. Phinney earlier claimed that Dr. Sander had admitted killing Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59, at the urging of her husband to end her pain.

The attorney general told the jury in his opening statement:

"The motive behind any determined and premeditated killing has no bearing. Whether it be good or bad, the results are the same."

"Of so-called 'mercy killings,' said Phinney, "No such thing exists under the law. Such action is homicide."

Answer Due Today

"No Results" Are Announced For An Ending Of The Soft Coal Dispute

By JOHN B. OWEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Soft coal contract talks brought "absolutely no results" tonight despite earlier reports that John L. Lewis and the operators had edged closer together on money differences.

David L. Cole, chairman of President Truman's coal inquiry board, appearing haggard and dejected, told reporters that progress had stopped in negotiations which failed for the eighth day to end the strike of 372,000 United Mine Workers.

The two sides, under federal court order to stick to their bargaining, were called back for 1:30 p.m. CST tomorrow.

Apparently hope had vanished for a sudden break in the strike which the miners have maintained in defiance of a federal court Taft-Hartley directive.

And at 9 a.m. tomorrow their union must answer for it.

The UMW must try to convince Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech that it hasn't been in contempt of his order issued Feb. 11 and should not go to trial Monday. He can make the penalty as harsh as he wishes.

It was assumed that one UMW contention would be that the miners were acting as individuals in quitting work—which the Taft-Hartley act permits. Lewis is on record with two public calls for them to go back to work.

Situation Unimproved

The atmosphere as the closed door talks broke up for the day after two sesisons was one of complete gloom. A coal operator who was asked what went on replied, "Nothing". Lewis wouldn't comment.

Cyrus Ching, federal mediation chief, agreed with Cole that the situation had not improved.

Cole said that Lewis and the operators had wound up the day's talks "just about where they were yesterday."

Yesterday's discussions were said to have shaved the wide gap between the two sides on money terms. This report came from informants in close touch with the situation, although it was not confirmed by either side.

No Truman Comment

President Truman was silent. To news conference questions he replied only that the coal subject is before the courts and he does not propose to comment now.

William A. Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, said on capitol hill that the miners would go back to work pending a settlement if the government took over the mines and asked them to return temporarily.

Green described this as a last-resort measure and said he was not sure the time for such a step has arrived.

The AFL president contended that President Truman has inherent powers to make the move. Mr. Truman disputes this.

The situation at the close of the first of the day's bargaining discussions was described about like this:

Lewis proposals for wage increases and higher per ton royalties to finance miners pensions and welfare payments were estimated by operators to cost about $1.85 to $2 a day.

Operators were said to have offered concessions worth about 80 cents a day several days ago. Now it is reported, that they have indicated they might consider a compromise costing $1 to $1.20 a day. Just how much this would increase the price of coal to consumers was not immediately clear.

Lewis has been seeking a raise in the $14.05 basic daily wage to $15, and a hike to 35 cents for the welfare royalty, now 20 cents. He got such terms in scattered contracts in recent weeks.

Two Speakers For Teachers Association

Talks On Book Program And On M. S. T. A. Activities

About 75 teachers and guests attended the Pettis County Teachers Association meeting held in the assembly room of the court house, Saturday morning, at which time they gave various reports and announcements, and heard two interesting talks given by Miss Flavel Barnes of New York City, advisor of the UNESCO-CARE Book Program, and by Gordon R. Renfrow, Missouri State Teachers Association.

Miss Barnes, speaking on "UNESCO Book Program In War-Devastated Countries," said, "There are hungry minds, as well as hungry bodies, overseas. That was what she stressed to help rebuild war-wrecked libraries with gifts of new scientific and technical books. Miss Barnes was in this city to enlist public support for the plan, which the Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe, in cooperation with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, added to its food and textile package service recently.

Help In Understanding

"By channelling food for the mind, as well as food for the body, to the people of Europe and Asia," Miss Barnes declared, "Americans can help nourish the understanding and recovery which is our best hope for world peace."

"Through books, we in America can feed hungry minds overseas. Money donated to the CARE-UNESCO Book Program will provide teachers and students with the books which are the basic tools of education. It will give farmers the know-how of new agricultural methods that can increase food supplies. It will give engineers the facts they need to rebuild devastated cities and factories. It will bring doctors up-to-date on new medical research that will help build sound bodies and minds. In all of this, we will be making a real contribution to the kind of reconstruction that helps people to help themselves.

Losses In Wartime

The need for books abroad, Miss Barnes stated, had its beginnings in the wartime losses: First, through the book-burnings and confiscations carried on by the Nazis, and later through the bombings that gutted schools and libraries.

Education institutions in France, for instance, she cited, lost a total of two and a half million volumes. The University of Vienna lost 150,000 books. At the British Museum Library, London, 250,000 books were lost. The library of the Institute of Agriculture and Forestry in Prague, Czechoslovakia, lost 18,000 of a prewar 20,000 books. In the Philippines, an estimated five million books were lost.

The book plan, as outlined by Miss Barnes, works this way:

CARE and UNESCO representatives abroad obtain lists of book needs, in specified categories, from libraries, universities, technical schools and research centers. With the funds donated by Americans, CARE then fills those needs as closely as possible by buying the latest and best books published in English.

Tells Of State Body

Mr. Renfrow began his talk with a brief history of the Missouri State Teachers Association, and said a group of forward-looking educators met in St. Louis in 1856, with Horace Mann, an early leader in the educational profession. They set up four major needs of Missouri teachers namely: inservice training for teachers, normal schools to educate for the teaching profession, a professional magazine for exchange of ideas, and a state professional association. These needs have largely been met, the speaker said.

Mr. Renfrow related that among the current activities of the M. S. T. A. are the publishing of professional bulletins and pamphlets, research work having as its object increased support of schools and the state educational program, and recruitment of new teachers. Mr. Renfrow stated that during the next sixteen years America would need one million new teachers, ten thousand new elementary principals, five thousand new high school principals, five thousand new town and city superintendents, two thousand new county superintendents and one thousand new college professors.

Talk Is Illustrated

Following his address, Mr. Renfrow showed colored slides which illustrated activities of the state teachers association in its building at Columbia, and also a series of slides showing buildings, sports, and scenic surroundings at Bunker Hill Ranch, the 2080 acre resort deeded to the teachers of Missouri by the late E. T. Behrens, a former Sedalian.

The meeting was called to order Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock by the president, Mrs. Imogene Peoples. C. F. Scotten, county superintendent, made some announcements.

Miss Marjorie Rector, secretary, gave a brief talk on the 1950-51 teachers requirements.

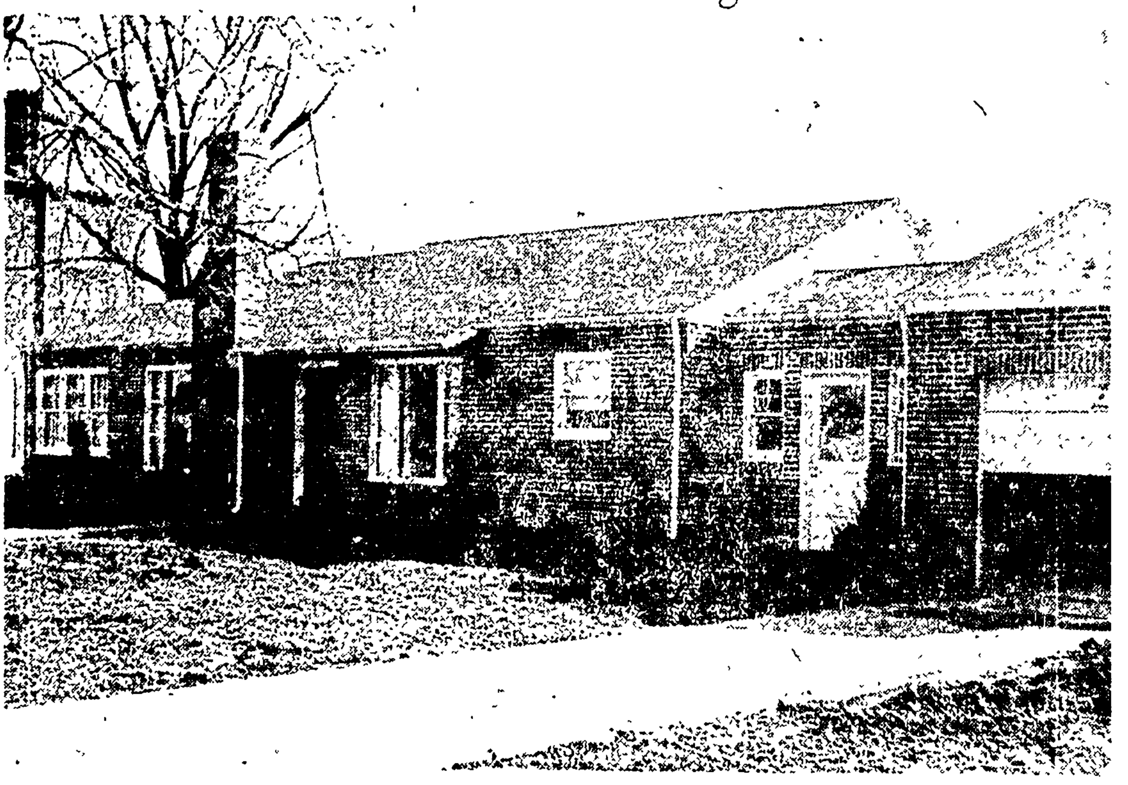
Reports of the study group activities were given by G. D. Corwine, Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn, Mrs. Charles Guier, Mrs. Vaughn White, Mrs. Donald Donath and Miss Dora E. Benz.

The second guest speaker, Mr. Renfrow was introduced by Mrs. Peoples. At 11:45 a. m., Mr. Scotten gave a summary of classification of schools.

Epworth Methodist Church Parsonage



The new parsonage of Epworth Methodist church Broadway and Engineer, which the people of that church have had built for their pastor, the Rev. Ralph Emerson Hurd, has been completed and open house will be held at 7:00 o'clock Tuesday night to which all friends of the church are invited.

All will first assemble at the church and will then go to the new home where a number of the church women will show them through. Others will preside over the guests books. After going through the home the guests may return to the church where young matrons of the congregation, in formals, will serve refreshments.

The new home which faces the north and is located just west of the church is the ranch house type built of red brick and landscaped with evergreens. A curving cement walk leads to the front door which is of light oak with three small panes, of glass.

Former Members Send Gifts

As the button is pushed to ring the bell chimes may be heard and these were a gift of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weber, who were members of the church until they moved to DeSoto, Mo., a few years ago. The gift was in memory of Mrs. Weber's mother, the late Mrs. Elizabeth Boyle, a faithful member of Epworth church.

The living room is long with two picture windows in front, one on each side of door. The windows are designed with three smaller panes on either side of the large panes. In the living room is a large fireplace in dark red tile with light oak mantel. The natural light oak woodwork is used throughout the home with doors of solid wood, all in one piece and brass knobs. The walls are a pastel green with darker green draperies.

Off the living room to the east is the sun room with draperies matching those in the living room.

Cosy Study

An archway leads to a small hall and at the back of the house is the pastor's study with walls of mulberry shade and windows on two sides. Here are built-in bookshelves and a large closet. The study is on the east and from it the hall leads to the guest room which is in wedgewood blue with two large windows. At the west side of the house, in the rear, is the pastor's bedroom which is in dubonnet and here also are two large windows. In both bedrooms are spacious closets, and between the bedrooms in the hallway is a large linen closet. At the extreme west end of the home is the bathroom, all in white. Floors over the entire house are hard wood.

Kitchen In Front

The kitchen is in the front of the house directly off the living room to the west. The window over the sink looks out onto Broadway and on either side of the window are built in cabinets and shelves. The drainboards are of white tile and are built up as high as the cabinets. There is no color, except one black tile on each side corresponding with the black and white squares of the linoleum. Below the sink are also built-in cabinets. Next to the kitchen is the utility room in which are the furnace and hot water heater. The room is white and has four doors, the one leading to the living room, one to the garage, and two outside doors one leading to the front yard and one to the back yard.

The lighting is complete with three way switches all over the house that the lights may be turned off and on from anywhere about the home. Too, there are electrical wall receptacles over the entire house, with a number of them in each room.

The house was built by the Dean Construction company.

Oriental Art Curator To Be Sorosis Guest

Miss Jeanne Harris, assistant to Laurence Sickman, curator of Oriental art at the Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City, was the speaker at Sorosis last Monday afternoon at the Heard Memorial club house.

Miss Harris makes frequent use of her ability to read and speak Chinese in the research of all Chinese paintings and art objects, and she hopes to supplement her skeleton vocabulary someday with a visit to China which has been her ambition since her graduation several years ago from Sweet Briar college, Lynchburg, Va. with a bachelor of arts degree She has, however, been unable to make the trip because of the war

With such a trip in mind she began the study of Oriental art as well as museum procedure. While a member of the staff at the Newark Museum, Newark. N. J., she was schooled in the various museum departments and her experience there proved valuable later at the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art where she spent the next few years. While in New York she decided to take her master's degree and she applied for admission to the Columbia university under the Chinese Cultural Fellowship program. She studied in the department of Chinese and Japanese for a year and it was there that she acquired the knowledge of Chinese languages. The following year the program was discontinued but she completed her master's degree.

The various duties of Miss Harris are exhibitions, both in and out of the gallery, the taking care of the collections, which requires storage, cleaning, and preservation, research work to place objects in their proper historical periods and checking their authenticity with reference to catalogs and with other well known pieces in similar style and the answering of many questions on privately owned works. There are also gallery tours for visitors given to groups by special appointment.

White Breasted Robin Returns To Frank T. Johnson Home

Even if they looked half frozen and as if they wished they had waited awhile longer during those few cold days, the robin red breats are back in almost everybody's yard now, at least one or two of them, but Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Johnson, 1615 South Beacon avenue, think they have a robin of real distinction. Their robin has a white breast instead of a red breast and white wings—in fact, said Mrs. Johnson, it looks almost entirely white when it flies.

Early last spring the white breasted robin was noticed at the bird feeder in Johnson's yard and he stayed there until summer when the other robins had all come, then he disappeared. This year he is back again, all alone as he was last year, and is hopping around making himself at home.

Many save bread crumbs and various things to feed the birds, and one woman buys an extra loaf of bread in the winter time every week because she uses so much of her bread to feed the birds. They gather at her back door, about her breakfast time every morning and if she is a little late they begin in their chirping voices to tell her about it. She keeps a pan of water filled for them, too, and she was amused one of the cold mornings when the water had frozen in the pan to see a bluejay telling her off when he couldn't get a drink. He would peck on the ice, shake himself furiously and fuss in a loud, angry tone, finally he gave up and flew away.

Travelogue Is Given To Loan Association

E. C. Nelson Chief Speaker Before 125 At Dinner-Meeting

One-hundred and fifteen members and guests attended a dinner-meeting of the National Farm Loan Association, Saturday afternoon in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwel lhotel, with the president, D. L. Kauffman, in charge of the meeting.

Three board members were reelected, H. L. Garnett of Lincoln, A. G. Lenz of Boonville and L. E. Durley of Hughesville.

Edgar C. Nelson of Boonville was the principal speaker. William A. Dickison, Association Service Division of Federal aLnd Bank gave a brief talk and reviewed the history of the Federal Land Bank.

Music was furnished by the Vaughan sisters, of Clarksburg accompanied by Mrs. Nellie Monegan at the piano.

Told of European Trip

An unusually interesting travellogue of his trip to Europe was given by Mr. Nelson in which he told of the two months spent in seven European countries and of his impressions of those countries and their people.

Seeing things as most Missourians would see them for the first time Mr. Nelson gave his impressions from the time he left New York on the SS Queen Mary for Southhampton, England, until he returned on the Queen Elizabeth from Cherbourg, France.

England he found to be a beautiful land, a fascinating hodgepodge of heaths and moors, hills and valleys, factories, grasslands and farms. There is history, antiquity, traditions, dignity wherever you go, he said, and the children are well behaved.

Has Dutch Cleanser Look

Holland, Mr. Nelson said, has the Dutch Cleanser look. The Dutch and the Swiss are the smartest people he visited in Europe. "About the only difference between them" a recent magazine writer declared, "Is that the Dutch can't yodel and the Swiss won't wear wooden shoes." Nearly one-half of Holland is below sea level, the speaker said, and water is an ever-present, ever-threatening problem. The Dutch have rendered it harmless by their fabulous chain of dikes and put it to work on their 5,000 miles of canals. When the Nazis blew up most of the dikes the Dutch rolled up their sleeves after liberation and started all over again. Everybody in Holland rides bicycles and they wind in and out between trucks and cars but nobody gets hurt, Mr. Nelson said, and there are flowers from early spring until late fall, something about the Dutch earth makes it burst with flowers.

Brussels Hub of Belgium

Belgium is a tiny land, the speaker said, of which Brussels is the hub of the wheel. It is full of factories and Belgium farmers rival Dutch and Danes in getting results from the soil, he said. Mr Nelson found the people of Belgium friendly, kindly and industrious. They love music, he said, and know how to have fun with little effort and cost.

Switzerland has about everything, Mr. Nelson said, mountains, lakes, forests, lovely little farms, electric trains, castles, chalets, old age pensions, a vast army of precision workers and a government that is run by the people at a cost that is not prohibitive. The tourist business is the fourth biggest business. All hotels cooperate to give the best service possible, and every citizen exerts himself to extend the utmost courtesy and helpfulness, he said.

Visiting Italy he was most impressed with Venice which he said could be pictured as a city half the size of Kansas City with all the streets and alleys full of water. The gondolas by the hundreds cast a spell of romance over all tourists.

The strangest city he visited Mr. Nelson said was Pompeii which was destroyed by Vesuvius when the fine what ash of the eruption consolidated with water and embalmed everything it covered but in 1594 the city was discovered by engineers.

France, Mr. Nelson said, is the largest country in Europe next to Soviet Russia. It is a land of small farmers. It has a flair for the artistic that finds its highest expression in Paris where there is art unsurpassed, charm and local color wherever you go, he said, and is the supreme court of high fashion.

Mr. Nelson concluded his talk by telling a little about some of the interesting people he met on the trip.

Seven Sedalias In Nation, How Three Got Their Names

As most people know in this community the name Sedalia came from a pet name that was given to George R. Smith's daughter Sed, (Sarah). It was first Sedville, then Sedalia. Now there are six other towns over the nation with the same name, Sedalia.

The others however are not as large as our city. The population of the other communities is as follows: Sedalia, Colo., 241; Sedalia, Ind., 424; Sedalia, Ky., 191; Sedalia, N. C., 25; Sedalia, Ohio, 317; Sedalia, S. C., 29. These figures are in part from the United States Official Postal Guide. The recent figures are probably increased considerably at the present time.

Sometime ago letters were sent from the Democrat-Capital with the intention of getting the original source of the seven Sedalia's names. The letters were addressed to the postmasters in the various towns. At the present time two letters have been received.

Charles P. Stewart, postmaster of Sedalia, Colo. sent the following:

"Dear Sir: In regard to the information you asked for as to how Sedalia, Colo., was named.

"The first name of the community was Round Corral. This was about 1855. The name then changed to Plum in 1865. Then about ten years later an early settler whose name was H. M. Clay, originally from Sedalia, Mo., laid out the town site as it is now. A name was voted on and Mr. Clay, selected the name of Sedalia."

Mr. Stewart says his community is located on highways 85 and 87 about 25 miles south of Denver. Cattle Ranching is the principal occupation.

Sedalia, Indiana

The second postmaster heard from was H. O. Duddleson of Sedalia, Ind. His story was not connected to Sedalia, Mo., in any way but was very interesting.

He said. "The local story as to the origin of the name Sedalia is as follows. When the railroad was built through here in 1870 or '71 this was a wood station. The first of each month was pay day for the wood workers and railroad men. The agent for the railroad was named Dailey. It bemame the custom for the people railroad was named Dailey. It month to get paid for their wood and cross ties. Thus "See Daliey" became Sedalia. It is located on the junction state road and the Penn lines from Chicago and Louisville. The original railroad was called the South Bend Logansport and Terre Haunte Railroad.

The four other Sedalias are yet to be heard form. When the information of their naming comes into this office it will be published.

School Nurse Makes Talk At Hubbard

Mrs. John Murrell, public school nurse, addressed the entire student body of Hubbard school, Friday, at the 11 o'clock assembly.

Some of the highlights of Mrs. Murrell's address were:

"Even though a person may have a brilliant mind and a healthy body—if he has an unpleasant personality he will be given a second place in life.

"The most important places for a child to learn to work is in the home and school. Be willing to do an assigned chore at home or school. This will help you when you enter your life's work as an adult.

"Students, lead a clean and healthy life. Avoid the pitfalls of adolescence. Choose your friends wisely. You are judged by the friends you keep. The friends you make during adolescence are the most important friends you will ever have. They will stay with you.

"Adolescens should not have too much freedom. It is during this time of life so many boys and girls make mistakes.

Be Proud of Your Race

"Students, do not feel or think that you are handicapped because of your race, creed, or color. Be proud of your race. Individuality is your birth-right. You have many outstanding people of your race to be proud of, namely: Lena Horn, Bill Robinson, Marion Anderson, Joe Louis, and many others. Time does not permit me to name them all.

"Above all, whatever job you have to do, do it better than anyone else. Be like Joe Louis—do your best—be your best. In his field, Joe Louis, is The Best, not because he was smart and did not listen to what his manager and trainer told him to do but because he wanted to do what was right and he wanted to do his job better than anyone else."

The entire student body was very attentive and were very much inspired by Mrs. Murrell's address.

Music for the program was furnished by the Hubbard school band, under the direction of Mr. Charles Moten.

J. B. Hylick, school principal, gave the closing remarks, thanking Mrs. Murrell for such a timely address. In his remarks he re-emphasized to the students the importance of making friends and keeping them—taking jobs and doing them beter than anybody else.

Mr. Hylick invited the public, through the students, to come down and observe, at any time, just how well the children are observing the Keep-Clean Campaign now in progress.

Queer Sense of Humor Shown

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23.—(AP)—A prankster wit ha queer sense of humor caused considerable anguish to about fifty persons yesterday.

The victims received telephone calls informing them that a relative had met a violent death and that the body was in a certain morgue. In almost all cases, police said, the caller attempted to make the report plausible by saying your name was on some papers on the body."

Ten frantic persons rushed to the city morgue. Twenty-five others telephoned there. All found the report false. One woman became hysterical when told her daughter had been found stabbed on a county road.

Some of the victims thought the prankster was a juvenile, but others were not sure. Police were trying to trace the calls, but had few clues to work on.

Winter Slaps Ice And Snow Across Nation

Impedes Travel by Motor Car And Air; Walking Hazardous

By the Associated Press

Winter slapped a slippery punch of ice and snow across wide areas of the eastern half of the nation Thursday.

The snow, sleet and rain impeded motor and air travel. Icy sidewalks made walking hazardous. There were hundreds of accidents and many traffic fatalities were blamed on the glazed streets and highways.

The sleet and snow hit hard over the northeastern part of the country as a rather intense storm moved northeastward across Lake Ontario. Southern New England was blanketed with the second biggest snowfall of the season, with falls measuring up to eight inches in some areas. The falls in the northern region measured were up to a depth of two to four inches. The snow turned to sleet and rain over most of the area during the night.

Snow, Sleet, Rain

Sleet, snow and freezing rains pelted New York state. New York City's rain and sleet made streets and sidewalks treacherous and slowed subway service along its above-ground routes and railroads. The Idlewild and La Guardia airports were closed.

Snow in New York

Snow and sleet in western New York made highways dangerous and clogged streets in Buffalo. Snow mixed with freezing rain fell in northern New York state.

Heavy fog over the Baltimore area Wednesday forced the cancellation of all flights at the municipal airport.

Much of Pennsylvania was coated with ice after a steady freezing rain. Last night's church Lenten services were cancelled because of icy roads at Easton, Pa. Four to seven inches of snow were forecast for the mountain areas today.

Sidewalks in Newark, N. J. were a sheet of ice from freezing rainfalls and most pedestrians walked in the streets. Highway conditions were extremely bad and many accidents were reported. An eight year old boy was killed when his sled ran into a car.

The rain belt extended from Pennsylvania southward into Florida. Light snow was reported in Ohio, southern Michigan and from Wisconsin westward to the northern Rockies. Chicago's heaviest fall of the season, nearly five inches, helped to send the mercury down to 10 above today. Fair weather prevailed from the central and lower Mississippi valley westward to California.

Temperatures were mild from near Washington, D. C., southward to Florida. Elsewhere throughout the country readings were near normal levels. The only sub-zero temperatures were in sections of North Dakota and northern Minnesota. Today's low was 13 below zero at Pembina, North Dakota.

MoPac Train Is Derailed

PIEDMONT, Mo., Feb. 23—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad's fast Texas to St. Louis passenger train No. 8 was derailed last night when a rock slide fell in a cut just south of Gads Hill and the train smashed into it.

No one was injured although both units of the diesel locomotive and a storage baggage car were derailed. Gads Hill is about 120 miles south of St. Louis.

Other Missouri Pacific trains between Poplar Bluff and St. Louis were rerouted over the Belmont and Cairo branches of the railroad from Bismarck to Poplar Bluff.

A spokesman for the division superintendent said today the track probably will not be cleared until early tonight.

J. P. Carroll of St. Louis, was engineer of the train and Jess Lovelace of Poplar Bluff was fireman. W. C. Missey of De Soto was conductor.

Increase In Cost Of Age Assistance

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 23—(AP)—The cost of old age assistance in Missouri rose to $5,615,262 for this month, bringing the total for the first two months of 1950 to $11,201,513.

The state division of welfare reported today pension checks for February averaged $43.37 and went to 129,470 oldsters. The average check was a dime more than last month while the number of pensioners increased 363.

Aid to dependent children totaled $1,349,553 for February, $13,557 more than for last month. There were 293 more families on the rolls and this month's average family check was $52.76, eight cents lower than in January.

Federal funds provide part of the cost of both old age assistance and ADC.

Tough Day For A One-Armed Hitchhiker

TEXARKANA, Tex., Feb. 23—(AP)—A one-armed painter trying to hitchhike from Ashdown, Ark., to Kansas City, Mo., had a rough time of it in this area today.

His trouble stemmed from the fact six escapees from the Boston, Tex., Bowie county jail last night included a one-armed ex-convict, Chris Cooney, 39.

About as soon as the one-armed painter would clear himself with one officer he would be picked up by another.

tinuing drive to choke off the last bit of production.

Sixty-nine West Virginia coal pickets were indicted on charges of strike violence.

Best estimates are that more than 100,000 workers in coal-dependent industries will be laid off by the end of the week.

Dimout in Illinois

A state-wide dimout is ordered in Illinois.

The state commerce commission called for a 25 per cent reduction in electrical power consumption to save coal burned to generate electricity. Organized fuel merchants asked the governor to close all public-non-essential institutions such as schools.

The International Harvester Company said 49,000 workers in Illinoise and Indiana will go on a three-day week Monday to have coal.

Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation began laying off the 23,000 employes in two big Pittsburgh district plants which must close for lack of coal.

Another 40,000 workers in coal dependent industries in the Great Lakes port of Erie, Pa., will be furloughed by the end of the week. That city has an electrical brownout to stretch out a fast fading coal reserve.

A "critically serious" situation was reported in Akron, Ohio.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The house passed today a fair employment practices (FEPC) bill stripped of enforcement provisions.

The vote was 241 to 176.

The bill, far short of what President Truman wanted, now goes to the senate. The house action came after a debate that started at noon yesterday and ran into early this morning.

The bill that finally emerged from the house fell so far short of what Mr. Truman wanted that many of its original supporters refused to vote for it. Southern Democrats opposed it solidly. They were largely responsible for having knocked all the enforcement teeth from the proposal.

It expresses a policy that there should be no discrimination against the minority groups in job opportunities and seeks to avert such discrimination through persuasion and education. It provides no penalties for anyone violating its major provisions.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Nine Missouri representatives, all Democrats, today voted for passage of a house measure for a fair employment practices commission.

They were Bolling, Christopher, Carnahan, Irving, Sullivan, Karst, Karsten and Welch.

Against the measure were Cannon, Jones and McGee, all Democrats and Short, Republican.

Co-Ops Argue On Tax Issue

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Rural Electric Cooperatives told congress today that imposition of income taxes would cripple the farm electrification program.

Witnesses denied arguments that the tax status of co-ops endangers independent business. They fought back against arguments of business groups that they enjoy tax advantages unfair to private enterprises.

Spokesmen for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association told the house ways and means committee that if taxation were imposed on the money handled by these co-ops then the only source of funds to repay rural electrification loans to the government would be through rasins rates charged farmers.

Robert D. Tisinger, general counsel, and Earl F. Wisdom, tax counselor, contended that the electric groups are formed on a non-profit basis and it is the history of income tax laws that non-profit organizations be exempt.

To raise farmers' electric bills, they argued, would cut their use of power and defeat the purpose of the REA program.

Business witnesses told the committee yesterday that the treasury is losing $1,000,000,000 a year in tax revenues on various kinds of co-ops which are "growing at jet-propelled speed." They asserted that co-ops should be taxed like other businesses and that independent businesses are being damaged because of exemptions granted the co-ops.

in highway laws, because certain type trucks are allowed to carry a certain amount of weight over the highways. For instance, a tandem wheel truck is allowed 28,600 pounds, whereas a single wheel drive is allowed a load of 18,000 pounds.

No Arguments

The weighmaster said since he has operated the scales there has been no friction or argument among the customers. He said one has to be careful with the scales and they have to be balanced every day. He added that they have to be checked several times a day during stormy weather, because at that time the platform gets wet and heavy. Just to prove his point, he balanced the heavy scales and then put a dollar bill on the weight end of the scales. The dollar bill caused the weights to fall to the bottom, and when the bill was picked up, the weights lifted into place.

Murder Trial Is Interrupted

Their investigation led to the arrest of seven persons. Emrich and McQuinn were charged with murder. Thomas Beal and Columbus McCrary pleaded guilty to theft of money, Beal receiving five years at Algoa reformatory, and McCrary two years. Earl Emrich, brother of the murder case defendant, received eight years for grand larceny. Raymond Petty was acquitted on a charge of receiving stolen property.

The Hoover brothers' mother, Mrs. Elsie Emrich is expected to go to trial on a charge of receiving stolen money.

Charles Elsman, a cafe operator, testified that Harold Emrich had given $2 worth of obsolete nickles in payment for playing shuffleboard at his cafe. Mrs. Leota Sweatt, Stanberry filling station attendant, said Emrich and McQuinn had offered her a number of silver dollars of an early date for a tire they bought from her.

tremely complicated. The unions have made 13 demands and the railroads 17, chiefly in operating rules.

The unions' main demand is for a 40-hour week instead of the present 48 hours—without a cut in pay—for some 85,000 yard service workers. They have also asked bigger allowances for work away from home and changes in pay-computing bases for train crews.

vestigation and has clothed the Foreign Relations committee with power to subpoena records on investigations into employees' loyalty.

President Truman today branded McCarthy's charges as false and persisted in a refusal to give up such records.

To speed a court test, Wherry said the Foreign Relations committee should subpoena Acheson and direct him to produce the records. If he refused, said Wherry, he should be cited for contempt of the senate.

The next step, Wherry continued, would be for the attorney general to prosecute Acheson and thus bring about "an interpretation of the powers of the senate as the policy making department of the government."
